$100,000 PAID OUT ON INSURANCE BILLS

But Most of It Went for "Legal Expenses," Testify Witnesses at Hotchkiss Inquiry.

GRADY'S NAME BROUGHT IN

Bill He Championed Said to Have Been Put Through After Foreign Fire Companies Gave Up $5,000.

The cost of legislation to the fire companies represented in the New York Board of Fire Underwriters in this State alone was upward of $100,000 in five of the six years between 1900 and 1906. This total showed up in yesterday's session of the fire insurance inquiry as the sum of "legal expenses" in legislative matters incurred directly by the New York Board of Fire Underwriters, or indirectly through representatives of the fire insurance interests, who subsequently collected their expenses by assessment of the companies.

This sum represents only part of the money actually spent; for instance, the evidence does not cover the year 1902 at all and the disbursements of the underwriters for ordinary and routine legal services in connection with legislation are not included. The latter ranged from $3,500 to $6,000 a year.

But despite the enormous total of these payments, showing legislative activity quite commensurate with that of Andy Hamilton and Andy Fields for the life insurance companies, as disclosed in the investigation of 1905, half a dozen prominent fire insurance men called to the stand yesterday had just as much difficulty in remembering what they were for in detail, as did Elijah R. Kennedy, the Brooklynite, who told of distributing $13,311 in 1901.

Here is the list of special legal expenses in connection with matters of legislation, in so far as they have appeared up to date, and concerning which the leading fire insurance men of the city know so little, save that they authorized and subscribed to the payments:

1901.—$13,311 spent by Mr. Kennedy in connection with two tax bills, $5,000 to Republican State Committee, $5,000 in presents to influential Republican politicians, of whom George W. Aldridge was one, and the balance in entertainment of legislators and the cost of visiting delegations.

1903.—$10,000 spent by George P. Sheldon, now dead, then President of the Phenix Life of Brooklyn, who succeeded Mr. Kennedy as dispenser of fire insurance cash at Albany. Fund collected from individual companies; no record or memory of the object of expenditure, except that Sheldon employed as lobbyist William H. Buckley.

1904.—At least $38,000 paid to Davies, Stone & Auerbach for services and disbursements in connection with legislation, of which the foreign companies put up $19,000; $10,000 more to Sheldon, presumably to cover Buckley's activities.

1905.—$15,000 to Sherman & Sterling, the law firm, for services and disbursements in connection with legislation.

1906.—$17,500 to Sherman & Sterling for the same purpose.

Here are the names of the witnesses who added the record of their forgetfulness to that already established by Mr. Kennedy and C. L. Case, the Chairman of the Laws and Legislation Committee of the New York board during several of the years in question:

W. N. Kremer, President of the German-American Insurance Company.

Marshall P. Driggs, President of the Williamsburg City Fire Insurance Company.

F. O. Affeld, manager of the Hamburg-Bremen Fire Insurance Company in the United States.

Col. A. H. Wray, manager of the Commercial Union Insurance Company for the United States.

Elijah H. A. Correa, Vice President of the Home Insurance Company.

Mr. Correa even explained that he never knew a single legislator to speak to; not even John Raines, who, in addition to being majority leader of the Senate, was the local agent of the Home Fire Insurance Company in his home town of Canandaigua.

One thing turned up yesterday to complicate the story that Mr. Kennedy had told on the witness stand and to call for explanations from Frank Price, now a lawyer downtown, but Assemblyman from Mr. Kennedy's district in 1901. There was found in Mr. Kennedy's office a letter from Mr. Price in which one Assemblyman named Rierdon was said to be on his way about the fire insurance companies "looking for light" on bills then pending in the Legislature. Mr. Kennedy said that Rierdon, whom he described as James A. Rierdon of the Second Assembly District of Manhattan, did come to see him, but that the interview was so short and vigorous that he forgot what was said.

Yesterday James A. Rierdon, who was a Tammany Assemblyman from the Second Manhattan District in 1901, went to Mr. Kennedy to deny that he ever "sought any light" on insurance or other legislation or ever visited Mr. Kennedy on any subject whatsoever. Whereat Mr. Kennedy remembered that he had never seen Mr. Rierdon before and hastened to the hearing in the State Insurance Department to set the latter, who is now chief clerk in the Mayor's office, right.

Mr. Kennedy testified when recalled to the stand that the man who visited him and who he had supposed was Assemblyman Rierdon, was a "large, round man with sandy hair." James A. Rierdon is small and dark and spectacled. The two left together yesterday, Rierdon declaring that he was going to seek out Mr. Price and demand why he wrote such a letter.

Vice President Correa of the Home Insurance Company, though denying he knew anything about legislative matters, did relax sufficiently at one time to write a letter to J. B. Branch, President of the Providence-Washington Life Insurance Company of Providence, R. I. The letter was written back in July 2, 1905, and its introduction at yesterday's session served to bring into the inquiry the name of Senator Thomas F. Grady, minority leader of the upper house, in a manner that has interested Supt. William H. Hotchkiss and his counsel, Alfred Hurrell, of the Insurance Department, very much.

The letter was written to give an account of the passage of a bill by the Legislature of 1904 benefiting two foreign companies which make a specialty of reinsurance at the expense of 200 home companies with risks that they sometimes reinsure. The bill was introduced by Senator Grady, and became known as the Grady reinsurance bill. It was opposed by half a dozen home companies, supported by no one but the two foreign reinsurance companies, namely, the Munich Reinsurance and the Rossia Reinsurance Company, and was passed by both houses. It has never been repealed, although Mr. Hotchkiss announced yesterday that his department was going to obtain its repeal at this session of the Legislature.

Here is what Mr. Correa wrote to Mr. Branch about the Grady reinsurance bill:

> We had quite an undertaking last year, and were very successful in killing a couple of very serious bills that presented themselves through the Senate of this State, and we hope with due diligence and exercising every possible effort to be able to protect properly the interests of our associates.
>
> In regard to the Grady Reinsurance act, it may not be out of place for me to give you in perfect confidence a statement which has come to my knowledge and which I conveyed to the committee a short time ago (the Laws and Legislation Committee of the New York Board,) namely, the fact that the Grady bill, having been put through the Legislature by certain reinsurance companies, and having been bought

BOUGHT POISON, SISTER DEAD.

But Catherine Manz, 16, Denies She Administered It.

MASSILLON, Ohio, March 21.—Catherine Manz, the 16-year-old girl who is accused of poisoning her sister Elizabeth, three years her senior, with strychnine because she was jealous over her sister's wardrobe, more brilliant than her own, was arrested to-day at Akron and brought back here to-night.

The body of the elder sister was found in the kitchen of the Manz home Friday night, and simultaneously it was discovered that Catherine had fled, taking with her the best of her sister's clothes.

To-day the girl was found in Akron, where she had applied for work under the name of Ethel Morgan. She faced her accusers calmly, and told them that her sister was dead before she left the house.

The most damaging admission made by the girl is the fact that she purchased strychnine at a local drug store shortly before her sister's death, and also bought a small quantity of chloroform.

The girl says she bought the strychnine for a man, whose name she has so far refused to divulge. This man, she declares, subsequently handed her two capsules, which she says she believed to contain quinine. One of these tablets she laid on the table beside her sister when she left the house on Friday morning. The chloroform she bought for cleaning house.

The mother of the Manz girls has been dead for fifteen years, and according to the father, Catherine has grown up headstrong and absolutely beyond his control. For the past year she has been receiving mail from a large number of young men from surrounding towns.

Her father and two brothers went to the police station to-night and talked with her. They told her that they would have the best lawyers they know to defend her. Her brothers, John and Joe Manz, told the reporters that they did not believe she killed Elizabeth.

She will again be examined by the police in the morning after which she will be arraigned in the police court for a preliminary hearing. If she is bound over to the Grand Jury she will be transferred to Canton.

HATPIN ORDINANCE PASSED.

Chicago Women Cry "Shame!" at Measure Which Regulates Their Dress.

CHICAGO, March 21.—It is now a misdemeanor for any woman to wear a long hatpin in public places in Chicago. Any woman caught wearing one is liable to arrest and a fine of $50. After a month's discussion, the City Council, by a vote of 68 to 2, to-night passed an anti-hatpin ordinance.

It was passed in spite of many hisses and "boos" from the galleries, where a crowd of women had gathered to protest against the measure on the ground that the city had no right to attempt to regulate women's wearing apparel, and that long hatpins often at night formed woman's only weapon of defense.

The ordinance decrees that "no person while in the public streets or any street or elevated car or public elevator or other public place shall wear any hatpin, the exposed point whereof shall protrude more than one-half inch beyond the crown of the hat in, upon, or through which such pin is worn."

It took the legal advisers of the Corporation Counsel's office, the Judiciary Committee of Council, and half a dozen others almost four weeks to get the ordinance ready for passage.

The argument for the measure was that long hatpins worn in crowded places endangered the eyes, noses, and faces of people. When the vote was announced cries of "Shame! Shame!" came from women in the galleries.

EARL GREY AT THE PLAZA.

Canada's Governor General Arrives Here to Spend a Week.

Earl Grey, Governor General of Canada, with Major Trotter, his aid de camp, registered yesterday at the Plaza, and will remain in New York for a week. At the expiration of this time it is understood that the Governor General will visit Washington and confer with President Taft regarding trade relations between this country and the Dominion. W. S. Fielding, the Canadian Minister of Finance, will be in Washington at the same time.

Earl Grey yesterday refused to commit himself as to tariff schedules, and would not even talk of the growth and prosperity of Canada. Major Trotter, in speaking for the Governor General, said he was here for a week's holiday, and that his time would be taken up by social duties.

It was learned yesterday that Earl Grey had received no invitation to attend the peace dinner, which is to take place to-night at the Hotel Astor, with President Taft as the guest of honor.

Among the callers on the Governor General at the Plaza yesterday afternoon was W. R. Baker, Secretary of the Canadian Pacific Railroad and assistant to the President of the road, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy.

DR. MYERS SUED FOR LIBEL.

Former Assistant Wants $50,000 for Alleged False Statements by Pastor.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 21.—The Rev. Dr. Cortland Myers, who as pastor of the First Baptist Church here twelve years ago, attracted attention through a series of sermons on "Roads to Hell in Syracuse," has been sued for libel in the sum of $50,000 by the Rev. Bradford F. Bauder, also a former Syracuse minister, but now of Lyons. Attorney John H. Walrath of this city has drawn a complaint in the action.

The plaintiff asserts that false statements and writings by the defendant have prevented him from securing the pastorate at Bridgeport, Conn.

The "Roads to Hell" series of sermons here won for Dr. Myers a call to the First Baptist Temple of Brooklyn. He was there some years, and two years ago the Rev. Mr. Bauder was called as his assistant. There was friction between them, and Dr. Bauder asserts that Dr. Myers would not let him preach, and that after he left the church Myers repeatedly showed enmity against him. The Rev. Dr. Bauder has earned his livelihood through the insurance business.

TRIES ANTI-TYPHOID VACCINE.

Metchnikoff Succeeds in Inoculating Monkeys for Experimental Purposes.

PARIS, March 21.—Prof. Elie Metchnikoff of the Pasteur Institute announced to the Academy of Sciences to-night that he had succeeded in overcoming the principal obstacle to the preparation of an effective anti-typhoid vaccine.

Heretofore this disease has been incommunicable to the lower animals. Prof. Metchnikoff has now succeeded in inoculating monkeys with the typhoid germ. By this means he has been able to obtain exact symptoms, permitting accurate experiments on the action of his vaccine.

WHITE, JOHN, Des Moines.
WORTHINGTON, Mrs. E. M., Cedar Rapids.
YOUNG, JENNIE, Vinton, Iowa.
UNIDENTIFIED—Seven women, one man, and two girls.

Among the two-score injured, most of whom live in Iowa, are:

Irene Cowan, Waterloo, Iowa; G. W. Thompson, Vinton, Iowa; Lizzie Anderson, Vinton, Iowa; Florence Winn, Waterloo, Iowa; Mrs. L. Patterson, Louisiana, Mo.; Norsa Wilcox, Louisiana, Mo.; Charles Davis, Indland, Minn., probably fatal; P. J. Swift, reporter, Waterlock, Iowa, serious; Dr. G. W. Newman, Mount Vernon, Mo.; P. A. Russell and wife, Grand Forks, Minn.; A. S. McDonald and wife, Perth, N. D.; Mrs. William Teatse, Reinbeck, Iowa; Miss Olga Swanson, Vinton, Iowa, scalp torn nearly off; William Moody, Menominee, Wis.; C. J. Lamb, Chicago, Ill., and N. Jenkins, St. Louis, Mo.

Every surgeon in Marshalltown, Green Mountain, and Gladbrook is doing everything possible in emergency hospitals in Marshalltown to relieve the sufferings of the injured. Around the various undertaking shops the citizens throng with tear-stained faces, each anxious to get some details of those who are within.

Freight Smash Caused Disaster.

A little freight wreck on the Rock Island last night at Shellsburg was the indirect cause of the Green Mountain disaster. The Rock Island line was blocked, and it became necessary to detour over the Great Western tracks. Two trains sent from Cedar Rapids to Marshalltown were coupled together, and the two locomotives placed in front of them. Both locomotives were running backward.

The combined train consisted of thirteen cars. A Pullman was next to the locomotives. Then came the smoking car and a day coach, in the latter of which were many women and children.

The doubled train was going about 25 miles an hour when it reached a cut five miles from Green Mountain, at the top of a hill. In this cut the tender of the front locomotive jumped the track. This threw the head locomotive into the sides of the narrow cut. The clay of the sides was soft and the engine went into it and stopped almost instantly.

The sudden stop ditched the first locomotive and the momentum of the heavy train crushed the day coach and the smoking car against the heavy Pullman. The smoking car and day coach were telescoped, and hardly an occupant of either car escaped death or injury. While the last ten cars remained on the track, the shock threw the passengers sprawling from their seats.

Conductor William Worst dispatched trainmen back to flag a following train. Other trainmen were hurried to Gladbrook and Green Mountain for help.

Removing Dead and Injured.

Uninjured passengers began removing the dead and injured. The dead were taken to an adjoining pasture and laid on the grass. A relief train from Marshalltown, carrying surgeons and Coroner Jay, arrived two hours after the crash. By that time the victims were laid on the grass in rows. The sight that met the eyes of the surgeons was horrible. The dead were crushed and mutilated in many cases beyond recognition. Heads were severed from bodies, arms and legs were cut off; here, lay bleeding trunks; there, a head. A second rescue train relieved the first, which brought a load of injured to Marshalltown.

Coroner Jay was hastening in a Red Cross ambulance to the hospital in Marshalltown when he was thrown to the pavement as the ambulance rounded a corner and rendered unconscious. It is believed that his back is broken and that he cannot live. The hospital in Marshalltown was soon filled. Then other buildings were pressed into service. The removal of bodies showed that nearly all the dead were in the day coach and the smoking car. It is believed that only two of the dead were in the Pullman.

So complete was the destruction of the smoking car that not a single upright was standing. The floor alone remained, as a mute witness of the frightful impact of the car ahead. The day coach likewise was torn almost to splinters. The baggage car, which was behind the day coach, was jammed in the front but was not torn to pieces.

Before dark the bodies of all the victims were removed, either to St. Thomas Hospital or to morgues.

By morning it is expected the track will be cleared and train service may be renewed.

The body of Prof. L. W. Parrish of Cedar Falls, teacher in economics at the State Teachers' College, was one of the first to be taken from the ruins. Mortally wounded, he was rushed toward the hospital, but he died in the ambulance.

Miller Parrish of Cedarville, Mo., was also a victim. Dr. J. W. Devroy of Chicago and Dr. Dunham of Sioux Falls were physicians on the train. Although injured themselves, they turned their atten-

RENOUNCES OPERA CAREER FOR HUSBAND

RETURNS FROM ITALY

Was Discovered in Chicago by Mme. Jane Noria, and Assisted to Go Abroad by Prominent Singers.

Miss Mary Lasalle, the young singer from Beatrice, Neb., who was sent abroad less than six weeks ago by several society women of New York to study grand opera, and whose prospective career was backed by the Metropolitan Opera Company, returned yesterday on the Cedric from Italy to become the wife of Max Rabinoff, a young Chicago impresario.

When the ship docked Miss Lasalle fairly ran down the gangplank to meet Mr. Rabinoff, who had been pacing nervously up and down the pier. Friends said they will marry within a few days, terminating for the time being, so they declare, her preparation for grand opera. She will continue to study, but not, as formerly, as the protégé of the New York society women and prominent singers at the Metropolitan. Before Miss Lasalle sailed for Italy she said:

"I go to Florence, Italy, to study for a year under Mr. Lombardi. It will be a year of hard work, but I look forward to the days and nights of study for a répertoire that will enable me to make my opera début at the Metropolitan. I would rather sing than do anything else in the world."

Chose Marriage Rather Than Study.

It was not given out at that time, however, that Miss Lasalle was engaged to Mr. Rabinoff, whom she first met two years ago while studying in Chicago. No sooner had she reached Florence, so her friends say, than she began to receive cablegrams from Mr. Rabinoff to come back and become his wife.

For a time, it is said, Miss Lasalle wavered betwixt love and study, but decided at last to return to join her fiancé. Few, if any, of her friends in society or at the Metropolitan are cognizant of the fact that she is now in this country.

H. R. Rabinoff, a brother of the young impresario, arrived at the Hotel Knickerbocker yesterday from Chicago to attend the wedding. Miss Lasalle is staying at a hotel uptown, where she hopes no one will recognize her until after the wedding.

Discovered by Mme. Noria.

Miss Lasalle has a coloratura soprano voice, which instantly won favor at the Metropolitan when she sang for Mr. Gatti-Casazza and Mr. Dippel. She was a guest before sailing for Italy of Mme. Jane Noria, who induced her to come to this city after hearing her sing in Chicago.

Max Rabinoff has been conducting the Sunday evening concerts at the Auditorium in Chicago all Winter, and is comparatively a young man. He came to this city Sunday to be at the pier when the Cedric docked.

Among the prominent women in society who were instrumental in sending Miss Lasalle abroad was Mrs. Frederick Vanderbilt. The wives of several of the Directors of the Metropolitan Opera Company were also interested in her operatic career, and the young singer from Nebraska soon became a favorite at the drawing room concerts in Fifth Avenue.

FALLS ON TRACKS WITH BABY.

Woman Drops from Platform Between Two Trains, but Escapes Unhurt.

Mrs. Helen Franklin, 26 years old, carrying her six-months-old baby in her arms, accidentally fell off the Subway platform of the Long Island Railroad at the Flatbush Avenue station, Brooklyn, to the roadbed, a drop of four feet, between two trains standing on the tracks yesterday afternoon. Neither the woman nor the baby were seriously injured, though there was a stir among the waiting passengers caused by a quick rumor that mother and child had fallen under the wheels.

Mrs. Franklin suffered only from shock and slight contusions. She escaped contact with the third rail, as did the baby. Both were helped to the platform by railroad employes, and an ambulance from the Swedish Hospital was summoney. The baby received a few scratches. Mrs. Franklin was taken to the home of her mother, Mrs. Catherine Kellett, at 571 Warren Street. She lives at 22 Tompkins Place, Brooklyn.

DIVES TO SAVE WORKMAN.

Son of Yacht Builder Jumps from Masthead to Aid Drowning Man.

Clement Gould Amory, son of J. J. Amory, President of the Charles L. Seabury Company, yacht builders, who has been working as a laborer in the plant at 177th Street and Harlem River to learn the business, yesterday afternoon dived into the Harlem River and rescued a workman who had fallen overboard.

Young Amory swam with the unconscious man to the dock in the shipbuilding yards and then called an ambulance from Fordham Hospital.

Amory and Andrew Oberliall, a cabinet maker of 207 East Ninety-fifth Street, were removing the deck covering of a yacht moored to the dock in the Harlem River, when Oberliall lost his footing and plunged head first to the deck of the yacht fifteen below. Striking on his head, he rolled along the slanting deck into the water.

Amory heard his companion fall, and dived after him. An ambulance from Fordham Hospital brought Dr. Hoy, who said that Oberliall had a fractured skull and would probably die.

TO REGULATE COLD STORAGE.

Mayor Gaynor Will Review Recent Aldermanic Ordinance.

Mayor Gaynor will hold a public hearing in his office at City Hall to-morrow morning on the cold-storage order recently passed by the Aldermen.

It provides for the stamping of all large pieces of cold-storage food with the dates of entering and extraction, and a similar stamping of the "receptacles" of fish, game, and small pieces of food.

ROOSEVELT GREETED BY FOLKS FROM HOME

Some Americans Tell Him at Luxor That He Must Be President Again.

SEES KARNAK BY MOONLIGHT

Visits the Temple of Ammon—Has Many Engagements in Cairo, Where He Is Due Thursday.

By JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN,
Former Assistant Secretary of State.

Copyright, 1910, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

LUXOR, Egypt, March 21.—"All Iowa wants you back in the White House," was the greeting of an Iowa man to Col. Roosevelt as he descended from the train after the long and tiresome journey from Shellal to-day. Col. Roosevelt shook hands with his adherent and smiled, then turned to greet another tourist.

"I'm a Nebraskan," the latter exclaimed.

"I am glad to see an Nak-San-Ben, even if he is so far from home," replied Col. Roosevelt.

"I'm a 'Friscan," cried another.

"Good!" said Col. Roosevelt, "I have many pleasant recollections of your city. I made an address there."

"I heard it," said the Californian. "I would like to see what you shot."

"You'll see the elephant, which I intend to send to the University of California," Col. Roosevelt announced.

Others pressed around, bringing up their families. English and Egyptian officials extended greetings, and one enthusiastic admirer presented Mrs. Roosevelt and Ethel with a bunch of flowers on behalf of America. Lewis M. Iddings, American Consul General at Cairo, followed by a gold-faced dragoman, pushed his way through the crowd and warmly greeted the ex-President on his return to civilization, both as an official and as an old friend.

The carriage furnished by the Italian Consul was the first used by Col. Roosevelt since his exit from the jungle. It conveyed him and his wife to the hotel where, after dinner on the veranda, he gave an informal reception to a hundred Americans. One after another shook his hand and said they were glad to see him back looking so well. Then they gave three cheers.

"What's the matter with Roosevelt?" they shouted.

"He's all right," was the answer.

"All I have to say," Col. Roosevelt remarked, smiling characteristically, "is that I'd like to give three cheers for each of you from California, through Idaho and Nebraska and Iowa and Illinois, clear to Massachusetts, and for the States from which you hail."

Accompanied by his wife, Ethel, Kermit, and Director of Antiquities Wiegall, he then visited Karnak. Col. Roosevelt was here thirty-seven years ago, when Luxor was without hotels, and he described it then as a scene of barbaric beauty. To-night that recollection paled before the magnificence of the sight. A half moon, occasionally obscured by the clouds, the first Col. Roosevelt had seen for months, bathed the ruins in soft light, lending a fairy touch to the scene.

"It is beautiful," Col. Roosevelt exclaimed as he strolled through the temple of Ammon, which is considered the most superb creation of an age peculiarly noted for its architectural creations.

The Roosevelts spent more than an hour inspecting the ruins and were particularly impressed with the avenue of sphinxes, the giant pylons, and Cleopatra's needle.

He will stay here to-morrow and Wednesday visiting various ruins and also addressing the members of the missionary station. He will arrive Thursday in Cairo, where he will have a constant succession of engagements. The Khédive of Egypt will pay the unusual honor of sending his state carriage to convey Col. Roosevelt to the palace. Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by Mrs. Iddings, will call on the Khédive. Various dinners and receptions will be given, the former by the Khédive's heir apparent and the latter by the British Diplomatic Agent, Sir Eldon Gorst, and by Mr. Iddings. Col. Roosevelt intends to strike out from the shoulder in his address to the University of Egypt, when he will dwell upon the importance of the maintenance of the present régime.

Col. Roosevelt left Shellal at 10 o'clock this morning and stopped at Assouan, where a crowd shook hands with him, among them the English and native officials, missionaries, and a few tourists. Speaking characteristically in one conversation, he said:

"There is only one way a man can permanently be helped, and that is by helping him to help himself."

He told a missionary that he belonged to the Dutch Reformed Church by inheritance, and felt that it was far stronger on the ethical and spiritual side of Christianity than by dogma.

He was joined on the train by President McClenahan, head of Assiut College, with whom he discussed missionary work in Egypt, the capacity of the Egyptians to govern themselves, and general conditions. The day was spent quietly while the train steamed across the desert.

Col. Roosevelt learned here that Prince Eitel Frederick, son of the Kai-

GERMANY CODDLES ARGENTINA

Fund Provided for Extension of German Culture There and Elsewhere.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, March 21.—Germany's interest in South America was manifested afresh to-day by the announcement that Herr Von Waldthausen, former German Minister at Buenos Ayres, had placed $50,000 at the disposal of the Kaiser for the extension of German culture and philanthropy in Argentina, Uruguay, and Paraguay. Von Waldthausen ranks as the richest man in the German diplomatic service.

The Kaiser is about to pay a special compliment to Argentina by deputing the famous German strategist, Gen. Von der Goltz, creator of the modern Turkish Army, to represent him at the celebration of the centenary of Argentina's independence at Buenos Ayres this Summer.

5-FOOT LIBRARY A RUM SHOP.

All of Miss Higgins's Books Held Liquor—She Is Arrested.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, March 21.—Miss Annie Higgins has a "five-foot library" shelf in her lodging house in Tremont Street which was well filled with the works of well-known authors until Policeman Mantell paid a visit to the house to-day. Mantell is a book-loving man, and as he was leaving the house he took a volume of Dante's "Inferno" from the shelf.

When he pressed its sides in his eager clasp it opened up and displayed a bottle of the best "red eye." "Elizabeth and Her German Garden" brought forth a crop of "rock and rye"; "The History of Our Country", and "The People's Home Physician" all contained liquid messages to the outside world.

BANKER BREAKS FROM JAIL.

Indiana Man Accused of Horse Stealing Assaults Turnkey and Escapes.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 21.—Robert Green, a former banker of Waynetown, Ind., who was awaiting trial at Elyria, Ohio, on the charge of stealing a horse, and George Wolfe, jailed on the same charge, assaulted Turnkey Van Duzen today with an iron bar and escaped.

Van Duzen is said to be dying.

BODIES FROM PRINS WILLEM.

Washed Up on French Coast with Oars and Other Wreckage.

L'ORIENT, France, March 21.—Two unidentified bodies, a life buoy marked "Prins Willem II.," several oars, and much miscellaneous wreckage, were washed up on the shore at Belle Isle today.

The Prins Willem II., belonging to the Royal Dutch West Indian Mail Line, sailed from Amsterdam for West Indian ports and New York on Jan. 21. Several articles from the steamer were picked up at sea near Belle Isle a week ago.

STARS SAY LOST MAN LIVES.

Astrologer Tells Friends of Mrs. Davenport Husband Will Return.

Charles H. Davenport, the paper manufacturer of South Hadley Falls, Mass., whose son, Charles H. Davenport, Jr., disappeared from this city on Feb. 10, returned to town yesterday to continue the search for his missing son.

When seen at the Hotel Belmont the father said that not one real clue as to his son's fate had been discovered despite his offer of $500 reward for his recovery, dead or alive.

Mr. Davenport said that friends of his son's wife had consulted an astrologist, who told them the young man is still alive and that he will appear within twenty-one days. Mr. Davenport says he will stay in the city until the time is up, if only to give some hope to the grief-stricken wife.

SENDS SOME PEARY RECORDS.

Nagel Advises Committee Entire Tidal Observations Are Too Bulky.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—As the Inter-State and Foreign Commerce Committee was preparing to-day to order a favorable report of the Hughes resolution directing the Coast and Geodetic Survey to make public the tidal observations of Commander Robert E. Peary while in the arctic, the committee received a communication from Secretary Nagel transmitting a portion of the data.

Secretary Nagel informed the committee that Commander Peary's record of his soundings in polar seas comprised twenty-two immense volumes, which are entirely too bulky and complex to lay before the House in their entirety. He suggested a résumé of the observations, the last of which were made within five miles of the pole.

The committee, in view of the Secretary's voluntary offer, tabled the Hughes resolution for the present.

LOST $1,050 GOING TO BANK.

Woman Had It in Envelope, Pinned Inside Her Waist, on Leaving Home.

Mrs. Albert Dryfuss, who has a butcher shop at 674 Eleventh Avenue, reported to the police of the West Forty-seventh Street Station yesterday that while going to an East Fourteenth Street bank yesterday morning she lost $1,050 which she had intended to deposit. Before leaving the store she pinned the envelope containing the money inside her waist, and when she reached the bank it was gone.

Mrs. Dryfuss recalled that an elderly man helped her to board a car at Thirty-fourth Street and Third Avenue. She took her two young children to the bank with her, carrying one in her arms and the other beside her.

Wants $170,000 to Repair Sub-Treasury

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Acting Secretary of the Treasury Norton submitted an estimate to the House to-day asking for an appropriation of $350,000 for needed repairs to the Treasury Building in Washington and the Sub-Treasury in New York. Mr. Norton simply stated that $180,000 is needed to make necessary interior and exterior repairs to the Treasury here, and $170,000 for similar purposes in New York at the Sub-Treasury.

PITTSBURG GRAFTERS HASTEN TO CONFESS

INDICTMENTS AGAINST 41

Klein's Confession Appears to Have Spread Terror in the Council—His Sentence May Be Suspended.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, March 21.—As a result of the confession of ex-Councilman John Klein, who made good his threat to "pull the props out and let the sky fall," because the Councilmanic gang refused to guarantee $60 a month to his family while he was in jail, ten men took advantage of District Attorney William A. Blakeley's offer of clemency and confessed in court to-day their share in the graft proceedings in the Council. At 10 o'clock to-night the Grand Jury, after a session of twelve hours, returned true bills against forty-one persons in connection with the graft cases.

Ten who confessed were dismissed under suspended sentence. Forty other Councilmen and business men of Pittsburg are expected to follow their example tomorrow.

Those who confessed to-day were:

Dr. W. H. Weber, a member of the Select Council, who admitted having accepted $10,000 and disbursed part of it among other Councilmen.

Thomas McGrath, a member of the Common Council, who confessed that he received a $150 bribe from Councilman Klein. He was ordered by the court to hand in his resignation as Councilman at once, and he obeyed.

Jesse H. Sheasley, ex-Common Councilman, who had been indicted by the Grand Jury for receiving $200 from Klein, pleaded nolo contendere, and sentence was suspended.

N. F. Savage, ex-Common Councilman, admitted receiving $200 from Klein.

Frank Bonini, a wealthy fruit merchant and member of the Council, confessed to having accepted $80.10 for his vote.

J. H. Purnell, ex-Common Councilman, confessed to having taken $200 for his vote.

Isaac Mathias, ex-Councilman, admitted without being asked that he had taken $80.20 for his vote.

William Bader, ex-member of the Select Council, charged with having accepted $150 for his vote, made no denial.

The case of Mathias furnished a good example of the terror which appears to have overtaken the guilty in Pittsburg. It was not until nearly noon when Mathias came into the courtroom, trembling like a leaf. He tried to edge his way up to the bar, but was stopped, as there were several other Councilmen in line to be heard. He told Assistant District Attorney Warren Seymour that he had come to make a statement to the court.

"We are too busy to hear your statement," said Mr. Seymour.

"You may—"

Seymour got no further. Mathias fairly dropped on his knees to the floor. He wanted to confess to the Assistant District Attorney then and there, and it was with difficulty that he was made to understand he was not too late, that he would have an opportunity to confess later in the day. He declined to leave the courtroom and waited for hours until his case camt up.

The confession of Webber was the feature of the day. Dr. Webber, who is one of the leading spirits of the south side, had been considered above reproach. When Councilman Klein reached the District Attorney's office from his prison in the Fort Pitt Hotel this morning he called up Dr. Webber and was heard to say:

"You had better come into the band wagon, doctor, and save yourself a long term, for he has the goods on you. Yes, I told them all about it, and gave up the documents, so you have no show."

When the physician reached the Court House with his attorney some hours later he appeared to have aged twenty-five years. He asked for a hearing before the Grand Jury, which was granted, and he later appeared before the court on advice of his attorney. He made a full confession saying he had received $10,000 from a certain source the names of which had been given the Grand Jury, and that he had disbursed it under instructions. He had given $6,000 of it to Klein, he said, for his Councilmen, and had divided the remaining $4,000 among forty other Councilmen. In this connection he mentioned such prominent ex-Councilmen as Toole, Frederick, Zollinger, Stewart, Kearns, Sweeney, Edwards, Schad, McKelvey, Manion, and Lisbon, each of whom is now a well-known business man of this city.

While before the Grand Jury Dr. Weber had been unable to remember all the men to whom he had paid money, but he checked them up by having the list of Councilmen read to him from a city manual.

How the Money Was Passed.

The ways in which the money was delivered to them were many, as described by the confessing Councilmen. Some had it thrust into their hands while standing in public places, some received it in the mail, while others had envelopes adroitly slipped into their pockets while they admired adjacent buildings.

John Klein, who, by his confession, has uncovered the biggest municipal scandal ever unearthed in the country, will not be taken to the penitentiary to-morrow, nor for some days. He is badly needed by the District Attorney, and there is rumor that his sentence may be suspended altogether.

The Philosophy of Klein.

Klein had this to say about his attorneys:

"You know there is supposed to be honor among thieves, but I stood it as long as I could. When the highest court in the State refuses to hear your appeal they can't help you much.

"I followed the advice of my attorneys and I served a thirty-day sentence in jail for contempt in following their advice. I also paid for the advice they gave me which landed me in jail. Now, I believe that when your attornews cannot help you any further a man had better try to help himself and his family as well as do something for the public."

There is rumor to-night that one of the surprises which will be sprung by District Attorney Blakeley is the fact that Dallas G. Byers, the wealthy Pittsburg steel man, who was supposed to have died abroad some months ago, is not dead.

and that another body was shipped from Switzerland and buried here as that of Byers, who was indicted for bribing Pittsburg Councils.

Details of Klein's confession are leaking out bit by bit. In one part of it Klein tells how he and President William Brand of the Pittsburg Common Councils, who is now under conviction also, had more money than they knew well what to do with, and so decided to buy up a few resorts in the Pittsburg tenderloin. Brand was known as one of the really religious and abstemious members of Councils.

Klein says they paid $5,000 cash for absolute ownership of one resort, and their hold on the "official bottlers" enabled them to conduct the place more economically than any of their competitors. Says Klein:

"I finally got in a hole financially and went to Brand and borrowed $2,500 from him, giving as security my share in the den we were running. Before I could settle with him he found another Pittsburg man of business who wanted to buy the establishment, and he unloaded it for $7,500. This appeared all right, but when I came to have a settlement with Brand he gave me the laugh, telling me I had sold out to him. He still owes me my share of the $2,500 profit that he made on our venture. I'll take it out of his hide when I catch him down in the penitentiary some day, though."

Klein insists to this day that had President Brand only "played fair" in the matter of distribution of funds, all would have been well. That Brand was caught red-handed in the act of withholding $40,000 from a graft of $60,000, dividing up only $20,000 among the others, has come out. Brand got a severe body beating at the hands of Klein and others by whom he had been inveigled on to a river boat owned by Klein, but it did not get the Councilmen any of the missing $40,000. On learning positively that the $60,000 had been paid by the briber, Klein insisted that the work paid for, must be done, though all the money had not reached those for whom it had been intended.

"We must uphold our honor," said Klein to his fellow-Councilmen. "We have promised to put that measure through, and must do so, even though one of our party proves to be dishonest and won't give us each all of our bit."

With great glee Klein and some of his friends tell that Brand later lost most of this $40,000 in a stock market speculation.

District Attorney William A. Blakeley gave out a statement to the public tonight in which he says:

"I have in my possession a complete, detailed confession from John F. Klein. The confession has been corroborated in many of the minutest details. The distribution was made among so large a number of the members of Councils, and in such small sums, as to indicate that they had no part in the conspiracy, and were being used as tools or pawns by those chiefly responsible.

"It was deemed in the interest of the administration of justice, therefore, to offer to those Councilmen who will come forward and promptly and frankly admit the receipt of money where they have received the same, suspended sentence, and where they are at present members of Councils, to demand their resignations."

BULLDOG ATTACKS A CHILD.

"Rough," Set to Watch for Intruders, Fails to Recognize Owner's Cousin.

Solomon Ziskind, who has a wholesale leather store at 2,305 Second Avenue, keeps a big brindle English bulldog called Rough, for his methods with undesirable intruders, in the yard behind his store. Rough was never chained, but had the free run of the yard. He had a very respectable reputation in the neighborhood for his steadfast antipathy to burglars.

Last evening, ten-year-old Solomon Ziskind, Jr., with his ten-year-old cousin, Bernard Romm of 436 East 118th Street, was playing tag among the crates and boxes that littered the yard. The dog lay huddled in the shadow in a corner. He knew the Ziskind boy and didn't mind him, but his eyes followed the Romm boy wherever he went. Suddenly, the boy, dodging to escape his cousin, stumbled over the dog and fell. In another moment Rough leaped growling upon the little fellow, grabbed his right leg, and began to chew and tear at it.

The boy screamed, and kicked violently to get the animal off, but the dog, aroused the more by his struggles, only fought more fiercely, snapping at his struggling arms and face. The Ziskind boy, rushing up at the first cries of his playmate, tore at the dog and tried to beat and kick him away, but the infuriated animal seemed not even to notice him, and grew only wilder in his attack upon the prostrate boy. In a moment he had snapped at the boy's face and began to chew it.

Hearing the child's frantic screams, the elder Ziskind rushed out of the store just as Policeman Traynor of the East 126th Street Station, with several neighbors, came running into the yard. With clubs the uncle and the policeman beat off the dog, which now, hearing for the first time a voice he knew, slunk into a corner of the yard and hid between two boxes.

Ziskind carried the boy in his arms to the Sydenham Hospital, two blocks away, where he was put on an operating table by Dr. Wolkowitz and Dr. Kramer. For two hours they worked over him, finding ever more and more horrible injuries. His right arm had been torn in several places. There were six deep rents in his right cheek and ten upon his head. His right calf was chewed literally into shreds. The wounds were finally cauterized and bound up; but the boy has only a slight chance to recover.

The bulldog is not thought to have been mad, but the Board of Health was notified, and the animal will be examined for rabies to-day.

GEORGE CABOT LEE DEAD.

Banker Was Father of First Wife of ex-President Roosevelt.

BOSTON, March 21.—George Cabot Lee, whose late daughter, Alice Hathaway Lee, became the wife of former President Theodore Roosevelt, died at his home, 264 Beacon Street, late to-night. Mr. Lee had been for many years connected with the banking firm of Lee, Higginson & Co., and manager of the Union Safe Deposit Vaults. He leaves a son, George C. Lee, Jr., also connected with Lee, Higginson & Co.

tion to other injured, and worked faithfully.

I. P. Clark, conductor on the Pullman, was in an upper berth, but aside from a few bruises he was not injured.

C. W. Moir of Walla Walla, Wash., was in a lower berth in one of the Pullman coaches nearest the rear of the train.

"I did not realize it was a wreck," said he. "It sounded as though a man had thrown a brick on the floor. In front of our car were the mail and baggage cars. Ahead of these the smoker and Pullman. I looked out and saw the engine overturn. It did not feel like a wreck. I saw some terrible things. One man's skull was cut off above the eyes. Another had been driven head first into a window. The glass was broken and was cutting him where his head rested on the sill and under an awful weight above. He cried for some one to kill him. I found a stick and broke the glass under his cheek where it lay on the sill, and the man's lower jaw with the bone and five or six teeth in it fell on the ground at my feet.

"There was an old man running about pleading for us to rescue his son. He was badly hurt himself, but he pleaded and wept for aid to bring his son out of the débris. I saw the son later when he was brought out. He was cut in two. We had the body kept away from the father and let the old man believe his son was still in the wreck."

Miss Mae Hoffman of Waterloo was one of a party of three couples who were starting out on a pleasure trip. She was crushed and mangled. Several months ago she took third prize in a National beauty contest.

George W. Downing of Vinton was in the smoker, the third car from the locomotive. He was pinned down under a seat.

"The first I knew," he said, "the Pullman car came right back through ours. Two men sitting in front of me were crushed to death, and I and my companion were down on the bottom, with what seemed like the world piled on top of us.

"We were sitting in a double seat. A man sat facing us. He and the seat came crashing back on us and flattened us to the floor. There we lay under a living man and two dead men, whose blood ran down on us through the wreckage."

$50,000,000 BOND SALE SUCCESSFUL

440 SEPARATE BIDDERS

The sale of the $50,000,000 issue of 4¼ per cent. fifty-twenty-year bonds by the city yesterday was comparatively successful despite the many doleful prognostications. The issue was oversubscribed many times, and the bonds were sold at on average price of 101.28, giving an income basis of 4.15.

Compared with recent issues, it was generally stated last night that the result was all that could be expected. The 4¼ bond is a new one in New York City issues. All the bonds that have been offered to the market by the city in recent years have been at 4 per cent., except directly after the panic of 1907, when two issues of 4½ per cent. were put out.

The 50-20 year feature is also new. This means that the city can retire the bonds at pleasure after twenty years. These things must be taken into consideration in arriving at a comparative estimate of the success of the issue. Many people have stated that the latter feature was somewhat of an objectionable one.

There was a total of 440 bidders, their estimates aggregating in the neighborhood of $195,000,000. More than half of the bids were successful.

Several Bids for Millions.

The highest single bid was submitted in the name of John W. Wise, who asked for $2,000 at 105. There were several bids at par and just above it, the largest being submitted in the name of Ralph, Garfield & Co. on $10,000,000 at par.

The largest total bid was made by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., who asked for $15,000,000 in lots of $1,000,000 and $1,500,000 at prices running from 100.33 to 101.34. The firm received $4,000,000 worth of the bonds. Speyer & Co. bid on $10,000,000 in lots of $2,000,000 at prices from 100.98 to 101.18. They may get a small allotment.

The National Bank of Commerce and the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company also received awards of $4,000,000 each with Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Other successful bidders were:

Kuhn, Loeb & Co.	$4,000,000
Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co.	2,170,000
New York Life Insurance Co.	800,000
National Bank of Commerce	4,000,000
Bankers' Trust Company	1,000,000
Farmers' Loan and Trust Company	4,000,000
Equitable Life Assurance Society	2,000,000
American Exchange National Bank	1,000,000
William Salomon & Co.	2,200,000
Bond & Goodwin	1,100,000
J. & W. Seligman & Co.	2,000,000
Boissevain & Co.	1,500,000
Seligman Brothers, London	1,015,500
Probst, Wetzler & Co.	1,000,000
Brown Brothers & Co.	1,000,000

Purposes of the Issue.

The purposes to which the money obtained by the issue will be placed are, $32,000,000 for miscellaneous municipal expenses, the largest items being $20,000,000 for land awards, &c., $3,000,000 to meet uncollectible tax deficiency, $2,500,000 for schools, and $2,000,000 for bridges; $12,000,000 for water supply, principally on the Catskill system, and $6,000,000 for rapid transit, including payments on the old Subway, the bridge loop, and the Fourth Avenue route, now in course of construction.

Controller Prendergast stated before leaving his office, where he waited while his accountants were tabulating the bids, that he was satisfied with the issue. Other city officials earlier in the afternoon expressed themselves similarly.

As this is the first issue of the new administration and a record one in size, all the members of the City Government were anxious to have it turn out satisfactorily. Unusual efforts have been taken during the last few weeks to impress upon the public the solidity of the city's credit, and the Mayor has spoken several times in public on the matter.

When the issue was first decided upon, the Mayor and the Controller were informed by Wall Street that if the bonds were put out at 4 per cent. the sale would be a failure.

A Compromise Effected.

It was not contended that a small issue of 4 per cents. could not be floated, but notice was definitely served that a $50,000,000 issue at this rate would not find buyers.

A meeting of the Sinking Fund Commission was hastily called by the Mayor and the matter was taken up. Wall Street wanted a 4½ per cent. rate, but the administration decided that after its assurances to the public it could not allow this. A 4¼ per cent. rate was compromised on with the incorporation of the 20-year feature as an alleviation of what must be considered a dictation from Wall Street.

The last issue of bonds by the city was on Dec. 10 of last year, when $12,500,000 in fifty-year 4 per cents were sold at an average price of 100.34, an income basis of 3.98. The previous issue of $40,000,000 in 4s in June brought an average price of 100.71, a 3.95 basis. In March of last year $10,000,000 in similar bonds were sold at an average of 101.57, a basis of 3.93.

The last issue of 4s, in November, 1908, was of $12,500,000, which brought an average price of 102.38. The panic 4½ per cent. bonds, $50,000,000, sold in February, 1908, and $40,000,000 in September, 1907, brought average prices of 104 and 102.06, respectively. Three and a half per cents. were sold in 1903 from 102 to 104.56.

Controller Prendergast stated last night that he expects that the money obtained yesterday will provide for the city's expenditures until Fall.

Other Features of Issue.

Nearly every bond house of importance in the city submitted bids on the issue. There was no personal bid from J. P. Morgan & Co., but it is probable that several of the bids from their allied concerns were in their behalf. It was also said that several foreign banking houses had bid on the issue through their representatives in this city.

Another new feature of this issue is that both the principal and interest are payable in pounds sterling and francs at the prevailing rate of exchange. This is the first time in the history of the city that this practice has been made applicable to the principal of the bonds.

Several bids were submitted yesterday from charitable institutions, societies, and private individuals, one of the most interesting being that of the Independent Order of B'rith Abraham on $50,000 at 101.

Crowd at Bid Opening.

Mayor Gaynor and all the members of the Sinking Fund Commission, including City Chamberlain Hyde, President Mitchel of the Aldermen, and Alderman Dowling, Chairman of the Aldermen's Finance Committee, were present at the opening of the bids, which was in the Controller's office in the Stewart Building. Long before the hour set, 2 P. M., however, the room was crowded with the representatives of Wall Street houses and spectators.

When the Mayor entered he was greeted with a cheer. The members of the Controller's staff had bought him a silver paper cutter in honor of the occasion, and it was presented to him by Deputy Controller Fisher. With it the Mayor opened the first bid, which was from Gilman & Clucas.

The work was not finished until after 5 o'clock. The accountants of the Department of Finance were still working on the final awards at midnight. They will not be ready for publication until late to-day.

Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co. bid for $6,840,000 from par up to 101.265.

R. L. Day & Co. bid for $30,000 at 101.26, $25,000 at 101.15, $165,000 at 101.078, $10,000 at 101, $25,000 at 100.95, $60,000 at 100.88, $270,000 at 100.807, $5,000 at 100.79, $5,000 at 100.76, $10,000 at 100.75, $375,000 at 101.072, $14,000 at 100.65, $35,875 at 100.63, $370,000 at 100.537, $5,000 at 100.52, $5,000 at 100.41, $350,000 at 100.403, $460,000 at 100.268.

ser, was due to arrive at Luxor soon, and he immediately sent a telegram expressing his regret that his arrangements prevented him from seeing him, as he would like to tell him of his hunt. He asked the Prince to convey his regards to the Princess and their imperial Majesties.

BUSY DAYS AHEAD IN CAIRO.

Dinners, Receptions, and Addresses Planned—Roosevelt to Attend Church.

LUXOR, Egypt, March 21.—Col. Roosevelt will be kept busy after he reaches Cairo on Thursday. Besides an exchange of visits between him and the Khédive, he will call on Prince Ahmed Fouad, the Khédive's uncle, and the rector of the University of Egypt. The Sirdar, Major Gen. Sir Francis Wingate, will pay his respects to the ex-President, and in the meantime Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Roosevelt, accompanied by Mrs. Iddings, wife of the American Consul General, will go to the palace of Kubba to pay a visit to the Khédiva. From there they will drive to the Mena House, where apartments have been reserved for the members of Col. Roosevelt's party. The pyramids will be visited in the evening.

Most of Friday will be taken up with a trip to the catacombs of Sakkara, where Mr. Quibell, a noted Egyptologist, will meet the Roosevelt party and describe the points of most historic note. The party will keep on to the Nile and will return to Cairo by steam launch, visiting the Zoological Gardens on the way and dining with Sir Eldon Gorst, the British Agent and Consul General in Egypt.

Consul General Iddings will give a dinner at his home in honor of Col. Roosevelt on Saturday evening, and at the reception the Government Ministers, Princes, and prominent people of Cairo will have an opportunity of meeting the ex-President.

Col. Roosevelt will follow his custom at home, which has been interrupted during the last year, of attending church on Sunday morning. He and Mrs. Roosevelt will dine with Sirdar and Lady Wingate at the Sirdar's bungalow. This will be purely a family affair.

On Monday a delegation from the Geographical Society, which entertained Stanley and Livingstone many years ago, will call on Col. Roosevelt and present him with an address. The former President will proceed to the University of Egypt, where he will make a speech. He will lunch at the American Mission with the Rev. Dr. Watson, and his wife will then dedicate the new Girls' College of the American Mission. In the evening he will attend a charity performance given under the auspices of the Ladies' Diplomatic Corps.

Baron von Hatzfeldt-Wildenburg, once First Secretary of the German Embassy at Washington, is now Minister at Cairo, and Col. Roosevelt will be his guest for a short time before his departure for Alexandria, from which port the steamer will be taken on March 30 for Naples.

TO LECTURE IN CALIFORNIA.

Roosevelt Will Deliver a Course in the Spring of 1911.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21.—President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California returned last night from Berlin.

WOULD INVESTIGATE ALBANY 'RETAINERS'

Assemblyman Bennett Proposes Inquiry Into Outside Activities of Legislators.

BUT CONKLIN OUTDOES HIM

His Bill Would Make Such Services a Penal Offense—Scheme to Prevent Investigation, Bennett Says.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 21.—An investigation of the "retainer" system, which has been in vogue here from time immemorial for the benefit particularly of legislators and State officials with pulls, is provided for in a bill introduced to-night by Assemblyman William M. Bennett of New York.

Just now this is a very delicate subject with the machine element in the Legislature. Some of the most startling disclosures in the Allds investigation have had to do with the workings of this system. Mr. Bennett is not on good terms with the machine as it is. His action tonight has rendered him, if possible, more unpopular. His bill made the machine men squirm.

Possibly by coincidence, but, according to Mr. Bennett, with a view to stave off the threatened investigation, a bill was put in simultaneously to make beneficiaries under the "retainer" system in the Legislature or the State Departments amenable to the Penal Code. This bill was fathered by Assemblyman Conklin of New York, who is recognized as the "regular" leader of the Republican delegation from Manhattan and the Bronx.

"My bill is the thing to pass," said Mr. Conklin. "It disposes of the entire question by prescribing a penalty. The Bennett bill only calls for another investigation at great expense to the State."

The Bennett proposal was a resolution originally. For some reason Speaker Wadsworth asked Mr. Bennett to make a bill of it instead. The obliging anti-machine Republican from New York County acquiesced without a murmur. Then it was sent to the Committee on Ways and Means. Mr. Bennett would not bet tonight that he will be able to take his bill over the hurdles. In fact it is probable that the Bennett bill will have a very long stay in this most convenient committee.

The Bennett bill provides for a committee to be composed of two Senators, appointed by the Lieutenant Governor, three Assemblymen, appointed by the Speaker, and five other persons appointed by the Governor. The committee is to investigate the manner and extent to which members, officers, or employes of the Legislature have accepted retainers other than their regular salary for drafting bills, promoting or opposing legislation, acting as attorney for private persons before any State department, or as attorney for the State or any department, commission, or institution thereof, and to recommend legislation to regulate or prevent such practices. The bill carries an appropriation of $20,000 and provides for a report to the next session of the Legislature.

The Conklin bill is a most sweeping and severe measure. It absolutely prohibits all the things Mr. Bennett would like to have investigated. Violation is punishable as a misdemeanor by imprisonment for not more than one year or a fine of not more than $1,000 or both.

Assemblyman Bennett has been in hot water for most of his three terms in the Assembly. When the House machine has pulled one way, Mr. Bennett has usually pulled the other. Frequently he has pulled alone. He has nearly always been in the minority on important bills. Sometimes he has been the whole minority. He has never seemed to mind it, and always looks as though he had a great time when he goes down to defeat fighting.

A year ago Mr. Bennett created a great rumpus when from the floor he accused Ray B. Smith, Clerk of the Assembly, of pernicious activities in connection with legislation in which corporatons were interested. Mr. Bennett said among other things that Smith was responsible for the defeat of the Telephone and Telegraph bill two years ago in the Committee on Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, of which Assemblyman John R. Yale of Putnam is Chairman. On that occasion Mr. Bennett went so far as to declare that when a confidential agent of the telephone companies came to Albany one night on an urgent mission one of the attachés of Mr. Smith's staff met him at the station and was intrusted with the custody of his valise.

It developed to-night that the report of the commission was not unanimous, although no mention of a dissent was contained in the newspaper summary furnished by the commission. George W. Smith, Traffic Manager of the Lackawanna Steel Company at Buffalo, appended the following to the commission's report:

"I cannot concur in the report of the commission at this time, for the reason that I feel, although the commission has worked hard on the subject, we have not worked out as yet a remedy to fit the situation. One definite thing has developed from our investigation, and that is, the employers as well as the employes realize that some just, fair plan should be worked out. I feel that the intricately involved conditions that surround the subject require further study, and that the great good to be accomplished justifies such study, so that when a change is made it shall be comprehensive and permanent."

WESTERN MARYLAND RIGHTS.

Issue at 50 to Cover Cost of Extension to Lake Erie Connection.

In a circular issued yesterday by President Benjamin F. Bush the stockholders of the Western Maryland Railway are offered the right to subscribe to $25,460,670 par value of new stock at 50 to provide funds for the construction of the line which will connect the present western terminus of the road with the Pittsburg & Lake Erie, with which the Western Maryland has made a ninety-nine-year traffic alliance.

The new stock issue has been underwritten by a syndicate headed by Blair & Co. Payment for the stock is to be made in full or in installments at the option of subscribers. The right to subscribe will expire on April 5.

Payment may be made in five installments of $10 each, with interest at the rate of 3 per cent. on the second, and further installments from April 5, 1910, to the date of payment. The dates for the payment of the installments are on or before April 5 for the first installment, and for the subsequent installments Oct. 1, 1910; April 1 and Oct. 1, 1911, and April 1, 1912.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Western Maryland will be held in Baltimore on March 31 to approve the issue.

Columbia Men in Oratory Contest.

The results of the preliminary trials at Columbia University for the Curtis Medals in Oratory were made public yesterday when the names of the six successful competitors were announced by the judges. Included among those who will be allowed to speak in the final contest on the evening of April 11 is G. W. Scott, 1911, a negro. Scott selected as his topic a negro race question: "Is the Negro Fitted for Full Citizenship?" His declamation was noteworthy for its deep sincerity.

Lillis Out in His Auto.

KANSAS CITY, March 21.—Jere Lillis, President of the Western Exchange Bank, was able to leave his home to-day for the first time since he was attacked at the Cudahy home here two weeks ago by P. J. Cudahy, the packer. Mr. Lillis, whose wounds appeared to have healed, rode downtown in his motor car.

FAIRBANKS PLEADS FOR TAFT.

Every One's Duty to Uphold Him, He Tells Ohio Society Diners.

Former Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks and Mrs. Fairbanks, who returned last week from a trip around the world, were the guests of honor last night at a reception given at the Waldorf-Astoria by the Ohio Society of New York.

After shaking hands with some 400 people, and telling them what a good time he and Mrs. Fairbanks had had, but how glad they were to get back to America, Mr. Fairbanks made a brief speech. He made an indirect appeal to everybody, irrespective of party, to uphold President Taft now that he is in office.

"When a man is elected to the Presidency," he went on, "the people should recognize that he is not the President of a party or of a faction, but of the whole United States. He is then entitled to the support of all, regardless of party affiliations. With that support he cannot fail to succeed in discharging creditably the duties of his office; without it his success is far from certain."

Mr. Fairbanks said that he and his wife had planned to go straight on to Indiana upon their arrival in New York, but that a cable message to him from Henry W. Taft, President of the Ohio Society, had let him know that there was one more ruler he would have to bow to.

Colgate Hoyt showed some stereopticon views made from photographs he had taken in Northern Africa on a trip of two or three months there about a year ago.

Before going to the reception of the Ohio Society Mr. Fairbanks was the guest of John A. Sleicher, publisher of Leslie's Weekly and Judge, at a dinner at the Union League. Among the diners were ex-Gov. Frank S. Black, Senator Depew, Collector Loeb, State Supt. of Insurance Hotchkiss, President A. B. Hepburn of the Chase National Bank, Louis Stern, Henry L. Stoddard, R. C. E. Brown, A. F. Wilson, Grant E. Hamilton, J. Wray Cleveland, Arthur Terry, Clarence Lindner, Joseph Emery, John E. Hardenbergh, Allan C. Hoffman, William Sleicher, Robert D. Heine, James M. Lee, H. M. Beach, E. A. Goewey, C. M. Depew, Jr., and R. B. Sleicher.

Mr. Fairbanks brought the diners to their feet by a reference to the improbability of war with Japan.

"Anybody who talks about war with Japan is mischievous, wicked, and almost malicious," he said. "There is an entirely wrong impression about this. Japan has what amounts in its simplicity to a childish affection for the United States. It is sincere."

Mr. Fairbanks brought general applause when he mentioned the name of Col. Roosevelt.

"No matter what difference of opinion was felt about the advisability of sending the fleet around the world, I am satisfied, after my trip, that it is the best thing that has ever been done for the honor and dignity of the American people," Mr. Fairbanks continued. "It was the greatest achievement of the illustrious Administration of President Roosevelt."

MRS. BERGEN IN RUNAWAY.

Carriage Accident Near Place Where Miss Edwards Was Similarly Injured.

Within a stone's throw of the spot where the night before Miss Emily Edwards, sister of Julian Edwards, and Mrs. George H. Thomas, the former actress, were seriously injured when the coach in which they were riding collided with a Riverdale Avenue trolley car, the horses attached to a carriage of which Mrs. Mary Bergen of 216 Riverdale Avenue was an occupant, ran away yesterday, and Mrs. Bergen leaped into the street and was seriously injured.

Mrs. Bergen was attending the funeral of Mrs. Catherine Luckey, her dearest friend. Her carriage had just left the church when the horses were frightened by a passing automobile and dashed around Riverdale Avenue into Fernbrook Street.

Mrs. Bergen made two attempts to jump but was restrained by Mrs. J. O'Brien and Mrs. E. L. Simpson, who were with her. Near Hawthorne Avenue the carriage was nearly overturned, and Mrs. Bergen succeeded in opening the door and jumping out.

The horses were stopped at the New York Central Railroad crossing at Fernbrook Street.

The police, spurred by the demands of influential relatives of Miss Emily Edwards and Mrs. George H. Thomas, are making a thorough investigation to determine the responsibility for the accident to them.

It was said by physicians in attendance that Mrs. Thomas, whose injuries were at first regarded as fatal, will recover but that the condition of Miss Edwards is precarious.

WOULD BROADEN LIABILITY LAW

TWO BILLS ARE PRESENTED

Second One Provides for an Agreement as to Liability in So-called Non-Hazardous Tasks.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 21.—Measures which make fundamental changes in the law affecting the compensation of injured workmen were introduced to-night by Senator J. Mayhew Wainwright and Assemblyman Cyrus W. Phillips, members of the State commission appointed a year ago to inquire into the subject of employers' liability. The bills are designed to carry into effect the commission's conclusions contained in a report presented to-night to the Legislature.

One bill affects accidents in the so-called hazardous trades, recommending the principle of compensation for all accidents regardless of negligence, by providing for compensation to all workmen injured in such employments "either by the negligence of employers, agents, or employes, or by the necessary risk or danger of the employment or one inherent in the nature thereof."

The schedule of compension in case of death is, four years' wages, not to exceed $3,000, and in case of total or partial disability, 50 per cent. of the wages lost by the injured person, but not more than $10 a week during the disability, and not to exceed a period of eight years.

The employments specified as hazardous include work on the erection or demolition of any bridge or building in which iron or steel framework is involved; the operation of elevators, derricks, or hoisting apparatus; work on scaffolds of any kind at a height of 20 feet or more above the ground; construction of tunnels and subways; all work carried on under compressed air; construction, operation and repair of electrical wires or apparatus; all work necessitating proximity to gunpowder, blasting powder, dynamite or other explosives; the operations of locomotives, motors, or cars propelled by steam, electricity, or gravity, and the construction or repair of railroad tracks.

Another bill covers accidents in ordinary occupations not included within the definition of the first bill. It introduces the principle of compensation for all accidents, but makes this principle voluntary and subject to agreement between employer and employe. In addition to the elective principle, the measure amends the Employers' Liability act so as to increase considerably the liability of employers by modifying materially the assumption of risk run. It places upon the employer the burden of proving contributory negligence on the part of the employe, whereas the law now requires the employe to prove his freedom from contributory negligence.

It modifies also the fellow-servant rule by declaring employers to be liable for the negligence of any employe "intrusted with any superintendence," or by reason of the negligence of any employe "intrusted with authority to direct, control, or command any other employe in the performance of the duty of such employe."

Robber of Manicures Goes to Jail.

William Corbin, a young negro from Venezuela, was sentenced by Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions yesterday to serve not less than two years and six months nor more than four years and six months and to pay a $1,000 fine. After deliberating twenty-six hours a jury had found him guilty of robbery in the second degree after several manicurists testified that Corbin had lured them to a hotel "to attend his rich employer."

$100,000 PAID OUT ON INSURANCE BILLS

through the Legislature, (the amount of the purchase even having been signified to me,) has been placed upon the statute books with an absolute and avowed understanding, promise and contract that the parties who put the bill through will defend it and take care that it is not repealed until 1906; hence, I am sure that it will simply mean a little longer wait and that it would be futile for us at this time to attempt its repeal. I can give you some further details in regard to this bill when I have the opportunity of seeing you in person, but the story is too long and too delicate a one to go into many details in correspondence.

Mr. Correa said that he understood that part of the activities of George P. Sheldon had been directed against this bill.

"Tell me more about it," said Mr. Hotchkiss, who was in charge of the examination. "I agree with you that it was a bad bill and am trying to destroy it."

"Well, after the battle, when the dead have been removed, there aren't many changes in the landscape," philosophized Mr. Correa, by way of response.

"But the fight is not over in this instance," returned the Superintendent.

"Who appeared against this bill before the committee?"

The witness said he didn't know, although he went to Albany for a hearing on the Grady bill.

"The only thing I noticed was the remarkable collection of faces before me who appeared to be the representatives of the people of this State in the Legislature."

"You refer to the Senate or the Assembly Committee on Insurance?" asked Mr. Hotchkiss.

"Both," said Mr. Correa, who added that he came away from Albany right after the hearing.

"Why did you leave so soon?" Mr. Hotchkiss queried.

"I didn't like the atmosphere; it was too cold," the witness replied.

"Was that hearing held during the Winter?"

"No; it was well along into the Spring," said Mr. Correa, as the company in the investigation chamber laughed.

After stating that Carl Schreiner was the manager of the Munich Reinsurance Company here and Carl Sturnham the manager of the Rossia Company, Mr. Correa was asked by Mr. Hotchkiss:

"Did you consider the reinsurance bill a strike bill? One of the purposes of this investigation is to strike down strike legislation."

Thereupon the witness explained that the Grady bill did not quite come within his conception of a strike measure, inasmuch as he always thought that strike bills were either introduced purely on a money-making basis, or else to serve as a basis of trading against other legislators.

"I believe that they are the cutest things in the world, these legislators," remarked the Vice President of the Home Insurance Company.

"Was an anti-compact bill a strike bill?" asked Mr. Hotchkiss, referring to another recurrent measure which the insurance companies uniformly opposed. Mr. Correa was not disposed to dissent.

"I think," he said, by way of further elucidation, "that somewhere up there they have a breeding incubator for bills of different kinds."

"Where is it located?" asked the Superintendent.

"I don't know exactly, but probably in the Capitol," replied the witness.

"Now, who told you that this Grady bill was bought through the Legislature?" demanded Mr. Hotchkiss, coming back to the letter.

"I can't just say," returned Mr. Correa; "it was common talk."

"But you say that the amount of the purchase was specified," pressed Mr. Hotchkiss.

"I can't say now what it was, but it was more than $5," said Correa.

"But you say in this letter, 'I was informed—'"

"So I was, and by the parties interested in that bill that they had employed counsel and told them to put it through," the witness replied.

"Did your informants say that they paid money to legislators?"

"Do you call employing counsel buying legislation?" asked Mr. Hotchkiss.

"Yes," said Mr. Correa, "it is, in my mind."

"Who told you about the way this bill was passed?" was the next question.

"Mr. Schreiner of the Munich," said the witness.

"Let a subpoena issue for Mr. Schreiner for to-morrow morning," remarked Mr. Hotchkiss to one of his dputies, and the deputy got busy.

"Where did Mr. Schreiner tell you this?" Mr. Hotchkiss asked, turning to his witness

"At the hearing in Albany," was Mr. Correa's answer.

"Now," said the Superintendent, "you understand, of course, that $5 is a ridiculous sum for you to mention in this connection. Tell us some amount which we may consider in general as covering the sum which you understood was spent to secure the passage of this bill."

"I have no recollection," said Mr. Correa, "but I should say that it might possibly have been $5,000."

The earlier part of Mr. Correa's testimony related to payments made to George P. Sheldon. Mr. Correa said that most of the records of the Home Insurance Company back of 1903 which would be available to trace out the purposes of any payments were destroyed when the company moved its offices, and he did not testify of personal knowledge as to the payment by the Home Company of $2,500 cash in that year to Sheldon. The examiners of the Insurance Department had dug up in the Home Insurance Company's offices a check for $2,500 signed by President Washburn and made payable to the cashier, George W. Wolf, which was cashed and the proceeds sent over to Sheldon at the Phenix by a messenger.

"I don't know what it was for, except as it has been discovered of late that George P. Sheldon had the need of a great deal of cash," said Mr. Correa, adding that since former President Washburn of the Home Insurance Company is dead, as well as Sheldon, there remained no way of tracing the $2,500 any more closely.

On Sept. 7, 1904, another $2,500 to Sheldon from the Home Insurance Company turned up, and this time the check was signed by Mr. Correa himself. Each of these payments, the witness recalled, was the share of the Home Company in a ten-thousand-dollar fund that Sheldon was using in his legislative activities.

"What was that for?" asked Mr. Hotchkiss.

"Mr. Sheldon came to us and represented that he had been obliged to employ counsel and to spend money in traveling expenses to Albany and in entertaining people, and that he couldn't afford to pay it all himself, and didn't think his company ought to have to pay it all. So in good fellowship we paid in the money to a then esteemed fellow contemporary."

This was the extent of the information that it was possible to get from Mr. Correa. The rest of his testimony was devoted to his explanation of how he took care not to know legislators or to mix up in legislative matters.

Of somewhat the same mind was Col. A. H. Wray, manager of the Commercial Union. Col. Wray said that he was a member of the Finance Committee of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters in 1901, and remembered that there was some objection to the size of Mr. Kennedy's $13,311 bill. But he could not recall any details whatever, although Mr. Kennedy appeared before the committee, of which the Colonel was a member, to make his explanation.

Col. Wray admitted a moment later that his company contributed its share to pay the $19,000 assessed on the foreign companies for the legislative work of Davies, Stone & Auerbach in 1904. This payment was in addition to the regular expenditure of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters and did not go through the books of the board, but was collected by individual assessment on the companies.

While the subject of the foreign companies and their legislative relations was up Attorney Hurrell put on the stand F. O. Affeld, who was Chairman of the Finance Committee of the New York board in 1901 and has represented the Hamburg-Bremen Fire Insurance Company since 1873. He proved a recalcitrant witness at first, refusing to remember whether he was a member of the Finance Committee in 1901, even until Mr. Hurrell showed him the committee's minute book, in which Mr. Affeld's signature appeared as Chairman.

The witness then told of the existence of a legislative committee for the foreign insurance companies, of which he was Treasurer, and said that he thought that his checkbook stubs would show the expenditure for legislation of this committee in the last few years. Like so many of the other fire insurance men Mr. Affeld had destroyed his checkbook stubs dating more than a few years back, and never kept any independent records of what the committee of the foreign companies did. He did recall the discussion of the Kennedy bill for $13,311.

"Do you ever pay money to defeat strike bills?" asked Mr. Hurrell.

"Not if we can help it," replied Mr. Affeld.

"Did you in the case of this expenditure of $8,311?"

"Not to legislators," persisted the witness.

"To their friends?" suggested the counsel.

"Possibly," said Mr. Affeld.

Marshall P. Driggs, President of the Williamsburg City Fire Insurance Company, exhibited when on the stand a memory that was quite as much focalized as that of Mr. Kennedy himself. For although he was Vice Chairman of the New York board and a member of the Finance Committee when the Kennedy bill of 1901 was brought before it, he recalled only the discussion that followed Mr. Kennedy's detailed explanation of the circumstances of his expenditures and nothing of the explanation itself.

"I do remember this thing, though," he said finally. "It was said that not one dollar of the money of the board should go to any legislator."

The other witness yesterday in addition to Mr. Kennedy and former Assemblyman Rierdon was W. N. Kremer of the German-American, who was a member of the Finance Committee of the New York board in 1901. He was asked about the retainers of $15,000 and $17,500 which Sherman & Sterling received in 1905 and 1906, and replied that he believed that the board wanted to put its business into the hands of a high-class firm and had to pay for it.

The investigation will continue this morning.

"From the Eden of Muscular Serenity Into the Wilderness of Nervous Excitement."

Speaking before an enormous audience at the New York Academy of Medicine, a well-known New York physician thus summed up the change in conditions of living during the past half century.

Another physician, well known as a contributor to a leading medical journal, has recently written a masterly treatise on what he calls "The American Disease—Neurasthenia."

In his work the author has carefully, scientifically traced the origin of all nervous disorders; he has explained why nerve trouble is more prevalent in this country than elsewhere; and he tells in a clear, interesting and simple manner of the wonderful reconstructive effects obtained by the use of a comparatively new preparation—Sanatogen, The Food-Tonic.

The voiced opinion of the medical profession, together with thousands of testimonials from universally renowned authors, actors, churchmen and laymen, stand back of this physician in his regard for the remarkable achievements of Sanatogen, which he describes as "a fine, white powder, uniform, soluble, containing pure, specially prepared albumen combined with sodium glycero-phosphate. . . . Exactly what is supremely required by a system broken down by prolonged neurasthenia."

A limited edition of this interesting treatise has been issued by the Bauer Chemical Co., 506 Everett Bldg., Union Sq., New York. Any reader of this paper may obtain a free copy by writing to the above firm, and he will find that it is a work well worth reading. Write for it to-day.

CANNON CALMER NOW SOFTENS HIS WORDS

Denunciation of Insurgents, He Says, was Misunderstood and Not Meant as Taken.

TRUCE OF HOUSE FACTIONS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Both factions of the Republicans in the House marked time to-day and there was no sign of the immediate recurrence of warfare. On the contrary peace and quiet were the pass words. One of the stoutest of the regulars expressed it this morning in these words:

"I think it is time for everybody to keep quiet, and that means everybody."

This reference to the Saturday night speech of Speaker Cannon was an indication of the manner in which the regulars generally took that outburst on the part of their leader. They didn't like it, and to-day their disapproval was made plain to Mr. Cannon himself. Thereupon the Speaker began to disavow his own words. To some of his supporters in the House and to certain Senators he explained that he had not understood that there were any reporters at the dinner, and he thought he was talking under the rose as at Gridiron affairs. He went a little further afterward and declared not only that he had not meant what he had said to be taken in the way it has been received, but that he had been inaccurately reported and so misrepresented.

This disclaimer on Mr. Cannon's part takes away most of what prospect of fight remained in the situation. His speech as reported made some of the insurgents extremely angry, but there were only a few of them who were so excited as to be ready to demand reprisals. From these few there came some talk to-day of a scheme to tackle the rules of the House again before long with a proposition to readjust all the committees and to provide for their selection by a committee of the House. There is no doubt that ultimately such an attempt will be made, but it is not likely to come at this session, at least not until the Republican legislative programme is well out of the way.

New Rules Committee's Make-Up.

The chief discussion to-day was naturally about the selection of the new Rules Committee. The Democrats have made arrangements for their caucus already, and it will be held to-morrow night. It is probable that Champ Clark, Mr. Fitzgerald of Brooklyn, Mr. Underwood of Alabama, who has shown himself well qualified for leadership, and either Swagar Sherley of Kentucky or Mr. Hammond of Minnesota will be the four men chosen by the minority. Sherley's qualifications for the place have been well proved, but there is some objection that he would make too many Southern men on the committee.

Among the Republicans there is all kinds of talk. The insurgents generally stuck to the proposition that they wanted no representation on the committee. They took the view that membership on the committee would place a responsibility upon them which they are not prepared to assume. If the regulars on the committee chose they could make it very unpleasant for the insurgent members—if there should be any.

It could easily be brought about that the insurgents would either have to vote with the regulars for something they could not consistently stand for, or else with the Democrats, and thus make the coalition responsible for legislation, which would never do from their point of view. Nothing would suit the regulars better than to get the insurgents into that position, and the insurgents know it. So they have been repeating the declarations they made on Saturday immediately after they had won the victory that they will go cheerfully into the Republican caucus whenever it is held and support the men it nominates for the Rules Committee memberships.

They haven't yet made up their minds as to whether they will submit to the nomination of John Dalzell to the committee without a hard fight, for they regard him as no less objectionable on the Rules Committee than Speaker Cannon himself. But if Dalzell is named by the caucus they will probably come through and vote for him at the election.

Republican Caucus Is Delayed.

There was a good deal of inclination among the regulars this morning to delay holding their caucus at least until the end of the week. There was even some talk of refusing to have a caucus or to name men for the committee, thus leaving the whole matter of the election of the new Rules Committee entirely to the insurgent-Democratic coalition. This would unquestionably put the insurgents in a pickle, as they would either have to put on their own men and assume the responsibility for legislation hereafter and the general conduct of the House, or select regulars—which some of the regulars think would be almost equally as unpalatable for them. Mr. Currier, the Chairman of the Republican caucus, said this afternoon, however, that he thought the caucus would be called about the last of the week.

Already there is opposition among the regulars to the selection of men for the new committee who now hold the Chairmanship of any important committees. They protest that such elections would tend to give the Rules Committee the power to put through the business of the committees whose Chairmen were members of it, and they object strongly to that possibility.

Representative Hayes, insurgent, of California, does not expect that the insurgents are going to demand representation upon the committee, but he did drop the hint to-day that it would be conducive to party harmony if the regulars voluntarily recognized the insurgents.

"Trouble may break out again at any time unless the regulars name good men on that committee," said Mr. Hayes. "I want to know something of the personnel of the committee before I sanction a caucus action. The best way to bring about harmony now is to give the insurgents some show for the victory they have won. If the regulars put on men who will continue to act as Cannon has done, what have we gained?"

Murdock and Norris Stand Pat.

Representative Victor Murdock and Representative Norris, however, are opposed to the insurgents making any further demands at this time. There is nothing whatever to be gained, they reason, in the insurgent insistence that they should have rules committee representation.

"The people of the United States are with this insurgent movement," said Mr. Murdock. "They believe that our fight has been sincere and that we have been fighting for principle, and not for selfish ends. This is correct. Now, if we should come forward and demand virtual control of the committee, the impression created would be that this was the basis of our fight, and because of such an erroneous idea the fruits of our victory would, in a measure, be lost. I do not believe that the majority of the insurgents are seeking any further strife at this time; in fact, I know of but one insurgent who would like a place upon the new committee."

Some of the insurgents were rather indignant to-day about Speaker Cannon's heated reference to them in a speech at a banquet before the Illinois Republican Association here Saturday night. The Speaker is known to have received a little friendly scolding by some of his trusted lieutenants, who believed that perhaps his remarks were not just the proper thing upon the heels of such factional strife in the House. Representative McCall of Massachusetts was among those who suggested to the Speaker that he had been rather undiplomatic, and to him the venerable statesman explained that he had been misunderstood. Insurgent Norris was inclined to be among the indignant ones, and referred to Speaker Cannon's remarks concerning "cowardly members" as being the "vaporings of an old man filled with venom and vengeance because of a crushing defeat."

Such regulars as Dalzell, Payne, and Fassett are taking the insurgent victory more to heart than others of the majority. They insist that the insurgents should get no show upon the new Rules Committee, and that the axe should be held in readiness to descend upon them at any time the opportunity offers.

Members Not Ready to Settle Down.

To-day was unanimous consent day in the House. Following the exciting scenes of the past few days House members found it somewhat difficult to remain quiet during the consideration of private bills. The galleries were almost filled when the House convened, and the crowd evinced expectation of developments in the storm of the past week. Down the floor, just before the Speaker's gavel fell, Representatives were chaffing each other good-naturedly. Representative Murdock of Kansas, in a group near the Speaker's rostrum, was talking over the situation, while Mr. Sherley of Kentucky, the Democrat who tried to stop Mr. Burleson of Texas from offering his resolution to depose Cannon and elect a new Speaker, was contending that if the Democrats had taken the same attitude he did in trying to fight off presentation of the Burleson resolution, the regular Republicans would not now be claiming a partial victory for the Speaker.

Speaker Cannon called the House to order promptly at noon. Immediately after the chaplain had concluded his prayer a buzz of conversation arose. Rapping the members to order angrily, the Speaker reminded them that the unanimous consent calendar, which was the order of the day, "was not a safe calendar unless the House considered it in an orderly manner."

"The calendar does not get good legislation," said the Speaker. "We cannot get good legislation without the co-operation of members."

The unanimous consent calendar referred to by Mr. Cannon was a part of the new Fitzgerald rules adopted by the House about a year ago.

"The unanimous consent calendar," declared Mr. Cannon between the raps of his gavel, "has relieved the Speaker from all responsibility in examining bills before he exercises his discretion in submitting them to unanimous consent, and now that discretion rests upon the House. And," he added, in earnest tones, "if the House is not in order somebody will get hurt."

When the laughter that followed this parliamentary threat ceased, the Speaker appealed to the spectators to assist in maintaining order.

"The Chair appeals to the galleries, which are not saying a word, to continue in that condition—of course the House will keep order," he added, with a smile.

Some semblance of order was then obtained, and the House proceeded to dispose of a number of bills of minor importance on the calendar. The Invalid Pension bill was taken up late in the afternoon. Secret consultations among regulars, Democrats, and insurgents in the lobbies and cloak rooms naturally went on all day.

Burleson's Indignant Denial.

In the course of the day the published report to the effect that the Burleson resolution of last Saturday declaring the Speakership of the House vacant was inspired by a member of the Republican majority was positively denied by both sides.

Representative Burleson was asked about it. In great wrath he denied the report and demanded to know who was responsible for it. When informed that the report was said to have come from Representative Tawney of Minnesota, Mr. Burleson leaped up and called to Mr. Tawney, who sat a few seats from him across the aisle. When Mr. Tawney reached his side Mr. Burleson asked:

"It is reported that you said that my resolution was inspired from the Republican side. Did you say that?"

"It's a lie," immediately responded Mr. Tawney.

"It certainly is a lie," concluded Mr. Burleson, "and I would like to know the name of the man who started it."

Though the further revolutionary step of wiping out the Speaker's appointive power in case of all committees is not expected to be immediate, as the result of Speaker Cannon's denunciation of the "insurgents" in his speech before the Illinois Association Saturday night, a measure has already been drawn by a prominent "insurgent" Republican which would create a Committee on Committees to consist of fifteen members, nine of them to be Republicans and six Democrats, all to be elected by the House.

This committee would be vested with the duty of selecting committees, instead of leaving that power in the Speaker's hands. The membership would be distributed geographically, so that the interests of every section would be protected. The resolution proposes even greater power for that committee—jurisdiction of conference reports and of appropriation bills.

A Song Recital

A song recital will be given at Mendelssohn Hall on Wednesday afternoon, March 23rd, with the Hardman Autotone, the piano all can play by hand or perforated music roll.

At this recital the vocal soloist will be the famous baritone, Mr. Charles Gilibert, by courtesy of Mr. Oscar Hammerstein.

Mr. Gilibert has said: "I am now thoroughly convinced that there is no longer any doubt as to the advisability of owning a player-piano for the home, if it is an Autotone."

These Autotone recitals have taken a prominent place among the important musical events of New York and other cities.

Never before have the leading newspapers and musical journals given notice and such enthusiastic and favorable criticism upon recitals in connection with player-pianos.

These concerts are given by us gratis with the view of demonstrating to the public the superiority of the Hardman Autotone over all other player-pianos—no matter what they may be called; superior not only as a solo instrument but also as a piano upon which the accompaniment to a song can be played by a paper music-roll and transposed into different keys in a manner completely satisfying the most discriminating and distinguished artists.

Invitations have been issued for this concert to the capacity of the hall, and will also be extended by us for the next two concerts, the final ones of this season; one will be given at the Brooklyn Academy of Music and the other at Mendelssohn Hall; at these the renowned soprano of Mr. Hammerstein's Company, Mme. Carmen-Melis, will be the vocal soloist.

MAY DROP TWO CANNON MEN.

New Jersey Republican Machine Likely to Sacrifice Two "Regulars."

NEWARK, N. J., March 21.—The two Congressmen from the districts embraced in this city steadfastly supported Speaker Cannon in the fight last week and as a result it is generally believed the Republican machine must sacrifice them or be beaten at the primary polls by the New Idea men. It in said that the machine has gone so far as to make its slate thus:

Eighth District—Judge Benjamin F. Jones of South Orange to succeed Major William H. Wiley of East Orange.

The New Idea men want members in good standing in their wing of the Republican Party to be named, but it is thought they may accept Doremus and Jones as a compromise and call off the fight, accepting the turndown of Parker and Wiley as victory enough.

ELKINS DEFENDS HIS BILL.

Laughs at Gibes of Opponents and Nobody Takes Formal Speech Seriously.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Senator Elkins of West Virginia, Chairman of the Committee on Inter-State Commerce, yielded to-day to the taunts of his insurgent and Democratic colleagues and made a formal speech in defense of the Administration railroad bill which bears his name. Though this is the only defense yet made of the measure that is generally considered the most important of the President's programme for the year, Mr. Elkins made no secret of the fact that his effort was perfunctory and came only as an answer to the charge that he was not at heart in favor of his own measure.

"It was beginning to look," he said, smiling, "as if I wouldn't support my own child."

Miss Katherine Elkins, the Senator's daughter, who was in the gallery, laughed aloud at this remark.

The speech was written and printed in advance and Mr. Elkins read it hurriedly and in a low tone, as if to finish his task and avoid interruptions as far as possible. Indeed, he especially requested that he be not interrupted with questions until he had concluded, but when the questions and objections came, with his customary good humor he invariably yielded. Good humor seemed to be the predominating note of the day, and neither Mr. Elkins himself nor the handful of Democrats and insurgents who laughingly badgered him throughout his speech appeared to take his effort for the Administration's bill very seriously.

WON'T PENSION ROOSEVELT.

Mrs. Cleveland and Mrs. Harrison Get $5,000 a Year.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The Senate Committee on Pensions to-day agreed to report favorably bills to grant pensions of $5,000 a year to Frances F. Cleveland, widow of ex-President Grover Cleveland, and Mary Lord Harrison, widow of ex-President Benjamin Harrison. At the same time the committee declined to report a bill which would place ex-President Roosevelt on the retired list as Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy and give him $10,000 a year for the remainder of his life.

This bill does not mention Col. Roosevelt by name, but applies to "ex-Presidents of the United States." At the present time it could affect no one except Mr. Roosevelt. Senators McCumber, Scott, and Burnham supported the bill. Senators Curtis, Taylor, Gore, Hughes, and Shively voted against it.

The bills pensioning Mrs. Cleveland and Mrs. Harrison were voted upon together. The affirmative vote was cast by Messrs. Scott, Burnham, Taylor, Hughes, and Shively, and the negative votes by Messrs. Curtis, Gore, and McCumber.

It was argued in the committee by several Senators that no one of the beneficiaries was in need of the relief that would be provided by the measures.

TAFT DEFENDS TARIFF IN ALDRICH'S HOME

RESULTS GOOD, HE SAYS

High Prices Not Due to the Tariff—To Ask for Inquiry Into Protected Industries.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 21.—President Taft arrived here at 7:25 P. M. to-night, and was met at the station by thousands of cheering people. He was taken in an automobile to Infantry Hall, where he was the chief guest at the banquet of the New England Manufacturing Jewelers and Silversmiths' Association.

Senators Aldrich and Wetmore greeted Mr. Taft upon his arrival at the hall, and at the President's table were leading State and city officials, as well as prominent members of the Rhode Island bar. When he rose to speak the President was enthusiastically cheered, and in response expressed his pleasure at being able to fulfill a long-pressed invitation.

He paid a hearty tribute to Senator Aldrich for his assistance to the Administration in pushing through the Tariff bill, and then, taking up that measure, the President said:

"We have had seven months of the Payne-Aldrich bill and it has proved a number of things. It has proved that it is the best revenue getter that we have ever had; that it has the largest free trade list of any revenue bill; that the rates from the Dingley bill have been materially reduced, and that it has provided a system of an administration which will make it an expeditious and therefore a just administration of the customs revenue law.

"It has introduced free trade between this country and the Philippines. And that was a measure of justice which was long delayed and ought to have been given as far back as 1900.

"Again, the Tariff bill furnished to the executive by means of a maximum and minimum a leverage to secure from the foreign countries fair treatment for American products without undue discrimination against this country, evidences of which were cropping up in many of the customs systems of foreign countries. We are almost through exercising the power under the maximum and minimum section. I am very hopeful that we shall be able to go through without the use of the maximum section at all, but that is not to say that it has not been of the utmost use, its presence in the statute and the duty that it has imposed upon the Executive, securing to American trade that freedom from discriminating treatment from which in times past we have suffered, and that hereafter I hope may be entirely absent.

"There is provided in the Tariff bill a tariff board. As soon as it discharges the duties imposed upon it with reference to the maximum and minimum section of the law, I expect to ask Congress for $250,000 to enable that board to proceed to get at the truth with respect to all the protected industries of this country.

"Under that tariff this country has proceeded to great prosperity, so that now I think everybody is making money. Wage earners have all the work they can do. Wages are at the highest point, and, while there is some complaint about high prices, and high prices do exist, I don't think that their presence is of such a character as to cause suffering.

"The high prices can be explained from many different sources. I know that the opponents of the Tariff bill are wont to say that they are due to the Tariff bill, but the difficulty about that is that the high prices of which complaint is made are in those industries in respect to which either the rates have been lowered or in respect to which there is a free admission into this country of such articles. And, therefore, to put on the poor Tariff bill the blame for the high prices is unjust.

"The Republican Party agreed to pass a law for postal savings banks, and I am very hopeful that when the law comes into effect it will be shown that the bankers' fears are groundless."

The President closed with a discussion of the Inter-State Commerce bill and the Anti-Injunction act, conservation, and other measures which he had recommended to Congress.

TAFT'S DAY AT YALE.

President Helps Elect New Professor—$75,000 in Gifts Announced.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 21.—President Taft paid a brief visit to New Haven to-day, for the purpose of attending the meeting of the Yale Corporation, of which body he is a member. Mr. Taft reached this city at 9:49 o'clock this morning, his private car being attached to the regular express train on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

Prof. John C. Schwab, as a representative of Yale University, met the President at the station, and he was driven in an automobile to Woodbridge Hall, where President Hadley received him and where the corporation meeting occurred. After the meeting and luncheon with Mr. and Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes, Jr., the President returned to his car, which was attached to the express leaving this city at 4:55 over the Shore Line Branch of the New Haven Road for Providence.

At the meeting of the Yale Corporation which Mr. Taft attended announcement was made of an anonymous gift of $25,000 for the endowment of the University Clinic. The fund will be used for the Yale Medical School and the New Haven Dispensary. It was further made known that by the recent death in Fort Worth, Texas, of J. Barrett Collins $50,000 is to come to the university, to be added to the fund of the class of '81 of the academical department.

WILL SEE POLITICIANS HERE.

President Expected to Confer on State Situation—Luncheon with Mr. Clews.

President Taft will arrive in town from Providence at 7 o'clock this morning. He will be met at the Grand Central Station by Robert C. Morris, President of the Republican Club, and Henry Clews the banker. They will escort him to his brother's home, in West Forty-eighth Street, where he will remain until time for the luncheon to be held in the President's honor at Mr. Clews's home.

In the meantime it is expected that the President will hold several conferences of local political importance, and probably will see Senator Depew, Senator Root, Congressman Parsons, Chairman Woodruff of the Republican State Committee, and Chairman Griscom of the County Committee.

At 3 o'clock the President will go to the Press Club, in Spruce Street, where he will speak at the formal opening of the new building. In the evening the President will speak at both the peace dinner and the complimentary dinner to Congressman Parsons. Both will be at the Hotel Astor. The President will leave for Washington at midnight.

The President was in town yesterday morning for about an hour. He arrived at the Grand Central at 7 o'clock. While the private car Olympia was being switched over to the Boston Express the President breakfasted with Collector of the Port Loeb and Earl Grey, Governor General of Canada, who accompanied him from Albany. The President did not leave the car. While it was at the station it was guarded by a score of uniformed policemen from the East Fifty-first Street Station.

Are Your Nostrils Closed?

The Lessons Taught by the New Electrical Methods That Do Away with Cutting.

The people have begun to realize the importance of having their nostrils kept free of disease and obstruction. I have developed a method of freeing the nostrils of obstruction that as a rule does away with the necessity of cutting away the bones of the nostrils. I performed my operation on Mr. James J. Jeffries, the champion pugilist, on his return from Europe.

Mr. Chas. Howard resides at 57 South Sixth Street, Brooklyn. When Mr. Howard consulted me he told me that when he was five years of age he fell down on the stairs, striking on the bridge of his nose, and that since that time he has had trouble to take air through his nostrils. When he grew up he got so he could not breathe through his left nostril at all, and only on dry days could he breathe a little through the right one. Since he has been a man he has had his nostrils operated on fourteen times. As a result of the operations he would get a little relief and could breathe some through his right nostril. His left nostril, however, has been tightly closed all this time. At night he said that, being compelled to breathe through his mouth, it would make his throat very dry and cause him to wake up every two or three hours. While asleep he would choke, and his wife would have to pound him to wake him up to keep him from smothering. He said that until now he cannot remember ever having been able to breathe freely through his nostrils during his entire lifetime, or being able to blow his nose to free it of secretion.

Mr. Howard has been under my treatment for about six weeks. He says his left nostril is now absolutely free, and that he can sleep eight hours at a stretch without waking up, and that when he does wake up he feels rested and refreshed. He says that he can take air freely through his nose now for the first time in his recollection. On February 28th, which was a damp, foggy day, his nostril did not close one particle.

Are You Going Deaf?

I have developed a method of treating deafness and head noises in which there is no necessity for the passage of instruments through the nostrils and into the ear tube.

I have found that the passage of instruments through the nostrils and into the ear tubes is painful, and instead of curing the disease often forces it further up into the ear tubes.

The advantage of my method of treating head noises and deafness will be shown by the case of Mr. Turner.

When Mr. John N. Turner consulted me last August he said: "I am 59 years of age, and I have been deaf in my left ear since 1870. My right ear began to fail a year ago. I cannot hear a watch tick even when it is held close to my ear. I cannot hear an alarm clock tick when it is held close to my ear. I cannot hear what people say unless they are right close to me, and then they have to speak very loud to make me hear. I cannot hear the clergyman speak when I am in church, even when I sit in the front seat; besides all this I have very annoying sounds in my ears; sometimes the sounds will change their character; at times there is a continual buzzing, and then there will be sounds like a teakettle singing, or chirping of crickets."

I placed Mr. Turner under my method of treatment, and the last time he visited my office was Saturday, March 19th, when he said: "I can hear better than I ever could since I was twenty years of age. I can hear the preacher in church, and I have to be continually telling those who know me not to speak so loud, that I am no longer deaf; all the head noises have disappeared from my ears."

The case of Mr. Turner is cited as showing what my method of treatment will often accomplish in cases of deafness of long standing in those who are advanced in years. Mr. Turner resides at No. 246 Main Street, Lakewood, New Jersey, where he has lived for a number of years.

This is who I am and what I have done. I graduated in medicine in New York in 1879. I was the prize winner of my class. I won in competitive examination the position of physician to Bellevue Hospital, where I served in 1879 and 1880.

New York World, Sept. 2, 1894.

"Professor Loomis, of the University of New York, the great specialist, said in alluding to medical men who advertise: 'Dr. McCoy, for instance, is an able man, well educated, a thorough scientist and a first-class physician. He is a graduate of Bellevue Hospital. He advertises, does an immense business and is doing much good.'"

If you think my training and experience should make me a good doctor, I should be pleased to have you visit my office. It will cost you nothing for an examination and advice.

If you suffer from obstructed nostrils, diseased nostrils, are going deaf or have head noises, or have a bad throat, I will be pleased to advise you without charge.

Dr. J. C. McCoy,

PEASE PLAYER PIANOS

A Player costs more than the ordinary piano, but it's worth it.

What is the use of buying the old style of piano if you don't play, or if there is only one pianist in your family?

A good piano without the player attachment costs on an average of $350, and in many homes it's silent most of the time. Isn't it, then, a good investment to spend $550 and get a Player Piano that every member of the family can play and obtain a real knowledge of the best music?

Pease Player-Pianos

cost from $550 to $750, and in proportion to their high quality the prices are very low; their basis is right, for the Player is built into thoroughly good and durable pianos that can withstand constant use.

Our music roll service is free to those who buy Player Pianos from us. Think what this means. You need not spend a dollar for music!

ORDERS PICTURE OUT OF ROGUES' GALLERY

MUST DESTROY RECORDS

Mayor Gaynor called a matter to the attention of Police Commissioner Baker yesterday the circumstances of which are similar to those of the famous Duffy investigation by ex-Mayor McClellan last Summer, which resulted in the ousting of Gen. Bingham.

The case involves the alleged photographing of a citizen, and the Mayor, in a letter to the Commissioner, says: "Let no such thing be done in the future except in the case of persons convicted of some felony or misdemeanor of the nature of a felony." He then discourses on the administration of the criminal law. He says:

March 21, 1910.

Sir: The Rev. James V. Chalmers, Vicar of the Church of the Holy Trinity, complained to me in person last Friday of the measuring and photographing of Walter Farndon for the Rogues' Gallery. I examined the case to-day and found the facts to be as follows:

Four police detectives arrested Farndon on last Thursday evening at a street corner on a charge of writing a letter to one Frohman to extort money of him. He was taken to the Central Office and locked up for the night. He asked to communicate with his family and friends, but was not permitted to.

Family Not Notified.

Next morning he was stripped and measured and then photographed for the Rogues' Gallery. Then he was viewed by a large number of masked detectives, and pointed out by the chief of them as one who extorted money by letters threatening to kill. He was then taken before a Magistrate and held in $1,000 bail.

Finally his family and friends learned of his plight, (but not through the police, for they refused to send word to them,) and they bailed him out. Next morning Magistrate Barlow heard his case and discharged him.

There was in fact no evidence against him. He simply went out for a walk, and because he stopped at a certain corner he was arrested, because some one had written an anonymous letter to the said Frohman saying that unless he came to that corner that evening and paid $100 to the writer he would be killed. He has hitherto borne a good name and has never been arrested.

Calls It an Outrage.

It may be that the arrest was not very unreasonable, all things considered, but the treatment of Mr. Farndon afterward was unworthy of a civilized community. Not only did the police refuse to notify his family and friends, but outraged him by stripping and measuring him and photographing him as though he were a felon. He was never arrested before, and is vouched for as in no way a criminal or bad. Be so good as to see that his measurements and picture are at once destroyed.

The measuring of him and the taking of his picture by force was an unlawful battery upon him. Let no such thing be done in future, except in the case of persons convicted of some felony or misdemeanor of the nature of a falony, namely, in the case of convictions enumerated by Section 40 of Chapter 382 of the Laws of 1889, and Chapter 440 of the Laws of 1896, the two statutes which permit it to be done.

Our Supreme Court has explicitly decided that it cannot be lawfully done in any other case.

Reverses McClellan's Decision.

I am aware that my distinguished predecessor decided in the Duffy case that the police were not to follow the said decision, but I cannot follow his decision as a precedent. Our Government is divided into the three branches—legislative, executive, and judicial—and the powers of government are divided among such three branches. No one or two branches may encroach upon the powers of another branch.

The legislative branch makes the laws, the judicial interprets them if they be in dispute, and the duty of the executive branch is to execute the laws as thus made and interpreted. Unless the executive branch does this our system of government is overthrown.

The reason assigned by my predecessor for overruling the said decision was that if the court had considered that if a person arrested should break jail or forfeit his bail and run away he could not be easily followed and taken unless the authorities had his measurements and photograph.

That any court could have made such a decision without having such an obvious consideration in mind is not to be conjectured. And when we consider the small percentage or decimal of those under arrest and awaiting trial who break jail or run away we see that it is not worthy of consideration as an argument.

Many Others Victimized.

To make it a reason for allowing every one arrested to be measured and photographed and put in the Rogues' Gallery at the will of the police would be to allow a great and oppressive evil for the purpose of preventing a trifling one; a thing which always has to be avoided in government.

I have the names of a large number of other innocent persons who have been wronged in this same way. It was my intention to have them righted in the very first days of my term of office, but many things have delayed my taking action on them. I shall now send you the list for your prompt action.

Let the police remember of all things that they themselves must keep within the law regulating and limiting their powers and conduct. The way to efficiently enforce the criminal law is the way prescribed by the law itself. Whatever the law says or any court decides the police must obey. Very truly yours,

W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.

WILLIAM F. BAKER, Esq.,
Police Commissioner.

The case of the Duffy boy, whose cause the Mayor, then a Supreme Court Justice, espoused, was almost identical with this case, although the young man has been arrested more than once since for good and sufficient reasons, the police say.

POLICE RAIDERS ON TRIAL.

Keenan and Cunningham Suspended—New Charges Prepared.

Pending their trial before Third Deputy Commissioner Walsn, Police Commissioner Baker yesterday suspended Thomas Keenan and Charles F. Cunningham, the two Bronx policemen charged with excise raiding in the Bronx on their days off duty.

Commissioner Baker refused to say anything regarding the cases against the policemen further than "in view of their careers and their persistent raiding drastic measures must be taken by the Police Department."

When the cases against Keenan and Cunningham were called yesterday before Deputy Commissioner Walsh, John Sanders, their attorney, asked for a postponement on the ground that several important witnesses remained to be subpoenaed, and that he wanted more time to familiarize himself with the case.

Commissioner Walsh agreed with Sanders as to the importance of the case, and granted an adjournment until Thursday morning, directing the accused policemen to go to the office of the Chief Inspector, where they were served with additional charges.

These charges are that Keenan borrowed $25 from Frank Scamoci, $15 from Joseph Schmeiser, and $10 from Martin Kane, all Bronx saloonkeepers. Cunningham was charged with borrowing $15 from Scamoci and with drinking whisky in a Bronx saloon while in uniform.

LEADS 500 OUT OF DANGER.

11-Year-Old School Captain Is Calm When Fire Starts.

Five hundred small boys of the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society were exercising on their playground on 150th Street, west of Broadway, at 6 o'clock yesterday evening, when Assistant Supt. G. E. Halpern, who, with four teachers, was supervising their play, called aside eleven-year-old Alexander Cycleman, Captain of the boys, and spoke a few words to him. The boy returned to his playmates.

"Attention! Fall in!" he commanded. Then, as the scattered groups left their play and formed into lines, he shouted, "Forward, march!"

By this time there was a strong smell of smoke, and several boys in the rear rank could see flames shooting up from the wooden extension playground behind them. They caught the reassuring eyes of their teachers, however, and not a single little fellow turned his head or broke ranks. One by one the ranks followed the line, led by Capt. Cycleman, who marched them out of the playground into Broadway, and halted them for a moment at the fire-alarm box while he turned in the alarm. Then he led them to a slight elevation across the street, where, still in ranks, they watched the firemen come dashing up and put out a fairly respectable blaze.

The wooden extension was completely demolished, at a loss of about $150. Capt. Cycleman is open to offers to command a regiment, though he says he would prefer a fire company.

NEW HOME FOR REFORM CLUB.

Buys Building in South William Street as Downtown Civic Headquarters.

The Reform Club of this city has just purchased the building which runs through from South William Street to Stone Street along Mill Lane, and is now preparing to fit it up as a downtown club. In addition to the purchase price, it expects to expend $25,000 in alterations, plans for which were drawn by Architect Dunham Wheeler.

The club will have no sleeping rooms, but, in addition to the other usual club facilities, it will have committee rooms and meeting rooms, which will be available for use by its own committees and its guests in the civic work that is now carried on so extensively down town.

Besides its tariff work, the club expects to become the downtown headquarters of all the other reforms which its constitution permits it to take up and in which it has been active in times past, such as the ballot, currency, civil service, and other allied movements.

The club expects to open its new house in August or September, and, in view of its increased facilities, to enlarge its membership. Calvin Tomkins, Dock Commissioner, is President of the Reform Club.

WIFE'S ONE HAPPY DAY.

Day She Wed the Only One, Says Mrs. Hall—Blames Mother-in-Law.

Justice Newburger granted counsel fees yesterday to Susie P. Hall, who is suing Clarence E. Hall for a separation. Mrs. Hall blames her matrimonial troubles on Mrs. Lyman W. Hall, her mother-in-law. She said she had had but one happy day of married life—the first.

Mrs. Hall, the elder, put in an affidavit in which she declares that her daughter-in-law is utterly unfitted for her son, whom she describes in terms which indicate that he is a paragon of young manhood. Mrs. Hall the younger is now working in an office for $16 a week.

Hall, in his affidavit, says he was persistently entreated by his wife to marry her.

PROF. JORDAN NO SUFFRAGIST.

At Least Not Now, Though She Once Spoke at Their National Convention.

College women are to be called together for an anti-suffrage meeting at the Colony Club on Saturday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock by the National League for the Civic Education of Women, of which Mrs. Gilbert Jones is President. A college woman's branch of the league will be organized later. Prof. Mary A. Jordan, head of the English department at Smith College, will speak on "Some Overlooked Issues of the Ballot." Mrs. Annie Nathan Meyer, who is at the head of the college branch of the work of the league, will preside. The league will call this its "College Day."

Prof. Jordan made an address at a meeeting of the National Suffrage Association at Baltimore in 1906. One of the papers read was upon "What Has Been Accomplished by Suffrage for the Higher Education of Women." Following this there were tributes of gratitude to Miss Susan B. Anthony from the representative women's colleges.

Finds a Charm Through Lost Column.

While on his way home during the rush hour in the Subway last Thursday evening Harry Samuels of 656 Broadway lost part of a valuable Masonic charm. He advertised in the Lost and Found column of THE TIMES on Saturday. Later in the day a woman called at his office and returned the charm, saying that her son had picked it up in a Subway train and that she in turn had noticed the advertisement in THE TIMES.

She at first refused the reward of $5 offered, but was prevailed upon to take it and present it to her son.

DAWSON TRANSFERS PAINTINGS INTACT

He's No Imitator of the Masters, but an Artist in Removing Paint from Old Canvasses, He Says.

"OLD MILL" SO TREATED

Other Witnesses Pronounce Genuine the Two Martin Pictures on Which Evans Sues Clausen, Art Dealer.

Arthur Dawson, the artist, took the stand yesterday in the suit of William T. Evans, the art collector, against William Clausen, the art dealer, to explain his relations with Clausen, particularly in reference to the two paintings "Near Newport" and "The Old Mill Near St. Cloud," on which Mr. Evans sues, representing that they are imitation Homer Martin pictures, though he bought them for real Martins. Dawson had with him two paintings in the process of being "transferred." He insisted that the paintings in dispute are geuine. He had cleaned one of them and transferred the other. He said he had transferred some twenty pictures for Clausen and that he was the only man in the United States who could "transfer" paintings. He denied absolutely that he had never painted any imitations of the works of other painters.

Henry M. Hamilton and Parker Mann were the two witnesses who preceded Dawson on the stand. Mann pronounced the two pictures in dispute to be genuine works of Homer D. Martin. Hamilton, who was a friend of the dead painter, said he had accompanied Martin about France and that he had seen him make a sketch of an old mill near St. Cloud.

Dawson said he had cleaned the "Near Newport" painting and transferred the "Old Mill" painting. He was asked why he had not stenciled the date of transfer on the backs of paintings he had put through this process, and remarked that this would be "cheap advertising" and was not customary. He explained the sending of blank canvases to him by Clausen by saying that Clausen supplied the canvas on which to remount the transferred pictures.

Busy Transferring a Turner.

The first picture which Dawson showed the jury in the process of transfer he said was a "Turner" worth $14,000. The picture was shown in the three stages of transfer. Part of it was attached to the old, weak canvas on which it was originally painted. The middle section consisted of the paint alone, unmounted between two plates of thick glass. The other end was attached to the new canvas. Mr. Dawson said he had other methods of transferring pictures.

"But I did the transferring of 'Near Newport' in much the same way," he said. "The painting 'Near Newport' was very much discolored, dirty, and cracked when I received it, in the early part of 1902. It was painted on a dirty, blackened cotton canvas, which was almost ready to give way.

"I first clean a picture carefully, taking all of the dirt out of the brushwork and removing all of the accumulated grease and acid. Then I build up the face of the picture with sheets of cardboard and linen to support it. I nail the margins together and turn the painting over, to get at the back. The paint is not taken off the canvas, but the canvas is taken off the paint, leaving the paint resting face down on the cardboard and linen. I use sandpaper to remove the canvas sometimes, and other times chemicals. I have a preparation I use on the back of the paint and on the face of the new canvas. I place the two together, and then impose a heavy weight. The weight makes the contact perfect, and the painting is ready within a month.

"When I got 'Near Newport' the paint was so hard that I had to apply a solvent. It was not until the painting had softened that I was able to begin the process I have described."

Mr. Dawson went on to explain that he used a single primed canvas for this work.

"I put a coat of creosote on the face of the canvas, to keep it from stretching and to kill any animalculae." He said that it should not be apparent that a picture had been restored after the completion of the process, and hoped that the paintings he had processed did not show it. If the transferring had been poorly done or the painting had been kept in a damp or hot place, it would be likely to crack, he said, along the original lines.

"Near Newport" Under Teatment.

"When I took 'Near Newport' off the paper, I filled all the cracks in its face with a plastic preparation of my own. Then I went over it with a scraper, to take out the unevenness. I put some glazing over the painting, after cleaning the sky."

Mr. Dawson declined to state what preparation he had used to fill the cracks. He said in reply to questions as to Martin's peculiarities of style:

"He had a way of putting on one layer of color and waiting until it dried, and then dragging over, as we call it, another layer. Then he had a way of putting on each color separately, when he wanted to get tints, instead of mixing the tints on his palette as many painters do. This produced a peculiar effect, a sort of braiding, in which each color could be separated from the others by the eye. This gave a richness or what artists call quality."

Mr. Evans, the witness said, had suggested that he should do what he had done for the two paintings which are in dispute. Evans, also the witness said, had expressed to Artist Ranger, who occupied the next studio to Dawson, and who was advising Dawson in the work of cleaning and restoring paintings for him, that it might be advisable to cut in two a large painting, "Early Morning," by Inness.

"I thought this would be an act of vandalism," Mr. Dawson testified, and we decided not to do it. Mr. Ranger spent four hours on it, painting it all over."

Attorney Jerome Eisner for Clausen showed Dawson a painting, "Devil's Rock," by Blakelock, which, he said, he had transferred from a piece of muslin to a panel in 1902.

"After I had transferred it I had trouble with a group of Indians in the foreground," he said. "One of them had lost his head, and I had to get it back for him. So I put it on again. When the picture was brought to me that piece was broken out. So I made that sketch of an Indian's head you find on the back. I had no experience sketching Indian's heads, and I wanted to be sure I could do it satisfactorily."

Only the Canvas Changed.

"When a picture has been restored that way, does it look new?" he was asked.

"Yes, a picture, fifteen or twenty years old, if properly cleaned, will look as bright as new."

"Will it smell of paint?"

"Well, no, but it will smell of varnish."

Mr. Dawson uncorked and handed to the jury a bottle of a preparation he said he used on the surfaces of paintings he had cleaned. Witnesses for the plaintiff had testified to bringing canvases which smelled of fresh paint from his studio to Clausen's gallery.

On cross-examination Dawson said he might have been given $2,000 or $3,000 for his work for Clausen at various times. He declared it had been necessary to transfer some fourteen pictures painted by Martin, because the artist had used a cheap grade of cotton canvas, which deteriorated rapidly. He admitted that it had not been customary to transfer new pictures up to about fifteen years ago, when cheaper grades of canvas began to be used. He said it had not been customary before then to transfer pictures less than a couple of hundred years old. The witness and ex-Judge Hatch had tilts over questions which involved technical matters of painting.

"Well, you are not very lucid sometimes yourself," said Dawson once when ex-Judge Hatch was displeased with his answers.

"Why did you stain the backs of the canvases and stretchers?" asked Judge Hatch.

"To make them more harmonious," he replied. "You know, sometimes about all a person knows about a painting is the back."

The trial will be continued to-day.

HARPER'S
FOR APRIL

Sage in the Cleveland Leader writes:

"HARPER'S is edited with an intelligence that seeks goods that wear, just as a prudent housewife picks a black silk gown; it lasts and lasts and lasts. And always with instruction and entertainment. I'm sorry for the lads and lassies that haven't had the influence of a good magazine in their lives, and I'm sorriest for those that have never known HARPER'S. It isn't a fiction magazine alone. It stands firmly on the basic idea of soundness. It keeps in touch with science in all its branches and deals with it authoritatively, but in terms of common understanding. When a big new idea comes up, I'm sure to get the best explanation of it from the pages of my old friend."

THE APRIL HARPER'S

A Woman in the Silk Mills

A remarkable human document. In order to make a thorough study of conditions in the Pennsylvania silk mills, Miss Florence Sanville of the Consumers' League of Philadelphia obtained a position as a worker in the mills and shared in every way in the life of the other girls. Her narrative is one of intense interest, a record of facts worthy of every one's attention.

Today and Wednesday
Most Important Presentation of Feminine Fashions for Spring.

Especially Costumes, Suits, Wraps.

THE MOST COMMANDING Easter Exhibition of the new fashions ever made in this vicinage will be ready on the second floor of the Loeser Store this morning, and we extend to you an invitation to see it.

The dignity and beauty of the spring styles find their best expression in these carefully chosen examples that now come forward for formal viewing. The wonderful grace of line which is the very heart of the style-thought of the great Parisian designers is most expressively illustrated in these new Costumes, Suits and Wraps.

The scope of the Exhibition is very broad. The number of models shown, their separate individuality, their exquisite beauty of line, of color, of fabrics and of workmanship, render this display of vital interest and a new evidence of the authority and leadership of the Loeser Store in matters of dress.

Costumes : : Brilliant Company

The Costumes will hold the centre of the stage in today's Fashion Scene. Never were Costumes so full of charm—so beautiful in the true artistic sense with a beauty given by line and tone and exquisite drapery.

Lines are straightly slender, giving a lithe youthfulness to the figure. Much of the grace and distinction attained is due to the marvelous draperies—one of the strongest notes of spring fashions.

Colorings are exquisite and the beauty of them is enhanced by the artistic materials, all of which are soft and "collante."

You inspect one gown and are sure nothing could surpass its beauty; you pass on to the next and the next—and find new and added beauty as you go. It is an exhibit no beauty-loving woman will want to miss. There is one gown in unbroken sweep of black from shoulder to floor that would well repay you to see, if there were no others.

Tailored Suits

Are chiefly remarkable for their wonderful variety; for the new shortness of the coats and the pronounced favor shown the Russian Blouse, originated and advocated by Drecoll.

Even in Tailored Suits the favor for Draperies finds expression—of course not in actual folds, but in effect. While Tailored Suits are Paris-inspired, they are American made, for no one can approach America in things tailored. There is new beauty in their lines, new richness in colorings and fabrics—Fabrics varying from finest velvety broadcloths to roughest of Homespuns, hopsacking, etc., sharing alike in favor.

Spring Wraps.

The most comprehensive exhibit we have ever made in Wraps, for the charm of the new types will tempt women into buying prodigally—far beyond just the necessary.

Coats are in high favor—loose, graceful affairs with a little of the cape in effect. Made of rich silks and satins; some of jeweled nets over silk. Many of them exceedingly light in weight, which adds to their grace and individuality, yet they lend sufficient warmth for spring and summer evenings.

Special prominence is given blacks, although there are a number of delightful types in the new tones.

Over 90 Styles of Brass Bedsteads At Very Greatly Reduced Prices

THE SPRING SALE of BRASS and WHITE ENAMELED IRON BEDSTEADS started this morning with the best offerings we have ever been able to make in any one of these annual events.

Through very large purchases, through contracts made months ago and through cordial co-operation from some of the chief makers in the country, we were able to gather a stock of Bedsteads of exceptional quality and to make the prices for them in some cases lower than such Bedsteads have ever cost before. Even when materials and labor were much less expensive than now these prices, in some cases, were never equaled.

So that is little wonder that the third floor, where the Bedsteads are shown, is a busy place today. And though quantities are very large, we suggest that you come promptly if you are interested.

$14 Brass Bedsteads at $8.35
Two-inch pillars, polished or satin finish. Colonial design; 3 feet, 3½ feet, 4 feet and 4½ feet sizes.

$19 Brass Bedsteads at $12.65
Two-inch pillars, cross rod and ornamented laterals, polish or satin finish, Colonial design; 3 feet, 3½ feet, 4 feet and 4½ feet sizes.

$23 Brass Bedsteads at $14.95
Two-inch pillars and continuous bent top tubing, ornamented laterals, polish or satin finish; 3 feet, 3½ feet, 4 feet and 4½ feet sizes.

$26 Brass Bedsteads at $17.50
Two-inch pillars, 1¼ inch square top rod and ornamented laterals, polish or satin finish, Colonial design; 3 feet, 3½ feet, 4 feet and 4½ feet sizes.

$32 Brass Bedsteads at $24.75
Two-inch pillars and continuous bent top tubing, ornamented laterals, polish or satin finish; 3 feet, 3½ feet, 4 feet and 4½ feet sizes.

$33 Brass Bedsteads at $25.50

MEAT TRUST SUED, COMPANIES INDICTED

INDIVIDUALS NOT NAMED

In Grand Jury Presentments—Big Packers Pleased with This Feature of the Case.

CHICAGO, March 21.—After eight weeks of investigation into alleged violations of the Sherman law, a Federal Grand Jury to-day returned indictments against the National Packing Company and ten subsidiary concerns.

As soon as the indictments had been presented to Judge Kenesaw M. Landis the Government filed a suit in equity for the dissolution of the National Packing Company. Besides those indicted, sixteen firms and individuals are made defendants.

No individuals are named in the indictments returned to-day, the following corporations being specified:

G. H. Hammond Company, Michigan.
Anglo-American Provision Company, Illinois.
Omaha Packing Company, Illinois.
Fowler Packing Company, Illinois.
United Dressed Beef Company, New York.
Western Packing Company, Denver.
New York Butchers' Dressed Meat Company, New York.
Hammond Packing Company, Illinois.
National Packing Company, Illinois.
St. Louis Dressed Beef and Provision Company.

The defendants to the bill in equity are the National Packing Company, H. G. Hammond Company, Hammond Packing Company, Omaha Packing Company, Anglo-American Provision Company, Fowler Packing Company, United Dress Beef Company, St. Louis Dressed Beef and Provision Company, Western Packing Company, Colorado Packing and Provision Company, New York Butchers' Dressed Meat Company, Continental Packing Company, Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Morris & Co., Edward Tilden, Louis F. Swift, Edward F. Swift, Charles H. Swift, L. A. Carton, Frank A. Fowler, J. Ogden Armour, Arthur Meyer, Thomas J. Connors, Edward Morris, Thomas E. Milson, and L. H. Heyman.

It is the opinion of the Department of Justice and the Grand Jury which, at Judge Landis's direction, has been investigating the meat industry, that if the National Packing Company is broken up the alleged evils of this combination will be remedied.

The Charge of Monopoly.

The bill for dissolution of the alleged trust charges that prior to May 10, 1902, Armour & Co., Swift & Co., and Morris & Co. were parties to an unlawful combination to fix prices and restrain trade in fresh meat; that on that day suit was brought by the United States under the Sherman Anti-trust law to prevent their violations of the law, and that as a result of that suit Judge Grosscup on Feb. 18, 1902, filed an opinion stating that he would grant an injunction in accordance with the prayer of the Government's bill. The final order in the case, however, was not entered until April 4, 1903.

In the meantime, on March 18, 1903, the National Packing Company was organized, all of the stock of which was owned by the Armour, Swift, and Morris interests, the parties to the original alleged combination.

On the date of its organization, the bill states, there were turned over to the National Packing Company by the Armour, Swift, and Morris interests control of a number of packing concerns which previous to that time had been competitors, not only of the Armour, Swift, and Morris Companies, but of each other. These concerns are the ones named as defendants in the indictment returned by the Grand Jury to-day.

The bill charges that the necessary effect of the union of these interests in the management of the National Packing Company is to destroy competition, not only among the constituent companies of the National Packing Company, but also between those companies and the Armour, Swift, and Morris Companies.

The prayer of the bill is that the management and control of the National Packing Company of its subsidiary companies may be declared to be in violation of the Sherman act and unlawful and void, and that each of the individual defendants and the National Packing Company and the Armour, Swift, and Morris Companies may be enjoined from exercising any control whatsoever over the subsidiary companies of the National Packing Company; that the subsidiary companies may be enjoined from paying any dividends to the National Packing Company, and the defendants may be enjoined and prohibited from carrying on any inter-State commerce until such time as they have satisfied the court that they are no longer party to any unlawful combination in restraint of trade.

Company Will Fight.

In a statement issued on behalf of the National Packing Company, Ralph Crews, its general counsel, to-night gives some inkling of a determination to fight the Government to the end. His statement follows:

"The company was organized in March, 1903, for the purpose of economic operation of certain subsidiary corporations, named jointly with it in the indictment returned to-day. Its organization was directed by the best counsel obtainable, who then believed and now believe that its organization and the operation of its subsidiary companies in no way transgressed the provisions of the Sherman act, and in this respect it is similar to nearly all the large corporations of the country.

"The total percentage of the business done by the corporation controlled by the National Packing Company forms but a small part of the whole volume of the packing industry. This proportion could not constitute a monopoly in any sense of the word. Instead of operating to 'restrain the trade' of its subsidiary companies, as alleged in the indictment, it is a fact that the companies have all shown a healthy increase since the formation of the National. The company is operated by its officers purely as a competitive and independent factor in the trade.

"The indictment returned to-day and the bill in equity filed to-day by the District Attorney are directed at the organization and operation of this company. These operations have at all times been frank and open, and we are confident that the courts will sustain our contentions with respect to their legality."

Big Packers Not Alarmed.

Though the company will fight the case, the chief individual packers are said to be happy in the belief that their troubles are at an end; that the menace of the Federal prison is past, because no indictments were found against them individually, and that a solution for one of their problems has been found for them by the Government. With the National Packing Company wiped out, they figure that Armour & Co., Morris & Co., and Swift & Co. would be left in undisputed possession of the field.

The big packers bought up the various companies which now constitute the National at various times for the purpose of eliminating their competition. They would have preferred to close the plants down immediately and take over their business themselves, but the storms of public indignation which had followed such action by other companies caused them to continue the separate operation of these companies. To facilitate this the National Packing Company was formed, but it is said that this has been at a loss to the packers, even though a few small dividends have been paid. Although cumbrous and uneconomical, it was felt that it was safer than destroying them and taking over their business.

The bill filed by the Government, however, prays an injunction restraining the individual defendants from exercising any control over the National or its subsidiary concerns and restraining them from engaging in inter-State commerce.

This, say the packers' lawyers, will of itself destroy the troublesome "independent" companies entirely, and leave Armour, Swift, and Morris in control of the packing business of the country in their own names, and not by proxy, subject only to the petty annoyances of the few independents of only local influence.

If the operations of the National Packing Company are summarily stopped it will close down at least ten packing houses in eight cities, close down about 200 wholesale branch houses, and remove from the Chicago Stock Yards alone 75 buyers, drawing salaries of $10,000 to $20,000 a year.

It is said that if the indictments had been of individuals the packers would have felt compelled to fight the bill in equity to the last, rather than imperil their own personal safety by damaging admissions. Since, however, the only result of admitting the facts alleged in the bill and taking the consequent conviction under the indictment would be $5,000 fines for corporations they are free to take the daring action described above.

ADMITS MEAT BOYCOTT HURT.

Ryan, Cincinnati Packer, Also Says He Gets All He Can for Wares.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Gen. Michael Ryan, President of the Cincinnati Abbatoir Company, occupied the stand during the session of the Senate High Cost of Living Committee this afternoon. Questioned as to how his prices were fixed, he said the cost of every carcass was figured on, and then they got all they could for it.

Gen. Ryan is the only meat packer who so far has admitted that the recent meat boycott hurt his company. He acknowledged his concern lost several thousand dollars a week while the boycott was in progress. He said the volume of business was about $5,000,000 a year, and that he was satisfied with a profit of 1 per cent. The witness estimated that wages had advanced from 15 to 20 per cent. in the last five years, 25 per cent. in the last ten years, and 30 per cent. since 1896. He attributed the higher cost of meat to the growing prosperity of the country, saying that more people are eating meat now than in former years.

John A. Green of Cleveland, Secretary of the National Association of Retail Grocers, said he did not think groceries had advanced in price in the last twenty-seven years. He will be heard again to-morrow.

TO PREVENT COLLUSION.

Judge Withholds Decree in Undefended Divorce Till Respondent Sees Evidence

Before Judge Morschauser of the Supreme Court in Yonkers will grant an interlocutory decree of divorce to John Doslop of Peekskill from his wife, Sarah, he has directed that a copy of the testimony taken at the hearing be served upon her.

This course of action, which he announced yesterday, is regarded as a good plan by lawyers, as it will tend to prevent collusion between the parties in the action. Judge Morschauser says he has done so to safeguard the interests of both parties as well as the State of New York. In the Doslop matter Judge Morschauser would not hear the testimony until a guardian had been appointed for the wife, as she is a minor. She did not put in any answer.

DRAFTS FOR $23,796 LOST.

Japanese Firm Advertises Payment on Missing Notes Has Been Stopped.

The New York agents of Mitsui & Co. of Tokio want the return of two drafts representing $23,796, which were lost by a messenger. The office of Mitsui & Co., which is one of the largest corporations in Japan, is at 445 Broome Street.

In advertising for the lost drafts in THE TIMES, warning is given that payment has been stopped, and the finder is cautioned not to attempt to negotiate the paper. Both are six months drafts, due in June, one for $14,640.43 and the other $9,156, to the order of Mitsui & Co., and payable at the National Park Bank.

MINISTER ROBS BENEFACTOR.

Despoils Toy Bank of Child of Clergyman Who Took Him In.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., March 21.—The Rev. William Long, a Methodist minister, who says he is from West Virginia, was sentenced here at 1 A. M. uSnday morning to thirty days in the County Jail on the charge of the Rev. Charles Walker of Narrowsburg that Long stole something over $5 from a bank belonging to Mr. Walker's son. The minister's trial lasted all through Saturday night.

Long arrived in town penniless with his wife and three small children, and appealed to Mr. Walker for assistance. The minister took them into his home and circulated a subscription paper in their behalf, receiving a liberal contribution from the members of his church, which he turned over to Long, and next morning he and his family left town.

Soon after their departure the Walkers discovered that a toy bank belonging to one of their children was missing. A search disclosed it, broken to pieces and empty. Constable Stocher went to Callicoon, a small village above Narrowsburg, where he found the Rev. Mr. Long and arrested him. He was found to have the stolen bank contents in his possession.

Much sympathy is felt for Mrs. Long and her children, who are practically destitute and among strangers.

WALKS IN SLEEP TO RIVER.

Eight-Year-Old Girl Rescues Her Aged Father as He Reaches the Water.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., March 21.—Terrence Dean, while suffering a nightmare last night, rose from his bed and walked into Toney's Brook, a stream which runs near by his home, 74 Glenridge Avenue, in this town.

Dean's absence from the house was noted by his 8-year-old daughter Mary, who, upon discovering that her father was missing, arose from her bed and commenced a search for him. The girl was so startled at her father's strange disappearance from his home at midnight that she left the house clad only in her nightgown. By the dim moonlight she discerned the man wandering on the bank of the stream and ran to intercept him.

At this juncture Dean started down the embankment and landed in Toney's Brook. The water in the stream was low, and Dean landed on the rocks. The man was awakened by the shock and awoke as his child reached his side. The little girl's screams awakened the neighbors, some of whom ran to her aid. Dean was dragged out of the creek, suffering from two fractured ribs and severe contusions and taken home.

Three weeks ago Dean's wife died and a short time later two of his children were stricken with scarlet fever. Dean had never before been afflicted with somnambulism, and it is thought that worry caused by the death of his wife and the illness of the children produced somnambulism.

VERDICT AROUSES EDDYITES.

Parents Who Gave Children "Science Treatment" Found Guilty of Neglect.

LA JUNTA, Col., March 21.—Judge E. W. McDaniel of the Otero County Court rendered a decision to-day holding B. D. Messenger and wife guilty of "neglect" in failing to call a physician to attend three children after three other children of the family had died. It is said that followers of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy will carry the case, if necessary, to the highest court in the land to have a final decision regarding the legal status of Christian Science healing.

PACKERS REFUSE TO GIVE UP BOOKS

ALSO ATTACKS GARVEN

Declares He Keeps a Press Bureau to Boom His Case—Meat Trust Men Won't Surrender.

Samuel Untermyer, one of the lawyers for the National Packing Company, said yesterday afternoon in the office of William D. Edwards, in Jersey City, where testimony was taken on a rule to show cause why the action of Supreme Court Justice Francis J. Swayze in signing an order compelling the production of minutes and records of Directors and stockholders' meetings of this company in this State for examination by the Hudson County Grand Jury, that the indictment of this company and others, as well as that of the individual meat packers, was an outrage, done to satisfy public clamor.

He gave as his reason for not producing the defendants in New Jersey, without a fight in the court, that the case has been unfairly tried in the newspapers; that every step that is taken or is about to be taken is exploited in the public press day after day, and has been since early in February. He charged, further, that a regular press bureau has been maintained at Prosecutor Garven's office.

Mr. Untermyer made these statements while being examined as a witness. His associates were ex-Senator Edwards, Louis Hood of Newark, and Richard V. Lindabury of Newark.

When Justice Swayze signed an order directing that the minutes and records of the indicted packing companies be brought within New Jersey a ruling was obtained from the Supreme Court to review for certiorari Judge Swayze's action, and it was in connection with this ruling, which is to be argued before the Supreme Court in Trenton, N. J., to-morrow, that testimony was taken yesterday afternoon in Mr. Edwards's office, in the First National Bank Building, Jersey City.

Representing the defense were Prosecutor Pierre P. Garven, Assistant Prosecutor George T. Vickers, ex-Assistant Prosecutor Joseph M. Noonan, and Supreme Court Examiner Theodore L. Rurode.

It appeared from the opening that Mr. Untermyer was endeavoring to prove that Kenneth K. McLaren, one of the Directors of the National Packing Company, who escaped indictment, had been used by Prosecutor Garven in obtaining an indictment by the Grand Jury. Mr. McLaren had produced books before the Grand Jury, but on the witness stand yesterday Prosecutor Garven declined to answer any questions about them.

"What do you seek to prove by these books you desire?" asked Mr. Untermyer, referring to the company's books outside New Jersey.

Mr. Noonan objected to the question on the ground that an answer would reveal secrets of the Grand Jury.

"Do you want the books for matters pending before the Grand Jury?" Mr. Untermyer persisted.

"There are certain charges made against individuals who are to be investigated by the Grand Jury," was the reply.

"Against whom are these certain proceedings directed?"

"I refuse to answer."

Following some minor cross-examination Mr. Untermyer was called as a witness. Mr. Noon examined him.

"Whom do you represent in these proceedings?" he was asked.

"I represent the National Packing Company in this particular case, and others in other matters."

"Why do you refuse to give up your books?"

"For reasons stated before Judge Swayze."

"Do you think the apprehension of these books would incriminate your clients? If you don't think the books would be injurious to your clients, who do you not produce them?"

In answer Mr. Untermyer made the statement that the proceeding is an outrage and a travesty on justice.

"You can put an end to it all by bringing the defendants here," said Mr. Noonan.

Mr. Noonan asked why the defendants were not brought into New Jersey. Mr. Lindabury interrupted by saying that it would be impossible to try the defendants in bank before the Supreme Court. Mr. Noonan differed with this opinion.

"Would you be willing to bring these defendants here to be tried in bank?" asked Mr. Noonan.

"You know you can't try them in New Jersey in that way," said Mr. Untermyer, "and therefore you couldn't do anything with them when you got them here."

"Are we to understand that none of these defendants has been in this State since March, 1908, the time named in the indictment?" asked Mr. Noonan.

"I decline to say anything more," said Mr. Untermyer. But he added, voluntarily: "These people were never in New Jersey. No doubt the Prosecutor knows whether these men have ever been in this State. This must have been the basis for the indictment."

Mr. Untermyer was asked if he knew where the books desired by the Prosecutor are.

"I do not," he said, "but I am informed that they are in Chicago in the hands of Mr. Edward Tilden, the President of the National Packing Company. I am referring to the minute books of the National Packing Company. I assume that all the books are in Chicago."

"Your refusal to produce the books here is not because you think it would incriminate your clients?" asked Mr. Noonan.

"I have nothing more to say on the subject. We have placed our objections with Judge Swayze."

Pickles Poison a Family.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., March 21.—Coloring matter in a jar of pickles is believed to have poisoned William Sigler, Carrie Brooks, Alice Jacobus, and a woman friend of the Siglers. The victims were all seriously ill after eating the pickles, but are now convalescent. The attending physician said that the man and women were suffering from arsenic poisoning.

SAYS HUSBAND EXILED HER.

Mrs. Baker Alleges He Forced Her to Stay Abroad, So She Asks a Divorce.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., March 21.—Declaring that she has been exiled from America for years by her husband, and that he has virtually deserted her, Mrs. Virginia Lee Baker of Glen Ridge has commenced a suit in the Court of Chancery for divorce and alimony from her husband, Henry Bainbridge Baker.

Mrs. Baker says they were married in Boston in 1893, and that after a year of married life her husband sent her to Europe. When she returned she was sent away again and again until in 1905 she was told that she must stay abroad or he would no longer support her.

When she could not stand being parted from her child any longer, she says, her husband sent the boy with a nurse to visit her for six months. The mother says that until a month ago she was forced to stay in Europe, but she finally returned and decided to sue for divorce. She avers that her husband told her her presence here distracted him.

CODINGTON BROTHERS TO JAIL

Ex-Town Clerk of Warren, N. J., Gets 18 Months, Former Freeholder a Year.

Special to The New York Times.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., March 21.—Horace Codington, a lawyer, and Secretary of the Somerset County Democratic Executive Committee, was to-day sentenced to one year and six months in the New Jersey State Prison at Trenton for receiving and using money not due him while Clerk of the Township of Warren, in this county. His brother Joel, who for fifteen years was a member of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders and Chairman of the Finance Committee of the board, was sentenced to one year in the State Prison for paying out the township funds to his brother while he (Joel) was the Treasurer.

The financial manipulations of the two Codingtons bankrupted the township, and not until the investigation was over and the matter put before a Grand Jury was the money refunded. When the December panel was called Joel Codington was indicted on three counts and Horace on one count. Joel at once pleaded non vult, but Horace stood trial.

FATALLY SHOT BY BURGLAR.

Intruder Escapes After Battle in Dark —Suspect Arrested.

CAMDEN, N. J., March 21.—After a fight with a burglar whom he found in the kitchen of his home, 1,407 Tenth Street, to-day, Julius Spiegelheuer is dying in Camden Hospital with a bullet wound in his side.

Awakened by a noise in the kitchen, Spiegelheuer crept down stairs and came face to face with a negro. They grappled and fought all over the place. Finally they fell and the negro drew his revolver and fired three times. One shot took effect. The man escaped.

Later in the day a negro who gave his name as Charles Cleaver was arrested on suspicion.

IMMIGRANT BOAT SINKS IN THE BAY

The Old William Fletcher, with Barge in Tow, Springs a Leak in the Harbor.

TUG GOES TO THE RESCUE

All Hands on the Fletcher Are Taken Off as Veteran Sidewheeler Is Cut Adrift.

After nearly half a century service the side-wheel steamer William Fletcher ended her career about noon yesterday when she quietly sank off the southern end of Governors Island. She struck a sunken spar, which tore a hole in her hull. The William Fletcher was towing a barge containing about 725 immigrants from South Brooklyn to Ellis Island when she went down. There was time before the water got to the engineroom fires to transfer all on board to the barge and cut her adrift.

The William Fletcher, commanded by Capt. Frank Branigan, was engaged in taking arriving steerage passengers from the steamship Luisiana at Bush Store, South Brooklyn, to the immigration station. She left the latter place about 11:15 A. M., towing alongside the barge Addie. On the latter were all of the 725 steerage passengers with the exception of about fifteen, who were on the Fletcher.

The Fletcher was well on her way when the fireman reported to the engineer that the craft was leaking. At once the pumps were sent going, but in spite of that the water continued to bubble up through the engine-room floor. Capt. Branigan, being informed, ordered top speed, hoping to reach Ellis Island before the vessel went down.

Top speed with the Fletcher did not amount to much; and before Governors Island was reached the skipper saw that she could not last long. Accordingly the few persons crawled over the rail to the Addie. Only the Captain, mate, and two deck hands remained on her. By the time the others were on the Addie the mate reported that the fires were out, and there was no use lingering on board. All the time this had been going on the Fletcher had been whistling for help. The call brought the tug Charles Cooper and the New York Central tug No. 4. The Cooper endeavored to push the sinking vessel and her charge along, but when it was seen that the Fletcher must go down she was cut free from the barge. The tugs got her in toward the southern end of Governors Island, where she sank.

The Fletcher is owned by the John E. Moore Company, which has the contract for taking aliens from steamships to Ellis Island and to railroad terminals. She was built at Keyport in 1864.

The New Cretonnes And How They're Being Used
O'Neill Building—Fourth Floor.

We have built a series of "one-sided rooms" in our upholstery department, just to show people what wonderful things Colonial cretonnes are, when properly used, for draperies, portieres, wall coverings, etc.

These rooms are hung with these cretonnes; utility boxes, window seats and chair cushions are covered with them, and from the windows and book shelves hang the most delightful of curtains possible to imagine made of them.

As though cretonnes themselves were not enough, we show with them special wall papers, designed exactly as the cretonnes are designed, and these we sell by the roll. It is these cretonnes that we are showing in these wonderful "one-sided rooms," and we should like nothing better than to have you come and see for yourself the charm that proper hangings can give to small and large rooms, when skilfully treated.

We shall sell 2,000 yards of

PAULHAN IN FLIGHT, HEADED FOR FRANCE

Not in an Aeroplane, but on an Ocean Liner Which He Boarded Secretly at Night.

LEAVES HIS FLIERS BEHIND

Also Uncle Raoul, Who Opines That the Unartistic Americans Didn't Appreciate the Aviator.

Louis Paulhan, the French aviator, whose arrival in the United States with four aeroplanes last January precipitated a series of suits in the Federal and State courts made a flight last Saturday that was altogether unheralded. Also, it was unknown until yesterday.

Evading the numerous private detectives and others who were watching him, Paulhan on Friday afternoon left the Hotel Brevoort, where he had been staying for two days, booked passage on the Hamburg-American liner President Grant, went aboard at night, and, with his stateroom doors tightly bolted at sailing time against possible process servers in a civil suit started against him that day, took leave of American shores. With him were his wife, Mescarrol, one of his mechanics, and the Marquise Raoul de Kersancour de Pennendreff, whose husband had been acting as Paulhan's interpreter since his arrival in this country.

With Paulhan went also fifteen large pieces of baggage and several dozens of smaller packages, but his two Farman biplanes and two Blériot monoplanes, with which he made several flights at Los Angeles, Houston, New Orleans, and Jamaica, are still in the betting shed of the Jamaica race track, jealously guarded by representatives of the Sheriff's office.

The Wrights Not Worying.

Pliny W. Williamson, attorney for Wilbur and Orville Wright, who were the first to begin legal proceedings against Paulhan, charging that his four aeroplanes infringed on their warping wings, rudder-control patent, stated yesterday that so far as his clients were concerned the departure of the French aviator was utterly immaterial. Mr. Williamson said that the permanent injunction of the United States Circuit Court, which prevented Paulhan from making any flights except under the deposit of a $6,000 bond weekly, would lead naturally to a determination of the validity of the claims put forward by the Dayton inventors.

Asked as to what course Wilbur and Orville Wright might pursue with regard to Paulhan's aeroplanes now held under a Supreme Court order, Mr. Williamson said that at the present time they had nothing to do with them, and would in no wise seek to prevent their being shipped to France if Paulhan so wished.

No so, however, with Edwin Cleary, who was Paulhan's manager and the impresario of the aviator's American invasion. He obtained an attachment on the four machines which Paulhan brought over, in an action alleging damages to the extent of $150,000 by virtue of Paulhan's refusal to continue making exhibition flights under the terms of his contract. This attachment avers that the Farman and Blériot machines are worth $25,000, and that they should not be removed from the jurisdiction of the State courts until a settlement of Cleary's claims for damages.

Meanwhile, Paulhan's uncle, Raoul Renon, is living in the shed at Jamaica, where the machines are guarded by the Sheriff, and is exceedingly voluble as to his nephew's position and the wrongs which he says Paulhan suffered uncomplainingly until the very last.

Americans Unappreciative.

According to Renon, Paulhan was sick and tired of the litigation which seemed to pursue him at every step. Renon said yesterday that the American people were utterly without a sense of the artistic and did not appreciate his nephew's efforts.

Renon said further that Paulhan felt that, in having made a new world's altitude record of almost 5,000 feet at the recent Los Angeles aviation meet, he had done enough for the money paid him for flying here. Paulhan felt, said his uncle, that his home country was entitled to the two further world's records which Paulhan believed himself capable of making, those for duration and speed. Therefore he wanted to return to France that he might set new aeroplane figures in these lines.

Incidentally, there are 6,000,000 francs in prizes, according to Renon, to be put up at European aviation meets this Spring and Summer, which Paulhan feels are his for the trying. Renon said that consideration of this latter fact might have had something to do with Paulhan's sudden determination to abrogate his contract here and sail for France.

It was reported yesterday that Paulhan's defense to the new civil suit which has been brought against him by Mr. Cleary for non-fulfillment of contract and under which the present attachment has been placed by the Sheriff on Paulhan's four machines, would be that he is not the owner of these aeroplanes and never has been. In this connection, an attorney prominently identified with the aeroplane industry said yesterday afternoon:

Aeroplanes Not His.

"The four machines which Paulhan imported are not now and never really have been his property. They were merely leased to him by Farman and Blériot for Paulhan's exhibition flights in this country and to popularize these types of aeroplanes in the United States.

"Whatever interest Paulhan may ever have had in the four machines he transferred to Mme. Paulhan during the recent Los Angeles meet."

Mr. Cleary, Paulhan's manager in his American flights, said last night that such a phase of the situation was news to him. He said that thus far Paulhan's tour of the United States has resulted in a net loss of about $60,000, and that $6,000 more, deposited as a bond that the French aviator might go aloft last week, would probably go in default, although Mr. Cleary might, he intimated, continue to fight this case brought by the Wrights. Mr. Cleary admitted that, if title to the four machines now at Jamaica was not in Paulhan's name, the only thing left to do would be to end the litigation and pocket his losses.

MAY FLY AT BELMONT PARK.

Wright Brothers Inspect Course with a View to Aviation Exhibitions.

It is probable that during the Summer Belmont Park race track will be used for aviation. Yesterday the Wright brothers visited the course of the Westchester Racing Association and inspected the facilities for flights. August Belmont, the President of the association, is very much interested in aviation and has subscribed $5,000 toward the fund to secure the international aviation meeting next October for New York. Before leaving for his honeymoon trip abroad Mr. Belmont expressed the hope that Belmont Park would be seleced as the centre for flights and experiments.

The appearance of the Wright brothers yesterday was somewhat of a surprise as it was not generally known that they contemplated exhibitions near New York. They discussed with Supt. Gorman just what would be necessary to place the grounds in a condition for the proposed flights. Although nothing definite was decided it is probable that Belmont Park will be the scene of many flights this Summer.

YALE AERO CLUB FORMED.

Students Will Build Their Own Machines and Make Flights.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 21.—Yale formed an aero club to-night, and voted to begin at once to build aeroplanes. About forty undergraduates joined the organization and pledged themselves to start work constructing machines. The old boathouse at Lake Whitney will be used as the work house. Several aerial navigators are members of the club, and they expect to hold some flights before the present college year closes in June.

Max Van Hoegen, a member of the senior class in the Sheffield Scientific School, was made President of the Club. He has served in the German Army Aero Corps and assisted Count Zeppelin in the latter's trips last year.

BETTER ELEVATED SERVICE.

More Trains Run on All Lines by Order of Public Service Commission.

Commenting on the improved service on the elevated lines, which went into effect yesterday, the Interborough Rapid Transit Company gave out this statement:

> Under orders from the Public Service Commission, the company had heretofore operated south on the Third Avenue line from 7 to 9 A. M., 94 trains. This service has been increased to 104 trains. Northbound, from 4:30 to 7 P. M., 103 trains were formerly operated, against 115 trains run to-day. From 7 to 10 P. M. more trains and additional cars to each train were operated in both directions.
>
> On the Second Avenue line, from 7 to 9 A. M. the 340 cars have been increased to 375 cars. From 4:30 to 10:30 P. M. 580 cars were run, against 526 cars in the past.
>
> On the Sixth Avenue line southbound, the 44 trains from 7 to 9 A. M. have been increased to 50 trains, and northbound from 4:30 to 7 P. M. from 59 to 62.
>
> On the Ninth Avenue line from 7 to 9:30 A. M., southbound, and from 4:30 to 7 P. M., northbound, there was no change in local trains operated. The express service, southbound, from 7 to 9:30 A. M., has been increased from 37 to 40 trains, and northbound, from 4:30 to 7 P. M., from 33 to 34.

As both the local and express trains of the Ninth Avenue line use the local tracks north of 116th Street, it was impossible to increase the service, as trains are now operated on a headway of only 55 seconds.

A count by representatives of the Public Service Commission and of the Interborough showed that all other hours there were more seats in all trains than passengers.

$35,000 FOR A HOSPITAL.

Albert Crane Makes Gift for New Site for Stamford Institution.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., March 21.—Albert Crane of Strawberry Hill was donated $35,000 for the purchase of a 12-acre site for the New Stamford Hospital. The fact became known to-day, when the site on West Broad Street was purchased. The gift was made as a memorial to his parents. Mr. Crane is now at the Hotel Bon Air, Augusta, Ga., with his wife.

Three or four years ago Mr. Crane gave $100,000 to Tufts College, of which he is a graduate, in memory of his father. Mr. Crane's father lived in Quincy, Mass., for many years. He owned granite quarries there, and came to Stamford to live in 1859. He also invested a great deal of money in real estate in New York. His only son, Albert, inherited the large estate. Albert Crane is a member of the New York Bar Association, but has not practiced his profession for several years.

PERU BREAKS WITH CHILE.

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 21.—The Peruvian Government notified the Government of Chile to-day of the withdrawal of the Peruvian Legation at Santiago because of the recent expulsion of Peruvian priests from the Provinces of Taona and Arica.

Peru's action was probably hastened by a note which Chile sent to that Government declaring her intention of retaining possession of Tacna and Arica.

The Chilean authorities have maintained that the Peruvian parish priests in the Province of Tacna have been carrying on a propaganda against Chile, and as a result of their preaching disloyalty was being spread broadcast. A short time ago an order was issued expelling all the Peruvian priests from Tacna, and those who insisted upon remaining were escorted across the border.

The Chileans have occupied the Provinces of Tacna and Arica since 1883, under the treaty signed after the war with Peru.

CAN'T AFFORD JERSEY WATER.

City Too Poor to Give Richmond Relief, Commissioner Says.

TRENTON, N. J., March 21.—At the public hearing to-day before the Senate Judiciary Committee, against the bill to forbid the taking of subterranean waters of Jersey for Staten Island, a letter was received from Water Supply Commissioner Henry G. Thompson of New York stating that New York City cannot afford the relief the Borough of Richmond must have at once.

Former Attorney General McCarter, appearing for the Hudson Water Company, contended that water in the bowels of the earth is private property and the State has no control over it. He read a letter from Water Commissioner De Verona of Richmond, claiming that the water supply of the borough was inadequate and unfit for use.

Turner A. Bell, President of the Hudson Water Company, said that the company would be ruined if the bill was passed. W. H. Doyle, President of the Taxpayers' Alliance of Staten Island, said he knew of no scarcity of water. The committee did not announce any decision regarding the bill.

CAPTURE A PRIVATE STILL.

Brownsville Police Hold Max Cohen on Charge of Selling Untaxed Whisky.

The police of the Liberty Avenue Station, Brooklyn, raided a moonshine distillery at 433 Hopkinson Avenue, Brownsville, last night and confiscated a huge still in full operation. Lieut. John Martin and Sergts. Eugene C. Mosher and John Tomford led the raid. They turned over the still to Officer Ray of the United States Internal Revenue Department.

Two men who left the tenement yesterday evening gave the clue to the still by their suspicious conduct. Officer Thomas Fitzpatrick, who patrols the beat in which the still was found, saw two men leaving the place with a large burlap bag. When they saw him they dropped the bag, containing a five-gallon jug of white moonshine whisky, and started to run. Fitzpatrick gave chase and captured Max Cohen of 19 Hester Street, Manhattan, after a brisk run.

The police are holding Cohen for the Federal authorities on the charge of being a suspicious person. The raiding party found five vacant rooms in the rear of the building, a four-story double tenement. There was no one in charge of the still when it was raided. It gave signs of recent service. The Internal Revenue authorities believe that there are several other moonshine stills in Brownsville, which supply saloons on the east side of Manhattan with untaxed whisky.

WOMEN MONOPOLIZE NOONDAY MEETINGS

Speaker at Trinity Church Asserts That Business Men Have Been Crowded Out.

BIG HATS HIDE PREACHER

Wealthy Women Fill Pews, Forcing Clerks to Stand—Ministers Asked to Hold Meetings Exclusively for Men.

Just after Bishop Weller of Fond du Lac, Wis., had concluded his first address of Holy Week in Trinity Church yesterday noon there was held in the gateway of the famous churchyard an informal meeting of men. A young Wall Street clerk, employed in a broker's office, called the company together and said:

"I am heartily in favor of noon meetings for business people. That there should be so many of these meetings, and that so many should attend them, is gratifying to all. But there is serious difficulty. We want reform. Come over to Capt. Lawrence's tomb, out of the rush, and let me express my views."

"For some years Trinity, St. Paul's, Grace, Calvary, and Holy Communion Churches have maintained services at the noon hour. Within the last year or two St. Bartholomew's, the Heavenly Rest, the Little Church Around the Corner, the Incarnation, and Christ Church started them. These meetings are for business people who cannot get to their own churches on weekdays.

"The original idea was that they were for men, but with the enormous increase in the number of women clerks in the last few years they have taken on a feminine character, with an accompanying diminution in the number of men. As a protest the men have gone into the streets for their meetings. When the weather has been fine street meetings have been fairly well attended.

"A great number of women, resident in Fifth and Madison Avenues, on the upper west side, and in Brooklyn, daily betake themselves downtown to hear this or that famous preacher. There have always been a few such at these noonday services, but this year there have been scores of them, and attendance at the noonday services has broken all records, I am told. Splendid, you say? Yes, in a way. But the increase is made up of women. Men are disappearing.

"Last week here, with a young clergyman from a first New York family preaching, women were in evidence everywhere. But they were not clerks. Few of them work at all. They filled the pews and the men stood up. I was at Grace Church one noon, and again Fifth Avenue and the upper west side were in evidence to the exclusion of almost everybody else.

"But there is even a greater difficulty. These uptown women wear fine clothes, including big hats. Men wearing office clothes don't mind women clerks, who also wear their office apparel, but they feel out of place when surrounded by Sunday clothes.

"Worse still, they are shut in by big hats, and are left to the alternative of looking at the ceiling or studying the spots on their waistcoats that the cleaner failed to remove. Men are tired of sitting in flower gardens in their office clothes."

At this point a man in the crowd asked if a resolution were in order. Being told it was, he moved the following:

> Resolved, That rectors of some of these churches, where men in largest numbers used to attend, be respectfully asked to request their Lenten preachers to give their addresses twice, once at 12 o'clock and again at 1 o'clock, and that one of these meetings be strictly limited to men.

The resolution was adopted unanimously, and when the meeting broke up the belief was expressed that most of the speakers would be willing to give their addresses twice, especially if they were assured of being able to reach men.

To Extend Virginia Schools.

At the meeting held in the office of Gordon Battle, lawyer, 37 Wall Street, yesterday, to further the work of extending the schools in Bacon Hollow, Greene County, Va., a committee consisting of Mr. Battle, W. E. G. Gaillard, and Percy S. Mallett was appointed to draw up a form of appeal and send it to all persons likely to be interested in such an object. The Rev. George P. Mayo, Superintendent of the schools, said that the sum of $4,000 was needed to complete the new buildings, which should be erected in the Spring and Summer.

Heinze Demurrer Is Withdrawn.

The demurrer interposed by Fritz Augustus Heinze to the indictment found against him was formally withdrawn yesterday. He will appear to-day in the Criminal Branch of the United States Circuit Court, and enter a plea of not guilty. The trial has been set for April 11.

First Page Editorial Advertising Talk

From EVENING MAIL of Yesterday.

BRILL BROTHERS HAVE CHANGED THEIR STYLE OF ADVERTISING—CHANGED IT FOR THE BETTER. It will inspire confidence to a greater degree than it ever did before.

Brill Brothers always try to give good values, and their intent, from the time they started business over twenty-two years ago, has been to give everybody a dollar's worth for a dollar.

They commenced business at a time WHEN ADVERTISING WAS NOT THE CONFIDENTIAL AND FRANK COMMUNICATION BETWEEN MERCHANT AND PUBLIC THAT IT IS TO-DAY—when it was thought TO BE NECESSARY TO USE FLARING TYPE EFFECTS and TO MAKE PEOPLE BELIEVE THAT THEY WOULD GET A GOLD DOLLAR FOR FIFTY CENTS—as it is not necessary to do now—so they fell into the methods of the great crowd, but not as deeply as many others did.

It is marvelous that they steered their business ship so well, avoiding successfully all shoals, BUT THE CHIEF REASON THEY WERE ABLE TO DO SO was because of the inherent "square-deal" policy of the members of the firm.

They made friends and held them and increased their business from year to year IN SPITE OF AN ADVERTISING POLICY THAT DID NOT REALLY REFLECT THE BUSINESS POLICY OR PERSONALITY OF THE FIRM.

This only goes to prove that IF A BUSINESS IS FOUNDED ON THE BASIC PRINCIPLE OF GIVING EVERYBODY A FAIR DEAL, it is bound to succeed, in spite of mistakes.

There are many firms afraid to change an advertising policy because they think unless they can announce "extraordinary values" all of the time they will not get returns, BUT CHANGES ARE BEING MADE JUST THE SAME, because the public does not wish to be put to the trouble of analyzing statements, some of which are true, and some not.

All the people want to know is—WHAT they can buy, WHERE they can buy it, and THE PRICE at which it can be bought—THEY WANT TO KNOW IF THE MERCHANDISE IS ALL RIGHT and they are everlastingly tired of hearing "reduced from $8.00 to $3.95"—"from $250 to $125," and so on.

The advertising of to-day, to command the confidence of the public, must be as frank and sincere as talks with personal friends. You never think of exaggerating to a friend—why think of it in talking to the public? THE REPUTATION OF THE HOUSE IS THE BACKGROUND OF SUCCESS. THE PUBLIC APPRECIATES STRAIGHTFORWARDNESS.

Brill Brothers are now telling of their merchandise in an interesting way and selling it on the basis of its merit, GIVING THE PUBLIC SATISFACTION OR MONEY BACK, the policy they have always followed, and the only real basis for a successful business.

The space to be used will be smaller than has been the custom heretofore, following out the real principle back of good advertising—which is, frequency of insertions, intelligent, interesting and accurate presentation of merchandise facts.

They do not hesitate to express appreciation of the methods that have been and are being constantly outlined in this column about advertising, and they are going ahead sure to win a triumphant success, and the public's approval, just as sure as the sun rises and sets.

SETH LOW NEXT HEAD OF REPUBLICAN CLUB

Nominating Committee Chooses Him for President and No Opposition Is Expected.

STATE ISSUES SIDE-STEPPED

Elsberg, Gibbs, and Cragin for Vice Presidents—Roosevelt Reception Committee of 150 Named.

Seth Low, former Mayor of New York, was nominated for President of the Republican Club at the annual meeting of the Nominating Committee in the club's building, 54 West Fortieth Street, last night. The election will take place on the third Monday in April. The committee, according to reports from the secret session, was unanimously in favor of Mr. Low. Outside rumors, however, were to the effect that everything was not altogether harmonious.

Robert C. Morris is the retiring President of the club. He was present at the meeting last night and explained that although he had been pressed to remain in the Presidency the accumulation of his private business was so great that he had to decline the honor. It was stated by several members of the Nominating Committee that there would be no second ticket in the field, and that Mr. Low's election was expected to be thoroughly acceptable.

The meeting was a short one. All the prominent political questions, including the Allds investigation and the Woodruff-Root fight for the control of the Republican State Committee, were carefully sidestepped.

An official committee to have charge of the reception to Theodore Roosevelt upon his arrival in this city was named. There are 150 on the committee, and although the majority are residents of the city, the representation is National in character.

The following is the full club ticket nominated: President, Seth Low; First Vice President, Nathaniel A. Elsberg; Second Vice President, Herbert H. Gibbs; Third Vice President, Edward F. Cragin; Corresponding Secretary, William W. Bryan; Recording Secretary, Merritt E. Haviland; Treasurer, James L. Wandling; members of the Executive Committee to serve until April, 1915, Robert A. Dutton, Robert M. Kenyon, Reuben L. Maynard, Alvan W. Perry, and George W. Wanamaker; members of the Executive Committee to serve until April, 1914, 1913, and 1911, respectively, Charles O. Maas, Robert C. Morris, and Howard W. Albro; members to serve until 1913, Charles L. Bernheimer, William S. Dennison, and B. W. B. Brown; members of the Committee on Finance, Otto T. Bannard, William Felsinger, Arthur L. Merriam, J. Van Vechten Olcott, and Alfred B. Price; members of the Committee on Library and Publications to serve until April, 1913, James T. Nicoll, E. Gile Rich, and Goelet Gallatin.

The Chairman of the Nominating Committee was Mortimer C. Addoms and the members were Lucian L. Bonheur, James W. Hawes, William A. Keener, Hindon W. Bates, Jr., Henry W. Goodard, A. H. Gleason, Meyer Nussbaum, and Paul R. Towne.

President Taft and Frank B. Weeks, Governor of Connecticut, were elected non-resident members, their names being proposed by President Morris. A resolution proposed by ex-Assemblyman Edward R. Finch indorsing the Agnew-Ward bill for amending the election law in favor of a pure ballot was adopted.

Last month the committee passed a resolution favoring the attitude of Gov. Hughes toward a strict investigation into legislative affairs at Albany, and next month it is expected that the Governor's Direct Nominations bill will be approved.

Considerable surprise was expressed that President Morris had declined a renomination. On March 15 Secretary Goddard wrote Mr. Morris that he had been renominated, but Mr. Morris would not accept.

A CONCERT OF OLD MUSIC.

Madrigals and Solo Songs Given Under Mr. Schindler's Direction.

A page of musical history, and a kind of musical enjoyment that is very little, if at all, known to music lovers in New York, was disclosed yesterday at the concert of "madrigals of the French Renais-Waldorf-Astoria. It was called a concert of "madrigals of the French Renaissance." In that term were included vocal pieces by French, Italian, and Netherland composers of the sixteenth century in the lighter vein, as well as the solo songs of the same period and some considerably older. Mr. Schindler had gathered a small and choice choir of ten voices, excellent singers all, who had been carefully rehearsed in the music, and sang it with much spirit and delicacy. Mr. Charles Gilibert and Mme. Alma Gluck sang the solos, and Mme. Mazarin delivered as a prologue Victor Hugo's ode on Palestrina.

The concerted pieces were madrigals for five and six voices by Claudin Lejeune, from his set of thirty-three; madrigals by Jannequin, Orlando di Lasso, and Palestrina; Italian songs for two and three voices, and popular French "rondes" of the sixteenth century. These last were given in a somewhat modernized form, but in the others the performance was kept as closely as possible to the original versions. The music of Claudin Lejeune and of Clément Jannequin is practically entirely unknown to this public, though their names are important in the history of music. The delicate charm of the three madrigals from Lejeune's set of thirty-three Spring songs gave much delight, and was but the prelude to much pleasure of the same kind that was given during the afternoon. There was no higher level reached than in the madrigals by Palestrina, "L'Amour à pris mon Ame" and the two humorous ones by Orlando di Lasso. In these, these two composers, whose impressive ecclesiastical music has been made so well known by the Musical Art Society and others, were shown in different and unfamiliar light. The pure beauty of Palestrina's style is as clear in this madrigal as in music of the more serious style.

Besides two madrigals by the French composer Jannequin, there was his remarkable piece "Le Chant des Oyseaux," one of a number in which he attempted elaborate delineation in vocal music. The songs of birds are imitated in this with amusing naïveté, and with some striking success; and with at least one considerable advantage over more modern attempts in a similar direction, that the music is pleasing and not ugly or nerve racking. The composition, the most extended and elaborate that stood upon the programme, is one that the historians have much to say about; but it is likely that few, even of students of musical history, if there were any such in the hall, had ever had an opportunity to hear it sung before.

Mr. Gilibert sang five solo songs delightfully, with perfection of expression, phrasing, and enunciation, if not with the highest beauty of voice. A very tender and melodious troubadour's song, dated as of the twelfth century—the very dawn of modern music—he had to repeat. Less perfect in style, but still most attractive, was Miss Gluck's singing of a "Reverdie de Troubadour" and a "Ronde" of the sixteenth century.

The audience, which was, under the circumstances, large, appreciated the unusual interest and attractiveness of this concert, perhaps also its unusual importance, and was very demonstrative in its applause. Mr. Schindler conducted all but the solo songs, and even some of them. In default of a lute there was a harp used for a very lightly touched accompaniment, and for interludes in some of the pieces. In others the modified form of piano to imitate the harpsichord was used. Throughout the performance there was in evidence Mr. Schindler's enthusiastic devotion to the subject and the fine taste and musical intelligence that gave form and shape to the performance and a fine quality that, with certain few exceptions, persisted through it.

"A MAKER OF MEN" REVIVED.

Hattie Williams in Principal Role of Sutro's One-Act Play.

Alfred Sutro's one-act play, "A Maker of Men," was presented at the Garrick Theatre last night as a curtain-raiser to the farce, "The Girl He Couldn't Leave Behind Him." The piece was originally produced in New York at the Lyceum Theatre on Aug. 21, 1905, as a curtain-raiser to "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots." At that time the rôle of the wife was played by Margaret Illington, and the husband by Ernest Lawford, who was seen in the same part last night.

In the revival of the piece the principal part is taken by Hattie Williams, who plays the wife of a poorly paid London bank clerk disappointed in his ambition to receive an advanced position. The little play seemed to find much favor with the audience last night, and the actors were frequently applauded.

Dillingham Gets a Berlin Opera.

Charles Dillingham has obtained the American rights to the new comic opera, "Die Geschiedene Frau," that is now current in Berlin and Vienna. Sallie Fisher has been engaged to play the title rôle in the English version, which will be made by Harry B. Smith. After she has played the part in this country, she will go to London under the management of George Edwards, by agreement with Mr. Dillingham, to appear in the same play.

GRAND JURY TOLD TO INDICT BUILDERS

UNIONS GAVE THE EVIDENCE

Boycott Was Placed on Union Steamfitters—Court Says the Salient Facts Are Conceded.

Following a conference with Assistant District Attorney De Ford, in which the present dispute between employers and members of labor unions in the building trades was considered, Judge Rosalsky instructed a Grand Jury in General Sessions yesterday afternoon to bring in an indictment for conspiracy against the Building Trades Employers' Association.

The charge to the Grand Jury was made in positive terms. It caused satisfaction at the union's headquarters in Arlington Hall, and surprise at the headquarters of the Employers' Association at 30 West Thirty-third Street. The evidence was collected by the union men and was turned over to the District Attorney's office through which it went to Judge Rosalsky.

Judge Rosalsky went exhaustively into the general relationship of labor and capital and of both to the public welfare.

Union men last night were inclined to doubt that the probable indictments of the Employers' Association would do much toward settling the strike of 1,200 steamfitters and remove the necessity of calling a general sympathetic strike of the 80,000 union men in the building trades, who are expected to go out on March 28 unless the strike of the steamfitters is adjusted before that date.

Strike Leader Charles Wamp of the steamfitters said that the strike had never been really called by the men, but that it was a lockout by the Employers' Association, and that in trying to force the union men off jobs managed by independent employers the association had committed the acts for which the union had taken it into court. He said that he hoped it would now be possible to get together for a peace talk, but that the men would not concede the principal point in their demands, which is a raise of 10 per cent. in wages, or a wage of $5.50 per day instead of $5.

At the headquarters of the Building Trades Employers' Association it was said that nothing definite would be done until they were more completely informed of the Grand Jury's intentions. One official said that the association's members were not conscious of having gone beyond the law in selecting employes after the members of the Enterprise Association had quit their jobs on Jan. 1. He said that the Enterprise men, having quit, were no longer employes, and that consequently the association could not boycott them as such in employing others to take their places.

The evidence given to the Grand Jury recites that the Employers' Association brought pressure to bear upon the Master Steamfitters' Association to agree not to employ union men, even on jobs handled by independent builders against whom the union was not on strike.

Letters sent to builders by the association's Secretary ordering them to discharge union men, and resolutions passed by the association, form part of the evidence.

In commenting upon this evidence Judge Rosalsky said:

"If the Employers' Association, which embraces nearly every prominent building contractor and virtually controls the building trades in Greater New York, the City of Newark, and that part of the State of New Jersey which is within a radius of ten miles of the New York City Hall, commits acts of an oppressive character, a combination which so widely affects the public interest becomes a serious menace to the community.

"This would be equally so if workingmen were to combine under similar circumstances, and by threats and intimidation commit acts in furtherance of schemes to prevent one from exercising his lawful trade or business.

"Our law does not tolerate such combinations. Employers have no greater rights than employes. The law knows no distinction between rich and poor, strong and weak. Both are on a par and entitled to equal protection, and the scales of justice should be balanced without fear, without favor, and without prejudice.

"I am advised by the District Attorney that there is no dispute as to the facts presented, practically all the salient facts as to the evidence being conceded. It is conceded that on Jan. 10, 1910, the Board of Governors of the Employers' Association passed a resolution providing that no Enterprise men were to be employed by members on sub-contractors, or by master steam fitters to whom contracts might be let, and that a copy of the resolution was sent to each member of the association, including John Kennedy & Son, who on Jan. 24, 1910, received the following communication from the association's Secretary:

"'Gentlemen: The committee directs me to call your attention to the fact that Circular Letter 172 prohibits your employment of members of the Enterprise Association, and directs that if a complaint made against you is correct that you see that the employment of members of the Enterprise Association ceases at once. Yours respectfully,

"'WILLIAM J. HOLMES, Secretary.'"

The evidence is further reviewed showing that Kennedy & Son did not obey the order at once and were summoned before the association's Board of Governors, after which they wrote to a sub-contractor, one Baughan, ordering him to withdraw all union steam fitters and "keep them off the job" until further orders.

Baughan was not a member of the association. Kennedy & Co., it was set forth, had executed a bond for $1,500, to be forfeited as liquidation for damages in the event of failure to obey all association orders, and in addition would be liable to expulsion for any cause which the Board of Governors deemed sufficient.

"The Employers' Trade Association," continues the charge, "admit that they caused the discharge of the members of the Enterprise Association, and will continue to do so, but claim that the motive is not maliciously to injure the members of the Enterprise Association, but to compel them to settle their disputes by agreements and arbitration rather than by strikes and lockouts."

Here Judge Rosalsky took up the matter of the general rights of employes, and their employers, stating that employes have the right to strike and to persuade others to quit work so long as they do not accomplish this end by threats and force. Employers, he said, could combine to regulate the length of hours employes should work, the amount of wages to be paid them, but could not combine to use force, threats, and intimidation.

In concluding his summary of the evidence, Judge Rosalsky said that it was very clear that Kennedy & Son did not act of their own volition in discharging their union men or in ordering their subcontractor to do so, "but yielded to threats and intimidation."

The indictment was ordered reported back forthwith upon the examination of the voluminous evidence submitted.

After receiving its instructions the Grand Jury convened for a short session and then adjourned until to-day.

Donald Robertson Here for 'Beethoven'

Donald Robertson, who is to make his initial appearance with The New Theatre company in the title rôle of "Beethoven" on April 11, arrived in New York yesterday and will begin rehearsals at once. The road tour of The New Theatre company will begin in Philadelphia on April 11, leaving a special company to present "Beethoven" here, and will end at Buffalo on June 25, after including most of the principal cities as far West as St. Louis.

"Pique Dame" Again at Metropolitan.

"Pique Dame" was repeated at the Metropolitan Opera House last night. The cast included Mmes. Destinn, Meitschik, Gluck, and Wickham and Messrs. Slezak, Didur, and Forsell. Mr. Mahler sat in the conductor's chair.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Earl Grey, Governor General of Canada, will attend the performance of Forbes-Robertson in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" at Maxine Elliott's Theatre this evening.

"The Lady from Lobster Square" will be produced at Weber's Theatre on April 4, by B. E. Forrester and Harry C. Jacobs, with Georgia Caine, Lucy Weston, William Pruette, Fritz Williams, Lillian Lee, Ray Beveridge, and Wilfred Clarke in the cast.

The cast that is to appear in Henry B. Harris's production of "The Commuters" will include Taylor Holmes, Orrin Johnson, James Marbury, George Soule Spencer, Georgia Lawrence, Pauline Duffield, Lillian Thurgate, N. Y. Backus, Maude Knowlton, Louis Haines, Amy Lester, Adelyn Wesley, and Isabelle Fenton.

Ruth Maycliffe has been engaged by Daniel Frohman to support Charles Cherry in "Spitfire" at the Lyceum Theatre, following Mrs. Fiske's engagement.

Sydney Ellison, formerly general stage director for George Edwardes in London, has been engaged by the Shuberts as one of their directors of musical productions. Frank Mills has also been engaged by the same management to play the leading male rôle, with Mary Mannering, in "A Man's World," taking the part on March 28.

Creatore and his band will give a special Easter concert at the Hippodrome next Sunday evening, March 27.

The date of the special matinee of "Twelfth Night," which Sothern and Marlowe will give at the Academy of Music for the benefit of the Actors' Fund, has been changed from next Thursday until the Thursday of next week, March 31, so as not to interfere with the special matinee of "Madame X" at the New Amsterdam Theatre this week.

MUSIC NOTES.

The Russian dancers, Pavlowa and Mordkin, will appear at a benefit for the Widowed Mothers' Fund at the Waldorf-Astoria on April 5. Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Jefferson Seligman, 11 East Sixty-ninth Street; Mrs. Edward Goodman, 106 West Eighty-sixth Street, or Mrs. F. F. Lowenfels, 257 West Ninety-eighth Street.

Bach's "St. Mathew's Passion" will be sung under the direction of Arthur Hyde to-morrow evening at St. Bartholomew's Church. The soloists will be Miss Caroline Hudson, Miss Pearl Benedict, Nicolas Dorety, Frederick Weld, and Frank Croxton. Admission is free.

The first scene of the third act of "Herodiade," with Mme. d'Alvarez and Mr. Vallier, has been added to the programme of the gala performance at the Manhattan Opera House on Friday evening.

STATE-WIDE STRIKE AGAIN THREATENED

STAND BY THE CARMEN

Building Trades Vote to Continue the Sympathetic Strike—Some Mill Hands Back at Work.

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—Continued efforts to bring about a settlement of the street car strike again failed to-day, and the committee of the Allied Building Trades, at a meeting to-night, voted to continue the sympathetic strike until the grievances of the carmen are adjusted.

President Greenawalt of the State Federation this afternoon telegraphed the Committee of Nine in charge of the State-wide strike to report at Wilkesbarre at once "for an Executive Council meeting to forward a State-wide strike."

The Committee of Ten having the general strike in charge to-day issued a statement that the situation, as far as it was concerned, was unchanged, and that the battle was still on. The statement of the carmen made public by this committee says:

"Since Saturday our association has been in negotiation with representatives of the company making every effort within their power to secure a settlement of the dispute between our association and the Rapid Transit Company.

"At the outset it was requested that we should submit to them the propositions upon which we were willing to settle. These propositions were submitted based upon the contract that the men had sought early in February. In reply to these requests the company answered in a lengthy document addressed to the Mayor of this city instead of to our committee.

"In their letter to the Mayor the company officials offered to post a bulletin in their car barns specifying certain conditions under which we might return to work. These conditions provided that the men could return with the exception of 174 men, these being the portion of the men that the company locked out on Feb. 18 for their activity in the union.

"As to the other men returning to work, they would not grant them their old places, but stated that they would agree to pay them $2 a day until such a time as they could receive runs that would pay them that amount. But this provision would take from the men their rights of seniority, for which they have worked many years.

"The company also proposed that we should concede to the recognition of as many committees as the company might desire to form and to recognize Keystone and any other kind of a labor organization.

"To accept these conditions would have been to surrender not only the conditions that we have secured in the past, but to surrender even our union and its rights that had been conceded.

"Under the circumstances we were forced to refuse the propositions offered. We did, however, through our committees, offer to meet the company and establish a settlement upon a reasonable and liberal basis, leaving the question of the 174 men to arbitration as they requested, and to make provisions of reinstatement that would be liberal and honorable, if they would only agree to propositions that would guarantee us the proper protection of our organization in the future.

"These propositions up to the present time have been refused, and therefore the situation, as far as we are concerned, is unchanged, and the battle is still on."

There was little or no change in the general strike situation. A considerable number of men returned to work to-day in the Kensington district, but building operations throughout the city are still almost completely tied up. The traction company announced it had 1,300 cars in operation and that it opened two lines to-day that had been tied up since the strike began.

FIREMEN NOT TO STRIKE.

Employes of Western Railroads Agree on Terms.

CHICAGO, March 21.—All questions in dispute between the 27,000 firemen on Western railroads and the railroad managers will be peacefully settled, according to an arrangement reached to-day through the aid of United States Commissioner of Labor C. P. Neill. It was agreed by W. S. Carter, President of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and a committee representing the men, and the General Managers' committee, representing the forty-seven railroads involved, to settle the controversy in the following manner:

The question of seniority or the promotion of old-time firemen over new men, and the question of representation by the union of firemen who have been promoted to be enginemen are to be compromised before any arbitration is attempted.

The demand of the men for an increase in wages of 12½ per cent. is then to be submitted to arbitration under the Erdman act. In previous negotiations the railroads had agree to arbitrate the wage question, but had declined to arbitrate the other two points on the ground that they were points of discipline and authority alone.

It was learned that both sides were brought to an agreement to compromise through the insistence of Commissioner Neill that something had to be done quickly. Mr. Neill declared that unless action was taken within twenty-four hours he would return to Washington.

The General Managers to-night issued the following statement:

"A settlement of the whole matter probably will be made to-morrow which will be satisfactory to both sides."

Mr. Carter said he had no comment to make.

MINERS CAN'T AGREE.

Joint Scale Committee Confers with Operators, but Takes No Action.

CINCINNATI, March 21.—Despite the fact that the miners of Ohio, Indiana, and Western Pennsylvania on the joint Scale Committee went into session with the operators to-day with full power to act, no agreement could be reached, and the committee adjourned till to-morrow.

A rumor that West Virginia and Kentucky non-union mines intended to grant a voluntary increase in wages received little credence from operators. Frank Brooks, an operator of Columbus, said to-night:

"If this were true it might make a difference, but the incidents of the last two years make it almost unbelievable, and until such a thing happens we cannot be counted on to take any stock in such a report."

The United Mine Workers of America held morning and afternoon sessions to-day, but as there was no report from the Scale Committee they adjourned until to-morrow.

NEW HAVEN MEN VOTING.

All the Ballots Are Not In, but Tendency Seems to be to Strike.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 21.—No statement was made to-night at the conclusion of the counting of votes cast by the conductors, trainmen, and yardmen of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad on the question of a strike for an increase in wages.

The greater portion of the votes, it is understood, were counted, and to-morrow morning, when the work is completed, the result will be made known to the officials of the road. With the votes already received and those expected to come in to-night, it is thought that nearly all the 5,000 men entitled to vote will have been heard from.

It is understood that the votes so far show a majority in favor of a strike.

LAWYER HELD FOR LARCENY.

Accused of Taking Payment on Ground That He Had "Fixed" Case with Court.

Charged with grand larceny on the ground that he had obtained $50 from Adolph Kozlovski, a blacksmith, of 1,887 Third Avenue, by false representation, Stephen J. O'Hare, former Assistant District Attorney of New York County, and at one time the partner of Municipal Court Judge Thomas P. Dinneen, who says he lives at 400 East 102d Street, was held in $500 by Magistrate Herbert in Jefferson Market Court yesterday for examination Thursday.

The complaint states that O'Hare last November obtained from Kozlovski the sum of $50 as part payment of a total fee of $150 to secure the release of Kozlovski's wife from the workhouse on a charge of vagrancy. The complaint declares that the complainant was induced to pay the money on the representation made by O'Hare that he had "seen" Magistrate Henry W. Herbert and had arranged for the woman's release in ten days.

O'Hare not only denied that he had "seen" the Magistrate, but also that he had ever said that he had. In this, however, he was contradicted by Harry Fagan, a diamond broker, of 7 Delancey Street, in whose office the alleged conversation was held and in whose presence the alleged payment was made, and also by Mrs. Meta Zwingman of 317 Fifty-fifth Street, Brooklyn, who testified that she was present when the transaction took place.

In refusing to parole O'Hare Magistrate Herbert said: "I have been informed that it is a common practice among police court practitioners to make representations to clients that they can or have influenced the Magistr[illegible] on the bench.

"This," he said, "[illegible] the first specific instance that has bee[illegible] called to my attention, and I intend to investigate it fully, and if this man is guilty I will see that he is severely punished. Since I have been on the bench I have never consented to the release of any woman before she had served her sentence."

GENERAL LEATHER STRIKE.

Workers Throughout the West Demand Eight-Hour Day and Wage Increase.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 21.—Union leather workers here and in cities all over the country, except in the East, went on strike to-day for an eight-hour day and a 15 per cent. increase in wages. The strike was ordered by J. M. Baker, President of the United Brotherhood of Leather Workers.

Frank Askew, a leading leather manufacturer of Kansas City, said to-day:

"The strike is general throughout the United States, with the exception of the East, and the National Saddlery Association, therefore, will deal with it."

In St. Louis, Mo., 400 workers employed by eight firms struck. Other cities in which the strike order was obeyed include St. Paul, Milwaukee, Louisville, and Dallas.

Advices from Pacific Coast cities indicate that the leather workers' movement is not general there, only a few men failing to report for work to-day.

COLONIAL OFFICIAL RETURNS.

J. G. J. Knast, Constabulary Captain in the Philippines, Home on Furlough.

Among the passengers arriving here yesterday on the White Star liner Cedric were Mr. and Mrs. John G. J. Knast and their two children, Karl and Kenneth. After six years in the Philippines, where Mr. Knast was Captain of Constabulary, they are returning for a two months' stay in their old home, New Haven.

The two boys were both born in the islands. Both resent being called Filipinos, however. The voyage of the family to their native land was rather an adventuresome one. They were passengers on the Spanish steamship Isla de Luzon, which caught fire at sea, and after four days' fight with flames made Messina, where she landed her passengers.

CITY'S WICKEDNESS ASSAILED BY GLENN

SALOONS NATION'S CURSE

Liquor Dealers' Attempts to Confer with Preachers Denounced by Dr. Patterson of Anti-Saloon League.

"The organized interests of the saloons in the State of New York have formally applied to organized ministers of New York State to confer with them on methods of reform for their own business. I would as soon think of inviting the devil to help reorganize a prayer meeting."

This declaration was made yesterday at the Methodist Preachers' Monday meeting by the Rev. Dr. James A. Patterson, Superintendent of the New York Anti-Saloon League. Preachers were present from Long Island, New Jersey, and up the State, the largest gathering of Methodist ministers of the year. They filled the hall and overflowed into the corridors.

Other assertions equally strong were made, such as:

"The saloons would kill the churches if they could. The churches can kill the saloons if they would."

"Two hundred million dollars for Protestant church support last year, and $1,000,000,000 passing over the counters of the saloons last year; $200,000,000 for religion and, if we include cost of asylums filled with products of the saloons, $3,000,000,000 for hell's cause."

"The churches spend too much time taking care of the consequences of evil, and too little time in taking care that evils themselves are prevented."

Another speaker was ex-Gov. Glenn of North Carolina, just returned from an anti-saloon campaign throughout this State. Both Mr. Patterson and Mr. Glenn are Presbyterians.

"Banish the saloon and its consequences," he shouted, "and there need be no home or foreign missionary campaigns to raise money. Enough will be saved to carry the Gospel into every nook and corner of the world, wicked New York City included."

Laughter and applause followed the sally, and nobody either questioned the statement or undertook to defend the city from this attack.

"New York City has wickedness enough for the whole country," Mr. Glenn went on. "Reform it, you preachers and Christian people, and the effect upon the country will be tremendous. Bread lines? Splendid in one sense. But a shame to New York or any other city in another sense. Put a stop to that which makes bread lines necessary.

"Ministers haven't big enough visions. They don't take the Gospel seriously enough. You ought to rise in your might, for might you have. The business men have their difficulties. Help them to meet them. They say that if the whisky taxes are abolished and the revenues cut down they will have to put their hands into their pockets and pay more taxes than they now do. A miserable but a very human view. You ministers must give common men a spiritual view."

Then he pictured child labor conditions in the South.

"There are campaigns against children labor in the South," he said. "Such labor disgraces New England as well as my own State. I tell you, though, that it is not half so much the fault of mill owners that these children are compelled to work at tender ages as it is the miserable parents, who want the profits of their labor to spend in drink. If you want to stop child labor, stop the saloon."

Supt. Patterson of the Anti-Saloon League outlined the campaign in this State in favor of the amendment permitting people of cities as well as of villages to vote for or against saloon licenses. Some towns, among them Batavia and Bath, voting the saloon out, are soon to become cities, and when they do so the vote of their own citizens will go for naught. The same is true of other towns in the State. A hearing is soon to be had at Albany, and the speaker urged all New York ministers to be on hand.

Last night at St. James's Methodist Church, Harlem, ex-Gov. Glenn and Dr. Patterson again spoke, telling Methodist people, who filled the church, what they might do to back their ministers. The Rev. Dr. Iglehart said that Methodist ministers of this State are with Mr. Glenn in the fight, as they were not before his visit and his address. It was stated that the offerings at Carnegie Hall on Sunday night were $1,800.

Former Vice President Fairbanks was invited to address the ministers' meeting on his world inspection of missionary work, but he expressed his inability to do so.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Flexible Copper Alloy Tubing Is Held Dutiable at 45 Per Cent.

The Board of United States General Appraisers has refused to reverse the action of the Collector of Customs at New York in his assessment of a 45 per cent. duty on merchandise returned by the appraiser as "flexible copper alloy tubing, copper being the component material of chief value."

Hensel, Bruckmann & Lorbacher, the importers, set up the contention that the articles should be assessed at specific rates either under Paragraph 176 as copper pipes or under Paragraph 152 as iron or steel tubes. Upon the hearing of the case the proof not only related to the copper alloy tubing, but was extended also so as to include certain flexible tubing made of steel and galvanized iron. The importers requested an analysis of the samples in evidence, with the result that the report of the chemist showed that the so-called tubing is in fact a tubing composed of phosphor bronze.

"An article of that description is neither a copper pipe nor an iron or steel tube. We are not disposed to consider this protest as applicable to other than the tubing to which the Collector's attention was directed by the very wording of the protest—namely, 'copper tubing.' So far as the proof related to other goods covered by the shipment we hold the protest insufficient. The protest is overruled in all respects."

TWINS BORN DURING STORM.

Wireless Tells of Double Event on Prinz Joachim at Sea.

Capt. von Leitner of the Atlas liner Prinz Joachim, inbound, flashed the tidings ashore yesterday that the stork had overtaken his vessel and added two to the passenger list, both consigned, to use a maritime term, to the same family. This was the skipper's message:

> Mme. Jore, wife of the French Minister to Haiti, has presented her husband with twins. They arrived at 2:30 A. M. on March 20. The vessel was running through a storm at the time. Dr. Barton reports that mother and the two baby boys are doing well. M. and Mme. Jore and family are on their way from Port au Prince to Paris.

SOUL MATE SEARCH LED HIM TO BIGAMY

A MAN OF TEMPERAMENT

"Impossible for Me to Live with Woman I Do Not Love," Declares Zimmerman in Explanation of His Record.

Holding the local record as bigamist and heartbreaker, Arthur Zimmerman, bogus member of the German nobility, yesterday was sentenced to Sing Sing Prison by Judge Dike, in the County Court, Brooklyn. Since 1872 the prisoner is alleged to have married twenty-four women. Nineteen children are said to have been the result of these marriages.

Zimmerman was convicted in quick time by a jury last week on a charge of perjury. Seeking a license to marry Mrs. Louisa Hahl, a Flatbush widow, he swore that he had never been married before. Yesterday the court refreshed the memory of the spurious "Count von Lichenstein" by reading to him a list of two dozen marriages he contracted in this country and Germany.

The "Count" was much affected by these memories. He tugged at his mustache, stroked his beard, and seemed at times about to weep, as he thought of the score and more of wives he had deserted, not to mention the nineteen children and the two dozen broken homes. But he declared it really wasn't his fault that he married so often. His matrimonial alliances were merely experiments in his search for a soul mate.

All a Matter of Temperament.

"I have been misunderstood," said he, with a melancholy note in his voice. "I thought each was the affinity my heart hungered for, but I was mistaken. I never found her. I am discouraged, but I am not without hope. In jail this morning I heard a prisoner singing 'Somewhere in the world there's a little girl for me,' and it cheered me greatly.

"I am of such a sensitive temperament that it is impossible for me to live with a woman I cannot love. So when my love grew cold I married another. I was absent-minded when I went before the license clerk this last time, but now that the Judge speaks of it I do recall that I was married before."

Judge Dike sentenced him to serve from four years and eight months to nine years and six months.

Zimmerman's downfall came through his marriage to Mrs. Hahl. Finding that he had made another soul mate mistake he deserted the woman, but she learned through a letter that he was married to a Mrs. Emilie Grohman, also of Brooklyn. The two women started together on his trail, and he was run down in Canada. As he could not be extradited for bigamy, he was indicted for perjury and brought back to Brooklyn.

Eleven Wives in One Year.

The "Count's" scheme, it is alleged, was to marry women, get from them whatever money and property he could, and then desert them. His most prosperous year in the matrimonial line seems to have been 1875, when he married eleven times. Zimmerman is now 59 years old. The following is the list of his alleged alliances:

In Germany—Marie Grininger, 1872; Caroline Behring, 1874; Caroline Hauser, 1875; Dorothy von Schollen, 1875; Sophie Maier, 1875; Rose Dahus, 1875; Gertrude Rauscher, 1875; Anna Jaeger, 1875; Charlotte Doering, 1875; Adelaide Dorfling, 1875; Mina Hausdoefer, 1875; Louisa Abermueller, 1875; Augusta von Boehmer, 1875. In America—Louisa Ho[illegible]n, 1876; Adelaide Volken, 1879; Lena [illegible]itze, 1880; Mina Kessler, 1881; Antonia Krenft, 1882; Anna Klatzehter, 1885; Marie von Becken, 1886; Fredericke Hagenlouch, 1897; Amelia Jases, 1904; Emilie Grohman, 1904, and Louisa Hahl, 1909.

"Marriage with you was not a habit; it was a disease," said Judge Dike, in sentencing Zimmerman. "Your life has practically been passed marrying, securing the property of, and leaving your victims to seek another. From your own confession, twenty-four women have been victimized by you, eleven of whom have children by you. Your conviction is a positive boon to the community."

BURKE WON, BUT SLIGHTED.

Olympic A. C. Crowd Cheers Sullivan for Trying to Put the Sailor Away.

When "Sailor" Burke entered the ring of the Olympic Athletic Club last night to box "Tim" Sullivan of Boston in the main bout of ten rounds he had at least four friends in the house, his manager, his two seconds, and himself.

When he left it, forty minutes later, for the fight went the scheduled limit, although Sullivan was twice knocked down, each time for the count of nine, Burke's manager and seconds were as disgusted with his showing as about 1,200 members gathered to see the fun.

As a sort of début following a long absence from the ring Burke's reappearance last night was anything but auspicious.

Burke's apparent inability or unwillingness or worse to close in in the fifth, sixth, and ninth rounds, despite his tremendously better condition and greater knowledge of the game than his lighter and less well-trained opponent, alienated whatever affection any of the fans might ever have had for him. So it was Sullivan, a beaten man—for Burke did undoubtedly score a win on points—who got the ovation.

Burke and Sullivan fiddled for a half minute at the ring centre in the first round. Sullivan failed to land a left swing, but Burke sent over a hard right to body. Sullivan shot a left and right to head, and the crowd howled with glee, whereupon the Boston man put a terrific right hook on Burke's sore nose. Burke shot two lefts to the head and a right to the body. Sullivan missed a left swing, but Burke stepped into a right uppercut that made him very cautious. They were clinched at the bell.

In the second they started exchanging body blows, but Burke soon established a clear lead on blows landed. He fought in such wide-open fashion for a while that had Sullivan known how to use his right, it would have meant a victory for the Boston man. Burke commenced to hang on so hard that the crowd yelled to him to "marry Sullivan." But Burke fought his own fight, disregarding even the instructions of his manager and seconds.

In the fifth he sent Sullivan down for the count of nine with a terrific right swing to the jaw. Sullivan recuperated remarkably and fought back, instead of hanging on or stalling. The sixth, seventh, and eighth rounds were repetitions of the first four. In the ninth Burke again sent Sullivan down for the count of nine with a hard right hook to the face, and Sullivan repeated, as he had in the fifth, his aggressive counter attack which made the members wild with approval of his fighting qualities. The tenth was tame, with both men very tired.

"Kid" Butts and "Young" Ahearn fought six rounds to a draw in the semi-final, although Butts might have knocked his opponent out in a round or two more.

Burke Skates to Victory.

The five-mile Eastern professional championship race, held at the Metropolitan Roller Skating Rink last night, was won by Harry Burke of Bridgeport, Conn., in a close finish, Harry McDonald of New York coming in second, and W. McCormack of Newark third. Time—16:33 1-5.

Philadelphia Cricketers Beaten.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 21.—The match between the Philadelphia cricketers and the All-Bermuda eleven, which was begun Saturday, ended to-day, the All-Bermudas winning by nine wickets. The Philadelphians scored 107 in the first innings and 104 in their second innings. The All-Bermudas ran up 191 runs in their first innings and 21 for the loss of one wicket to-day.

REGATTA OFFICIALS NAMED.

Harlem Committee Plans for Events to be Held May 30.

The Harlem Regatta Committee at a meeting last evening made the final arrangements for the Memorial Day event on the Harlem River, which promises to be one of the largest the local oarsmen have ever held. The committee this year expects more entries than ever before, and more attention has been given to the details of the big affair. All the prominent rowing clubs in the East will be represented.

The important feature of last night's meeting was the election of the various committees which will have charge of this year's regatta. The final selections were made from a number of names, and are as follows:

Referee—R. A. Haubold, N. Y. A. C. Starter—J. A. Nagle, Harlem R. C. Clerk of Course—C. F. Muller, Nassau R. C. Assistant clerks—C. W. Mase, Harlem A. C., and O. D. Thees, Nassau R. C. Announcer—William H. Marshall, Harlem R. C.

Stakeboat Committee—C. F. Muller, C. W. Mase, and O. D. Thees.

Handicap Committee—John Nagle, David Brown, and C. F. Muller.

Billiards and Pool.

In yesterday afternoon's game of the handicap pool tournament at the Morningside Billiard Academy, 125th Street and Lennox Avenue, between Mr. and Mrs. King, Mr. King, handicapped at 100, defeated Mrs. King (75) the score of 100 to 70, before a large crowd of ladies. In the evening game Mrs. King won by the score of 75 to 94.

In the three-cushion carrom handicap billiard tournament at McGraw's Billiard Academy, Thirty-fifth Street and Sixth Avenue, Frank Becker, scratch, defeated E. H. Finegold, handicapped at 5, yesterday by the score of 30 to 22. Becker's high run for the game was 3 and Finegold's 2, and Louis Pell, handicapped at 5, defeated C. H. Warrington, scratch, by the score of 30 to 9. Pell's high run was 4 and Warrington's was 2. In the continuation of the amateur handicap pool tournament Kid Andrews defeated A. Jerome by the score of 65 to 59.

Thomas Gallagher defeated Morris B. Brown in the 18.2 billiard tournament at the Knickerbocker Billiard Academy, Brooklyn, last night by the score of 300 to 175. Gallagher must make 300 points to Brown's 200 every evening to win. Gallagher's high runs for the game were 75 and 43, and his average 9 21-31, and Brown's high runs were 29 and 28, and his average 5 23-30.

NO MORE SECRET DOCK LEASES

Commissioner Tomkins Announces Hearings Must Be Public.

Piers are no longer to be leased "on the quiet," according to Dock Commissioner Calvin Tomkins. At hearings held yesterday the new Commissioner announced that hereafter any application for a dock lease for a year or more would be heard in public.

There were three hearings before the Commissioner yesterday, and all had to do with river-front privileges. There being no opposition, the Wilson Line assigned to the Southern Pacific Company its lease of Pier 50 North River. The Southern Pacific has the adjoining pier.

The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Company holds a lease until 1922 of piers and bulkhead at Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth Streets, North River. A permit for a platform on the bulkhead expires in May, and it asked that it be renewed. The request was granted.

T. & W. Thorn & Co., who own a parcel of land adjoining the Harlem River, between 215th and 216th Streets, asked for a lease for 40 square feet of land under their pier. The Commissioner said the application would be granted.

ASQUITH PRESENTS PLAN TO LIMIT VETO

Proposes That House of Lords Be Disabled by Law from Rejecting a Money Bill.

VETO OF OTHERS NOT FINAL

Any Measure Passed by the Commons Three Times in Two Years to Become Law by Royal Assent.

LONDON, March 21.—Premier Asquith gave notice in the House of Commons to-night of his resolutions bearing on the veto power of the House of Lords.

The first declares that it is expedient that the House of Lords be disabled by law from rejecting or amending a money bill, but that any such limitation shall not be taken to diminish or qualify the existing rights of the House of Commons.

The second resolution declares that it is expedient that the powers of the House of Lords over bills other than money bills be restricted by law so that any such bill which has passed the House of Commons in three successive sessions and has been rejected by the House of Lords in each of these sessions, shall become a law without consent of the House of Lords, on royal assent being declared, provided that at least two years have elapsed between the date of the first introduction of the bill in the Commons and the date it passes the Commons for the third time.

Another resolution proposes to limit the duration of each Parliament to five years.

These resolutions were issued too late to gather many opinions on them. The chief objection among the supporters of the Government is made to the provision that two years must elapse between the introduction of a bill and its becoming a law. The Radicals urge that with five-year Parliaments this provision would mean a general hold-up of legislation.

Lord Rosebery's reform resolutions suffered a rebuff in the House of Lords to-night. The first two resolutions were agreed to without division. These declared that a strong and efficient Second Chamber is not merely an integral part of the British Constitution, but is necessary to the well-being of the State and the balance of Parliament, and that a Second Chamber can best be obtained by reforming and reconstituting the House of Lords.

Lord Lansdowne, however, wanted the third resolution, dealing with the hereditary principle, put over until after the holidays. The Earl of Halsbury and several others supported Lord Lansdowne, and finally Lord Rosebery was obliged to consent to an adjournment of the debate until to-morrow.

ASQUITH ON CANADIAN TARIFF.

Says Good Offices of Government Are at Dominion's Disposal.

LONDON, March 21.—The tariff negotiations between the United States and Canada were the subject of questions in the House of Commons to-day, certain members desiring to know whether the Government proposed to assist Canada, "in view of the American threats to penalize Canadian imports and the danger of a tariff war."

Premier Asquith stated that the Canadian Government had been made fully aware that the good offices of the British Government and of Ambassador Bryce were at its disposal, but he declined to discuss the matter further in view of the negotiations that were proceeding.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, March 21.—Two references to the tariff conference at Albany between the Hon. W. S. Fielding and President Taft were made in the House of Commons this afternoon. One of them was the voice of the Sunday observers. Houghton Lennox asked the Finance Minister if the invitation of President Taft, which was accepted by the Government, was for a Sunday conference at Albany. Mr. Fielding said:

"At the invitation of the President of the United States I visited Albany and had the honor and pleasure of meeting that gentleman on both Saturday and Sunday. We discussed matters which I trust will work for the peace, order, and good government of these two nations. There could be no better Sunday work."

Dr. Sprevle inquired if Mr. Fielding had any information to give as to the negotiations with Mr. Taft.

"I can only say," replied Mr. Fielding, "that I do not think the good purpose that he has in view, and we all must have in view, would be advanced by making any statement at the present time. The matters in dispute remain as matters for friendly negotiation."

A strong impression prevails among the members of Parliament here that matters are shaping themselves toward a reciprocity treaty between Canada and the United States.

A member of the Government said after Mr. Fielding had made his report to the Cabinet:

"Affairs have not reached a point which will allow an announcement, but most favorable progress is being made. I believe that Canada and the United States will shortly be working under better mutual tariff relations than for many years, and I am certain that the people of these countries will be surprised and pleased when the announcement is made. One thing is certain and that is that there will be no tariff war."

JOHNSON WON'T BE BOSSED.

Negro Says He Will Not Train Three Months for Fight.

CHICAGO, March 21.—"If Jack Gleason or anybody else thinks I'm going to train for that fight for three months, he is crazy," said Jack Johnson, the champion pugilist, when he heard that Gleason, one of the promoters of the Jeffries-Johnson fight, is expected here Thursday to ask him if he intends to be in San Francisco by April 1. According to the articles of agreement both principals are to be in training ninety days before the fight.

"I do not intend to let Jack Gleason or any one else tell me how I shall train for this fight or when I shall start," Johnson said. "I shall be glad to see Gleason and talk over the situation with him. I know the articles call for me to be in training ninety days before the fight, but as long as I am working out here I don't see where Gleason or any one else has a 'holler' to make."

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21.—Seats for the Jeffries-Johnson fight here on July 4 will range from $5 to $50, according to an official statement by Tex Rickard, one of the promoters, last night. It was originally planned to charge from $10 to $100, but Rickard declared that after considering the subject they had come to the conclusion they could make enough money at the reduced prices.

As Rickard explained it, there will be 30,000 seats, and, striking a rough average of something like $22 a seat, there will be $650,000 in the box office.

OBJECTS TO STOCK INCREASE.

Reorganization of Southern Iron and Steel Opposed in Court.

An order to show cause why the Southern Iron and Steel Company of New Jersey should not be restrained from increasing its capital stock and issuing convertible debentures below par was argued before Vice Chancellor Garrison in Jersey City yesterday by William T. Hornblower for the corporation and by William D. Edwards for the petitioner, Mrs. Elizabeth D. Carver of Iowa.

The Southern Iron and Steel Company is a reorganization of the Southern Steel Company, which failed on Jan. 21, 1908.

A meeting of the stockholders of the new company was called on March 14, to vote on a proposition to increase its capital stock and to issue $1,200,000 of 6 per cent. five-year gold debentures, convertible into preferred capital stock at $70 per share.

Mr. Hornblower in his argument questioned the good faith of the petitioner. Mr. Edwards argued that the method proposed was illegal and would be unjust to the petitioner. Argument will continue Friday.

The Reorganization Committee consists of James T. Woodward, Otto T. Bannard, Robert B. Van Cortlandt, Walter T. Rosen, Franklin Q. Brown, W. P. G. Harding, and Cornelius Vanderbilt. Mrs. Carver owns 103 shares of stock.

POLICEMAN SHOT FOR RAID ON GOATS

RESERVES CALLED OUT

Friends Try to Free Prisoner, Caught by Hayden, After Chase of Two Blocks.

As Policeman Edward Hayden was at New York Avenue and Lefferts Place, Brooklyn, at dusk yesterday he heard a shot. Turning he saw, 50 feet away, an Italian aiming a revolver at him. As Hayden started toward him the Italian fired a second shot, which grazed his side.

The Italian fled, with Hayden in pursuit. As they ran Italians flocked out of houses along the street and ran after them. After two blocks Hayden caught his man. A crowd gathered, so Hayden, still holding his prisoner, backed up against a telegraph pole just as the crowd rushed upon him. With his nightstick he beat off the nearest of his assailants. Then he drew his revolver and they fell back.

They were returning again to the attack when the reserves hove in sight, causing them to scatter.

"What's the matter?" asked Capt. Creamer when he reached Hayden.

"Take him, Cap, take him," stammered Hayden, pointing toward his prisoner. "I am shot." Then he grew pale and fell in a faint.

An ambulance was called from Kings County Hospital, where Dr. Norsted found that the bullet had entered Hayden's right side, struck a rib, and glanced out at the back. The wound was not serious, and after it had been treated Hayden went to his home, 691 East Thirty-seventh Street.

The prisoner, who said he was Donato Rezzo, a laborer, of 437 Lefferts Place, refused to tell why he had shot the policeman, but the police recalled many complaints that the goats owned by Italians were overrunning lawns and garden plots. A raid was made on the goat owners last Sunday, who were served with subpoenas to appear in court yesterday, and one of the officers was Hayden. The police think the shooting was part of an organized plan of vengeance.

WON'T PROFIT BY CITY'S NEEDS

Ex-Register Howe of Brooklyn Will Supply Material to Queens at Cost.

Former Congressman James R. Howe, who served a term as Register of the old City of Brooklyn, and after deducting a reasonable salary from his fees, devoted the remainder to erecting the equestrian statue of Washington that stands on the Brooklyn Plaza of the Williamsburg Bridge, now wants to supply the city with cheesecloth at cost price.

Mr. Howe is at present running a coöperative store in connection with some of his old employes. It was in answer to an advertisement by Emanuel Brandon, Superintendent of Public Buildings of Queens, that Mr. Howe came to the front with his offer. In his bid Mr. Howe states:

> Dear Sir: I inclose samples of cheesecloth as per request. Price per yard at cost. I do not want any profit from the city.

It is probable that Mr. Howe will get the order.

Guchkoff President of Duma.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 21.—Alexander J. Guchkoff was elected President of the Duma to-day, to succeed M. Khomyakoff, who recently resigned. M. Guchkoff was the candidate of the Octobrists.

Robert J. Collier Back from Bermuda.

Robert J. Collier returned yesterday from Bermuda on the Royal Mail steam packet Orotava. He said there was no truth in the reports that Mark Twain was in feeble health. "I saw Mr. Clemens nearly every day that I spent on the island," he said, "and talked with him. In my opinion he is better than I have seen him at any time during the last four years." Capt. Dagnall of the Orotava said that an American syndicate had purchased a site close to the Hamilton Hotel at Hamilton, on which a big hotel is to be erected and ready to open for next season's business. It will be run on American lines and be kept open all the year round. The lilies in Bermuda are late this year, and only a few boxes for presents were brought up yesterday from the island.

Why not have the best?

When you can have the finest-flavored, the richest, purest and most nourishing tomato soup, simply by asking for it, why not ask and insist?

If there was anything better we would say get it at any price. But there is nothing to compare with

Campbell's Tomato Soup

The price is low simply because of our extraordinary advantages.

We grow our tomatoes in our own gardens near our plant. And we often use 25,000 baskets in a day; so that we get them fresh, in perfect condition; at the lowest farming cost and without freight charges. And by condensing this soup, we save again on cans, boxes, packing, freight, etc; so that you get the most soup for the money, as well as the best soup at any money.

Why put up with any second best?

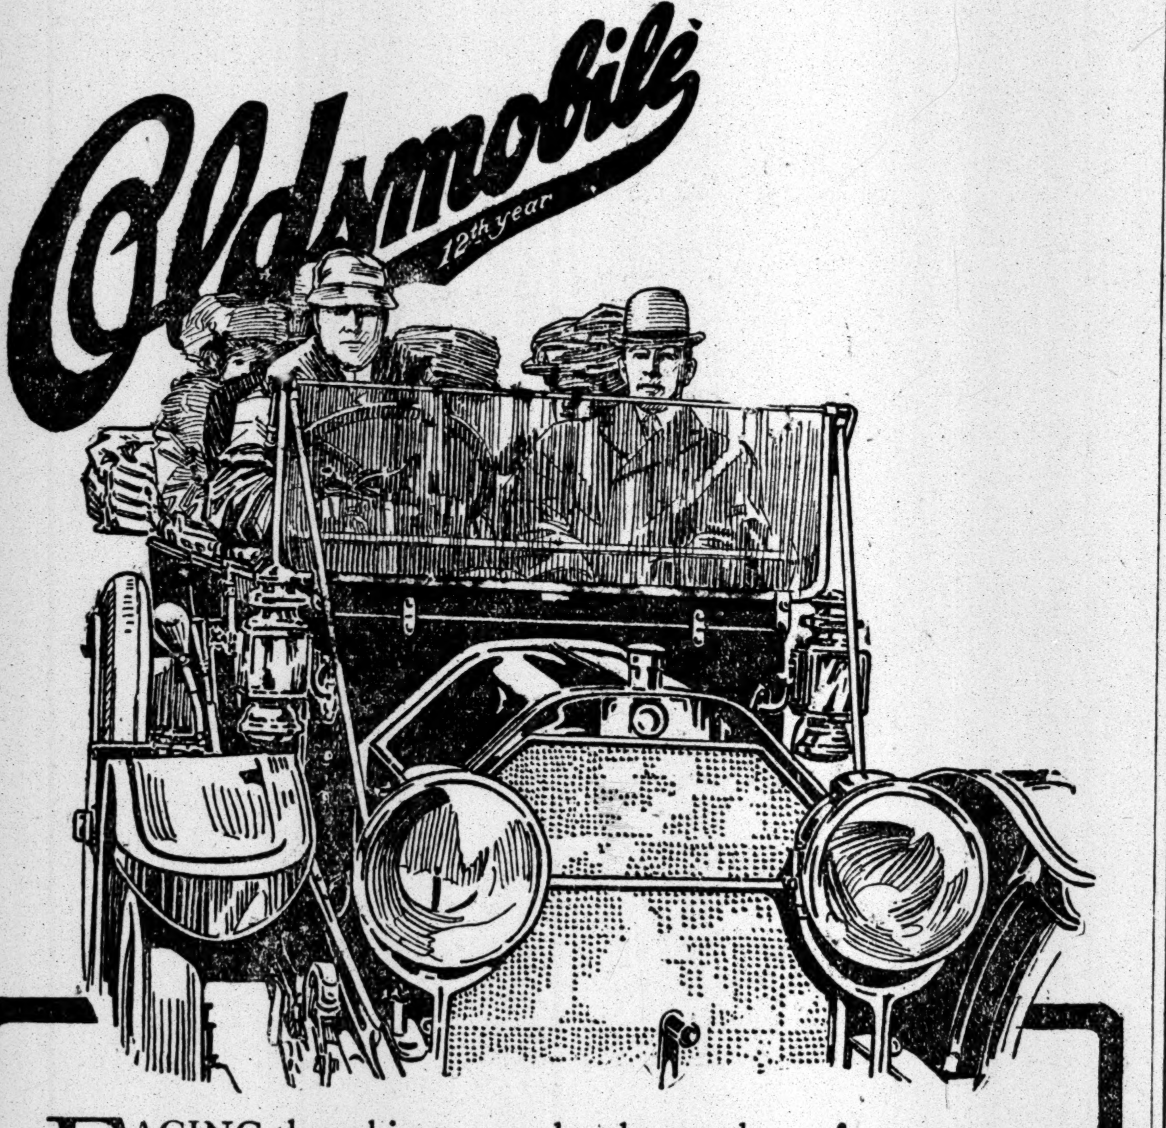
Don't take automobile tires "for granted"—Goodrich or any other kind. Look up their record. That is the one and only test of tire merit worth a moments consideration.

The Goodrich record is over ten years long, includes six Glidden Tours and most of the endurance contests. It proves the merit of GOODRICH TIRES



FACING the subject squarely, the purchase of a motor car involves one of two things:—investment in a certainty or speculation in a possibility...The unknown car may turn out satisfactorily, but the selection of a car that has "arrived" and has a known record extending over a period of years is the wiser course, because—a good motor car is the product of growth.

The Oldsmobile represents that which is good and permanent in mechanism and design:—it is the epitome and record of automobile development, in America and Europe, for the last twelve years. For that reason its prestige is highest among those who know most about what a car should be.

Some Features of the White Gasoline Car
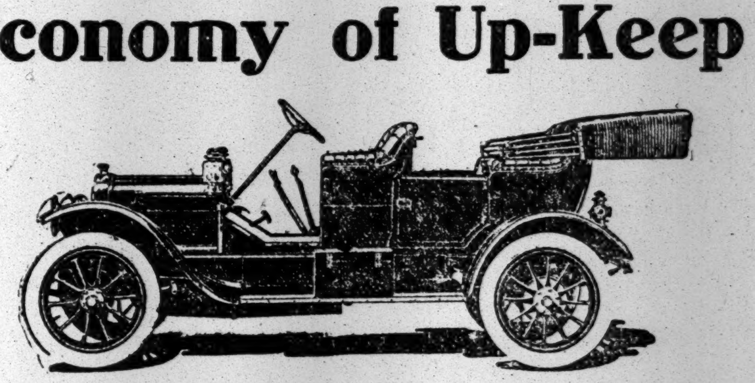
which result in unusual
Economy of Up-Keep



The White gasoline car is designed and built to run at a lower cost of up-keep, mile for mile, than any other car on the American market. Some of the factors which ensure economy both in fuel consumption and in cost of maintenance are:

Intake Gases Heated

By including the intake passages with the block engine casting, the intake gases are heated. As a result, every particle of gasoline is completely vaporized and each cylinder receives a uniform mixture of the proper richness, thus ensuring very low fuel consumption.

Exhaust Gases Cooled

By water-jacketing the exhaust passages, the temperature of the exhaust gases is reduced as soon as they leave the cylinder. As a result, the pressure of these gases is greatly reduced and there is a minimum loss of power due to back pressure. This factor also results in low fuel consumption.

Four-Speed Transmission

The direct drive is on third gear and practically all driving in town is done on this gear. For high-speed running, the fourth gear is used. There is, therefore, no racing of the engine and no undue strains upon it when the car is run at high speed. Furthermore, the engine may always be run at very close to its most economical speed.

Valve Mechanism Enclosed

There is no chance for dirt and grit to work their way into the bearing surfaces and cause wear and faulty timing, as is the case when the valve mechanism consists of a series of external and unprotected springs, rocker-arms, push-rods, etc.

Accessibility of Every Working Part

The cost of making an ordinary adjustment on any car is determined largely by the accessibility of the several parts. In the White, accessibility has been developed to a much greater degree than in any other car. For example, as there are no external manifolds, or no overhead valve contrivances, a valve may be removed for regrinding without removing or disturbing any other part. As another example, the magneto and water-pump are on opposite sides of the engine and are driven independently, so that either may be reached without disturbing the other.

THE CITY BOND BIDS.

The city's offering of $50,000,000 bonds is considerable in itself, but small considered relatively to the debt to which it is an addition, making a gross total little short of a billion. Moreover, it is not permissible to consider the offering in a class by itself. It is part of the entire money market situation, and it is a time of almost unprecedentedly low ranges of public credit throughout the world. Last week British consols sold at the lowest price, with one exception, for sixty years, and yesterday England floated $105,000,000 successfully at within a fraction of par, and nobody speaks of the deterioration of British credit, although its finances are admittedly in as bad a muddle as New York's. French rentes also sell below par, and at a lower range than is customary. Meanwhile it is a time of good profits in private business, and of wild speculation in some of the world's financial capitals.

It is necessary to keep these facts in mind because these bonds were issued as a world offering, in dollars, pounds, and francs. It is impossible to blink the fact that the figures of the bids are not those hoped for by the officials and the sanguine. The number of bids, 440, was large, and few conspicuous names are absent. Their absence would have been remarked, and it was good business to put in an appearance, but perhaps venturesome to bid so high as to get many bonds at a time when the financial public is too well educated regarding the experiences of sundry syndicates announced as "oversubscribed," but which had to take up their subscriptions instead of dividing profits on the operation.

It may be that some will regard a range about 1 per cent. lower than the expectation attributed to the Mayor, and not considerably different from the yield of the bonds placed by the preceding administration, as surprising. Others may regard it as disappointing. To us it seems reassuring, even encouraging, although not without certain cautionary factors. We take the range reported as a tribute to the excellence of the Mayor's administration. If the past three months had been less eloquent of economy and efficiency and determination to regard the city's affairs as business instead of politics the result of yesterday's bidding assuredly would have been such as to leave no doubt regarding the adjective with which to describe the city's credit.

On the other hand, the Mayor can have been left with few illusions regarding his ability to wave a magician's wand and alter so stubborn a fact as the money market. Not because he is a good Mayor will anybody overbid the worth of money for city bonds. It will require fuller details to determine whether there is yet discrimination between the descriptions of bonds which the city issues. It makes no difference whether or not any is discoverable yet. Sooner or later those who accommodate the city will draw a line at advancing money for subways to be boarded up, or even for subways to be built on speculation, in hope of finding an operator at a profit upon completion. If the rate realized yesterday is to be improved upon it is necessary that taxpayers shall have a full meal according to the first course which has been served. If the Mayor wishes to avoid placing a loan at 4½ per cent. before he retires he must set his face resolutely in the direction in which he started, and must avoid any grandiose committal of the city's resources to enterprises of uncertain result.

COMPETING WITH UNSKILLED LABOR.

It seems that Mr. Ransom, an Assistant Professor of Mathematics and Civil Engineering at Harvard, might find more profitable work to employ his leisure than digging in the excavations for the Cambridge subway. Wyckoff's self-sought experiences of tramp life were understandable, as he was an avowed and energetic student of sociology. The wealthy young man who learns a mechanical trade in order to be familiar with all the details of the business he is to inherit is not wasting his time. But digging is unskilled labor. Primitive man, after he had fashioned a spade, could dig as well as the Italian laborers who work in modern trenches and excavations.

The practical knowledge of digging Mr. Ransom is acquiring will not help him much when he goes into the contracting business. He may work harder and accomplish more, than his associates, but they will not like him better on that account. He is taking the bread out of the mouth of some man who has no other way of making bread, while Mr. Ransom commands another and better way. There are always plenty of diggers. Mr. Ransom's own account of his work and his plans indicates that he is an enthusiast rather than a poser. But we are quite confident that he is wasting valuable time and is the victim of a delusion. What he can learn by handling a spade in competition with laborers or bossing a gang employed in concrete construction could as well be learned by intelligent observation.

If a Master of Arts is compelled to dig for his food and lodging, he does well to take up his humble work courageously, but the glory that is in it is a pretty poor kind of glory. If it is true that there are "a lot of college men seeking vacation jobs" in the Cambridge subway, a new kind of bug must be active at Harvard. It is a poor way to show that you respect hard labor needlessly to compete with the man who must do hard labor or starve.

MR. CANNON'S TAUNTS.

Mr. Cannon behaves with about the dignity and reasonableness of a ward Captain. His jeers at the progressive Republicans because they did not follow his expulsion from the Rules Committee by his expulsion from the Speakership are unworthy of even his standard of political manners.

The independent Republicans do not wish to take the control of the House from their own party. They wished simply to break up the tyrannical system that prevented a fair expression of the will and judgment of their party. They have no desire or intention of going over to the Democratic Party, or of becoming a minority in a coalition with that party, or of defeating the policies of the Republicans when they cannot possibly approve those of the present opposition. To follow any such course as that would be contrary to their convictions, a betrayal of the trust they have accepted from their constituents and ruinous to their own political careers. That would delight Mr. Cannon, but it could not possibly be satisfactory to any one else.

"WAR" WITH CANADA.

President Taft finds the situation as to a tariff "war" with Canada a very puzzling one. Apparently he can only be rescued from it by some kindly concession by the Canadian Government sufficient to "save his face" in averting the preposterous maximum tariff. Certainly we all hope that he may be saved, but if he is not he really has only himself to blame for it.

The maximum and minimum provision of the Aldrich tariff was avowedly intended solely for coercion. In this regard it was the opposite of the provision under a like name employed in the tariffs of other civilized nations. Canada, for example, offers concessions from her general tariff rates to those countries that will grant equivalent reductions. The United States, on the contrary, starts with a general tariff higher than that of any other country except Turkey, and when asking for concessions accompanies the demand with a threat of very heavy increased duties, amounting in the case of Canada to 125 per cent., and making the average duties on dutiable goods 233 per cent. of the present average.

We should suppose that the difficulties of negotiating tariff relations in this way would have been sufficiently obvious to our Government to make it cautious as to increasing them. We should suppose also that the fact that our exports to Canada are more than twice our imports from that country would have been taken into account, for it is plain that any concession we could obtain would be worth twice as much as a like concession granted would be to the Canadians. And we should suppose that, in addition to these considerations, a rudimentary notion of the political significance of our trade with Canada might have suggested to the Administration to make the Aldrich tariff work as smoothly as possible in this instance, because it would affect more diversified interests in a larger area of the country than almost anything connected with the working of the law. From the furthest corner of the Great Lakes to the New England coast industries of great variety, extent, and value largely depend on Canadian trade.

But the Washington mind seems to have been quite impervious to such practical ideas. The Administration, armed with the big club of the maximum tariff, seems to have been belligerent from the start. It set out not to reconcile Canada to the exactions which, at best, our law makes imperative, but to demand concessions as the price of exemption from the further and monstrous exactions of the maximum tariff. It asked that Canada should give gratuitously the low rates that France had purchased by corresponding reductions, and it asked that Canada should suspend in our favor the restrictions placed on the export of pulp wood from the crown lands. Of course the only inducement that could be offered to Canada for these valuable concessions would be exemption from the threatened maximum tariff.

If Mr. Taft, with or without sound concessions from Canada, shall decide that Canada does not impose unduly discriminating duties on American goods when she exchanges concessions with France and Germany, the maximum tariff need not be applied. In doing this he will be acting in accordance with a principle long maintained by our Government. The situation would still be far from satisfactory, for only true reciprocity can satisfy the conditions of trade between the two neighbors. But it would at least be saved from becoming intolerable.

"SHOW HIM UP!"

The dignified and important assemblage at the University Club of Albany on Saturday evening listened to a remarkable speech from the Governor of the State, of which it may be said that it was a pity it should have to be made and a good thing for the Commonwealth that the Governor was man enough to make it. It was a pity that in the presence of the President of the United States and of the Governor General of Canada reference should have been in order to the wretched corruption unmasked and in the process of unmasking in the administration of the Government of the Empire State. We may, indeed, seek to soften the humiliation by the reflection that in all popular government corruption is likely to creep in and that neither our own Federal institutions nor the provincial and federal Governments of our neighbors have escaped this blight. But that consideration is at best cowardly and mean, the product of the very temper that makes corruption safe and profitable.

Far better was the mood in which Gov. Hughes met the mortifying situation and pointed the way to deal with it:

> If there is a rascal who is abusing the privileges Government is giving him show him up!
>
> If anybody is false to a public trust uncover him for the pure safety and the honor of our party.

This is not only the instinctive impulse of the honest man at a time like the present, but it is the dictate of the highest political expediency. Naturally it is opposed by the leaders who are more or less directly responsible for existing conditions. The inevitable desire of these men is to confine the exposure to the narrowest limits, to check investigation, to fall back on the plea of the criminal lawyer, to take refuge in the technical rules of evidence and resist inquiry into anything but specific charges against specified men. They are blind to the simple fact that such a course, however proper in the trial of a criminal, is proper to criminals only. It is not proper for public servants occupying positions of trust, bound by honor and self-respect to conduct themselves with scrupulous honesty and voluntarily and eagerly to render to their constituents an open and full account of their trust.

Moreover, the only possible safety for the party is in exposure that is obviously thorough and complete. The only way to eradicate distrust is to open everything to the light of day and to demonstrate that the party will not only expose but punish offenders. In his energetic and uncompromising advocacy of that policy Gov. Hughes shows himself not only an honorable man and a wise statesman, but a sagacious party leader.

THE LATEST NEWS OF THE FLOOD.

As might have been expected, doubts are cast on the authority, the lucidity, and the comparative antiquity of Prof. Hilprecht's latest news of the flood. Probably the professor will not be disturbed. He is used to having the authenticity and intelligibility of his Nippur tablets questioned, but he goes right ahead arranging and deciphering them. He is criticised for reading one word of the old hieroglyphic and then producing the whole line to which it belongs. But Michael Angelo constructed an admirable bull from the torso. This sort of thing is easy if you know how to do it.

Prof. Hilprecht's publication of his discovery of the legend on the tablet through the newspapers also seems to annoy some of his scientific contemporaries. Dr. Morris Jastrow makes the point that Prof. Schell's interpretation of the tablet of the eleventh year of King Ammizaduka of the Hammurhabi dynasty, now in Mr. J. P. Morgan's collection of antiquities, was published modestly in the pages of a purely technical journal. But the latest news of Noah's flood concerns all of us, not only the purely technical. Some folks have said there never was a flood. The two Hammurhabi tablets in existence, and decipherable, before Prof. Hilprecht made known his discovery, sustain the Biblical account. The newly deciphered Nippur tablet is still further proof. Some folks will still say, of course, that there never was a flood, but they are arguing against a considerable array of ancient and unrelated statements.

Prof. Hilprecht dates his tablet between 2100 and 2900 B. C. The date is purely conjectural. Dr. Jastrow insists that the Morgan tablet is older, though it may date from the comparatively recent year of 1800 B. C. We have no doubt that Prof. Hilprecht will rise to the occasion and produce other Nippur tablets confirming his theory. He has an immense collection and he reads their legends like a book. Interesting reading they make, too.

The church ushers' union, newly formed at a luncheon party in Delmonico's, does not seek better wages for ushers, as they get no wages, and is therefore not looking forward to a strike. The ministers and choirs having failed to attract large congregations the ushers are going to see what they can do toward filling the Fifth Avenue churches. At least they can try to find seats for all who happen in. A hospitable welcome for strangers is promised. It is a good idea and seems to be new.

If a new large theatre for plays written in the English language is needed on the lower east side there will be no trouble in getting capital to build it. Theatre building and theatre ownership are more profitable in a big city, by and large, than theatrical management. The only important point in Mr. Charles Frohman's proposition to the founders of The New Theatre is his willingness to lease an east side theatre and produce plays there worthily if they will build the house. Others will undertake the building, if he will stick to his proposition under other conditions. If it should fail with English plays it could easily be rented for the Yiddish drama. The theatres that present plays in that language are prosperous.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

New York Will Not Be Hurried.

In his advice to the New York members of the Anti-Saloon League Gov. Glenn of North Carolina showed a practicality—a recognition of facts as they are instead of as they ought to be—that would have excited not a little indignation from old-time prohibitionists and started them to talking hotly about "compromises with evil." Nowadays, however, the effective part of the campaign against intemperance deals rather with its social and economic than its moral aspects, and most people have discovered that more can be accomplished by proving that the use of intoxicants interferes with work and business than by declaring that it is wicked to drink even a single glass of whisky, wine, or beer.

So the Governor's speech was very well received, even though he did warn his hearers that it was to the production of intelligent public sentiment, and not to the passage of prohibitory statutes, that they must trust for the advancement of their cause. And he was especially emphatic in telling them that for years to come it would be a fatal mistake to use much of their energy in trying to turn New York into a "dry" town. Even if the City Local Option bill were to pass at this session of the Legislature, he said, it would be useless to expect a majority vote here in favor of closing the saloons until after the other cities of the State had one by one declared their weariness of the liquor traffic and its consequences.

Whether this was a severe arraignment of New York or an involuntary recognition of its good sense depends, of course, upon the point of view, but it is undoubtedly true that this city is at present about the least hopeful of places in which to work for prohibition, while there are presumably a good many villages, and perhaps a few large towns, where the inhabitants can be persuaded more or less easily to banish the Demon. And New York, though it does not yet even think of "going dry," is steadily mitigating the fervor of its worship of Bacchus. Out-and-out drunkenness is already in high disfavor here, and, while those who drink nothing at all are still comparatively few, the number of those whose consumption of alcohol is strictly moderate is steadily increasing. If the process goes on long enough there will be no more need for special laws regulating the liquor traffic than for laws to govern the sale of crackers.

Asking for What He Wants.

It is easy enough to smile while reading the dispatch in regard to the kind, and the only kind, of a reception which ex-President Roosevelt wants or will accept when he gets home. The fact remains, however, that his wishes will be heeded, and that their expression will have the highly desirable effect of preventing any political party or faction from using him to its own advantage and to the disadvantage of its rivals.

Mr. Roosevelt, being in the happy position of one who can confidently count on a hearty welcome from the vast majority of his fellow-countrymen, and knowing that such is the case, feels under no obligation to conceal this pleasing knowledge. So he coolly says—"my reception must be participated in by Republicans, Democrats, Populists, and men of other and no political faith who care to take part in such a reception." And it will be—there's no doubt of that.

It could hardly be said with accuracy that in this country Mr. Roosevelt is "loved and respected by all," but even those of us who do neither the one nor the other nor both, fully, have a liking for some of his many sides, and he probably has not a single thoroughgoing, implacable enemy. Why shouldn't he, therefore, give orders as to the arrangements for his welcome, especially since, as usual, the orders are based on his instinctive understanding of popular sentiment?

With quite other feelings does one read the proclamation in which the Duke of Orleans announces his royal willingness to accept a call to the throne of France! That country is just now going through one of the periodic experiences that prove the present imperfection of republican institutions, but the Duke is ludicrously, almost pathetically, wrong in his belief that "popular disgust," strongly excited as it has been by the Duez scandals, "indicates that the time is almost ripe"—for him. Nobody is even thinking of him.

The Nile Is an Exception.

Whether it is the same in the other hemisphere or not, we have never heard, but at this end of the world there is an instinctive feeling that north is "up" and south "down." That explains, doubtless, why one page of the Picture Section in The Sunday Times was headed "Ex-President Roosevelt's Trip up the River Nile from Khartoum to Cairo."

That caption, before publication, came under the eyes of dozens of men, every one of whom knew that the trip from Khartoum to Cairo is not up, but down the Nile, even though it is from the south to the north, and yet nobody noticed the mistake until the time in which correction was possible had passed. Of course it was plain enough then, it being the habit of the so-called typographical error to veil itself in mists while in copy and proof, and to swell to elephantine proportions as soon as it gets into the paper.

There are, however, a few well-known exceptions to the rule that north is always "up" in common usage. A part of this country that is north of most of the rest of it is called "down East," and it is "up to London" no less from the northern than the southern counties of England. Russia has some big rivers that flow north, and Europe has one, the Rhine, which takes that general direction. The Canadian Siberia, too, drains its western half toward the Arctic Ocean, but as a rule rivers trend toward the south, and, of course, it is always "down," being down hill, from their sources to their mouths.

The Eucalyptus.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I wonder why the eucalyptus tree, a native of Australia, is not cultivated in this country. This tree is extremely rapid in its growth, requiring about ten years. Some trees attain a height of 400 to 500 feet, and notwithstanding their rapid growth, the wood is hard and durable. Why cannot these trees be cultivated in reforesting the United States? W. W.

CONFUSED DISEASES.

Believes Tuberculosis Mortality Is Greater Than Is Reported.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Dr. Woods Hutchinson is reported to have written that tuberculosis is being "rapidly stamped out," and Prof. Irving Fisher has said that the mortality from it "is declining in almost all communities." He also refers to "the great reductions which have already been made in the death rate from tuberculosis." The answer to this is that in England and Wales, where death registration is fairly satisfactory, the decrease in deaths from the disease named was as great in the twenty years prior to Koch's discovery, when nothing was being done to cause a decrease, or could be done, as in the twenty years following the discovery of the tubercle bacillus. This evidence shows that the real factor in the decrease has not been man's puny efforts, but the gigantic and ever-present power of natural selection, which is obviously cumulative in its results.

I have no hesitation in asserting, after very careful study of the statistics, so called, that the apparent decline of the number of deaths from tuberculosis in many of our cities is merely improper registration. In Buffalo, for example, tuberculosis often goes by the name of "heart disease," after death has occurred. In Cleveland it seems not infrequently to be called "pneumonia," in Pittsburg it often appears under the name "bronchopneumonia"—when death certificates are concerned. The last-named city has about 40,000 more inhabitants than Cincinnati; its colored population numbers about 17,000, to somewhat less than 15,000 in the last-named place. Does any one believe the registered figures which show that while tuberculosis in 1908 caused 995 deaths in Cincinnati, it only caused 762 in Pittsburg? Again, Scranton and Syracuse have about the same population—125,500. According to the Census Office report for 1908 the deaths from tuberculosis during that year were, in Scranton, 125 only; in Syracuse, 190! What conditions are there in the former place to account for such a small number of deaths from tuberculosis?

The true explanation, however, may be found in the following facts:

According to the report of the United States Census Office the number of deaths from pneumonia during 1908 was, in Syracuse, 106; in Scranton, 115, while "other diseases of the respiratory system"—neither tuberculosis nor pneumonia—are supposed to have caused only 89 deaths in Syracuse, but 202 in Scranton. Similar instances could be found in other cities without prolonged investigation.

Dr. Rogers deserves commendation for telling the whole truth about tuberculosis mortality, and the amateur statisticians who, with every good intention, mislead the public deserve condemnation for their credulity as well as for their failure to apply even the crudest tests to the published death rates.

THE DUELING FRENCHMAN.

An Estimate of His Chances with a Texas Ranger.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A few days ago a quiet, gentle appearing blonde young man came to our ranch in search of a stray horse. His voice was quiet and low, like a woman's, and when I told him the horse was on the ranch, a pleasant smile, almost like a woman's, also came over his face. Strapped to his hip was a gun—a .45—and with this, no doubt, he could cut the buttons from my coat without touching the flesh if I had stood in the right position for him to do so, for he was a Texas Ranger, one of a body of men who live with their lives in their hands. They shoot straight, as a matter of course, but it is not a question of shooting straight, but of shooting quick and of being able to shoot from the hip, or, in fact, from anywhere. They do not take aim in the accepted way of the Eastern man, but only as the boy aims when he throws a stone, or the pitcher when he pitches the ball. They see the thing to shoot at and the eye directs the movement of the hand in any position, and they will empty a gun while a man who aims over the sights is getting ready to shoot.

So the question I would ask "A Frenchman" is, Where does the equality of chance come in with such men as I am speaking of? Suppose "A Frenchman" was to challenge one of these men? He would probably look at the challenger with a smile and decline the honor. But suppose he accepted, and chose as weapons six-shooters—.45s—each man to shoot until his gun was empty? I am afraid, very much afraid, there would be a funeral, and it wouldn't be the Ranger's. H. M.

Mr. Taft Not a Statesman.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Charles Sumner once said, "In the universe of God there are no accidents." If we include American politics in that domain, what, may I ask, are the causes which have brought the Taft Administration into disrepute? What, eliminating political "luck," has brought upon it the disgust of the public?

I asked this question of a Republican a while ago, and he answered:

> Taft is a politician, not a statesman. He looks on his office as the gift of the Republican Party, not of the Nation, and feels bound to repay the men who have secured his election, at the expense, if need be, of the country. So he gives offices, not for the benefit of the country, but in return for past services. The country feels this and resents it.
>
> It is the same with legislation. The tariff is passed because it suits Republican leaders; the people, and the pledges Taft made to them before he was elected, are ignored.
>
> The man is a moral coward who puts party success above public good, the easiest way to the keeping of his own pledged word.

Are these charges true? What do your readers think? I am ignorant in politics, and should much like to know.

GEORGE ADAMS.

New York, March 20, 1910.

Mrs. Catt Explains.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

My attention has been called to a letter printed in a recent Times, in which Mrs. Scott questions a statement made by me on the platform. The opinion that "the negro had no rights the white man was bound to respect" was not Daniel Webster's opinion nor even Judge Taney's. It was common public opinion, which Judge Taney expressed in the words quoted, and which have been used ever since by common consent to represent the state of popular belief that existed at that time. An average auditor would certainly understand that it was the opinion and not the words which were being credited to Daniel Webster. What happened was that Daniel Webster delivered one of his masterful speeches in which he indorsed the general prevailing opinion concerning slavery, and a long list of prominent Bostonians, including the then President of Harvard, Jared Sparks, I think, sent him a memorial in which they thanked him for his speech and indorsed its sentiments.

I do not "disregard Dr. Eliot's opposition to woman suffrage"; I merely wait for time to classify him with his predecessor, in the same list of great men who got themselves on the wrong side of great questions.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Once in a long while a great poem is written, and a generation or two later the world begins to learn of it. Let us try to change this unfair custom, as we can. On March 13 last you published a great poem—one of the very greatest I have ever read in my life—"Breshkovskaya," by Elsa Barker. Not since Tennyson's "Ulysses" has a new poet ever given more certain evidence to the world. It is a long poem, and yet every line of it is authentic; every line of it great. I will stake what reputation as a man of letters I have or ever may have upon the prophesy that this will be known as one of the half dozen greatest poems so far written in America.

FROMUTH PASTELS ON VIEW.

"Fluid Waters at Evening" One of Loveliest of Artist's Themes.

The pastels by Charles H. Fromuth at the Folsom Galleries are so interesting a demonstration of the possibilities of the medium as to call for a special word on the artist's technique. Pastel, of course, is an ideal material for the painter who wishes his work to live without becoming subject to disintegration and changes of tone by reason of chemical reactions. A pastel a hundred years old is as fresh in color, provided that aniline or otherwise unstable pigments are not used, as it was in the beginning. That is to say, the stability depends only upon the quality of the pigment. There is no risk added by medium, as in the case of oil or tempera.

The one thing that might happen to a pastel for which the chalk medium could be held responsible is the crumbling of the chalk into a dust falling from the surface of the picture. This happens only when the ground is improperly chosen and the method of the artist is inappropriate to the medium.

When, as in Mr. Fromuth's case, a strong, coarse paper with a tooth that will hold the chalk firmly has been selected, and the painter applies his pigment directly, without subsequent working, there is little if any danger of the chalk and paper ever parting company. This vigorous method of painting "à premier coup" has much to recommend it on the aesthetic side as well, but primarily it promises long life to the picture.

To turn to the pictures themselves, they justify the care that has been taken to insure their permanence. We seldom leave a gallery so enlivened with the sense that nature's vitality has been transferred to art. For one thing, the subjects are chosen for their spiritual as well as for their pictorial message; this we make out in a literary way from the titles as we make it out in an aesthetic way from the communication of the special mood. We read, for example, "The Dock in an Art Humor," "The Whispers of the Last Rays in the Dock," "A Harbor in the Humor of the Coming Storm from the Sea," "A Spiritless Harbor Evening," and if we are in a downright mood ourselves to start with, we no doubt shrug our shoulders at what seems literary pretentiousness and affectation. But face to face with the pictures, we see that the painter has done with his paints precisely what he has tried to do with his words—he has rendered the spirit of the scene, only, being a true painter, he has done it far better with these bits of blue and red chalk than with the printed titles.

His "Fluid Waters at Evening" is one of the loveliest of his themes, but there are a dozen no less lovely. His translation of the clear dome of the sky, the liquid depths of the sea, the color of the sails, and the wind that blows them into big curves and decorative groupings are as far removed from the hackneyed as from strained originality. We have seen the thing done fifty times, but never so well done. Part of the success comes from the fact that the painter takes his subject naturally, with apparently only the arrangement necessary to include its greatest charms. Of course, an immense amount of arrangement and elimination is bound to go with pictures so satisfying in their effect, but Mr. Fromuth conceals his art while he leaves his method naked to observation. Ordinarily it is the other way with fastidious composers. They take every pains to conceal their method, but their art—their intentional perfection—is set superciliously before one.

This apparent frankness and sly superiority give a more robust effect. The art that does not flaunt itself is not infrequently the sturdiest, and these brisk, simple gestures of the inanimate world, this passion of light moving swiftly across a mass of laboring clouds, this hurly-burly of a sky in preparation for an angry mood of nature, this sleepy harbor, at rest and tender after a day of tears, are the product of such primal impulses of the outdoor world as to seem mere copies of its tempers and serenities to the uninitiated vision. To the artist who has tried the same juggling trade they are the expression of genius working with the same old machinery, but performing, nevertheless, a kind of miracle.

An interesting collection of pastels and watercolors by Clifford Addams is on exhibition at the Clarke Gallery. Added to them are a number of pencil, pen-and-ink drawings, and etchings. A "Spanish Mother and Child" is particularly rich in quality, and a pastel called "Agostina" is another in which a strong color scheme is kept well in hand and the direct touch is strong, without sacrifice of delicacy. The blues in "Blue Satin Blouse: Sorrow," are exquisitely related, and the dark blur of the head in shadow is impressive in its emotional effect. There is much variety, some uncertainty, and plenty of talent shown in the handsome little exhibition. Some of the etchings seem to have been retouched with color with excellent effect.

The exhibition shows marked progress on the part of an artist whose talent is naturally robust and gains on the side of variety and delicacy.

MAUD MALONE'S VIEWS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a recent interview Mrs. Harper, speaking for the New York State Woman Suffrage Association, whitewashes Mr. Oliver. She, however, fails to do it to my satisfaction and to that of numbers of others.

I am sorry to see that Mrs. Harper has misunderstood the whole situation from the beginning. She does not see it is not a personal matter between Miss Mercy and Mr. Oliver. Miss Mercy never took it as such. To do so is to go no further than the surface.

The State Association, speaking through Mrs. Harper, says "Mr. Oliver has always voted for suffrage." I would remind the ladies that in the period before the civil war there were many politicians who always voted for abolition, but who when the question became a vital one went over to the slavery party. Just so with the suffrage movement.

Miss Wren, a delegate from Brooklyn, reports that Mr. Oliver said, "I have got along sixty-two years without women voting, and I can stand it longer."

The State Association may call this being a "suffragist," but I would call Mr. Oliver "a dead suffragist."

I believe the reason we are no further on is because we are weighted down with suffragists like Oliver. And the main purpose of a militant movement is to smoke them out.

Mr. Oliver says the women of his district are too busy at the washtub and have no time for voting. We will ask the women if they agree with him.

We will ask the Jewish men if they are willing to be represented at Albany by a man who laughs at their race and their religion.

Concerning Commander Peary.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The name of Robert E. Peary will continue to be known and honored by the whole world long after the very existence of the Congress now sitting at Washington shall have passed into oblivion. B. S.

El Paso, Texas, March 15, 1910.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As one of your readers who believes in education, it seems a pity because one person shows lack of education, courtesy, and etiquette that he should deprive others sufficiently educated though probably not well versed in polar work the pleasure of enlightenment, particularly when it is not obligatory. There must be people in the State of Georgia who would, from an educational point of view, be much interested in respectfully listening to a gentleman such as Commander Peary even if opinions differ. UNITING TO SAVE CITY HALL PARK

ALTERNATE PLAN CHEAPER

Institute of Architects Has Figures to Prove Economy in Northerly Location—Proposal to Move Post Office.

A committee composed of Presidents of several of the representative associations of lawyers, architects, artists, and business men is now being formed to lead the fight against allowing the proposed new County Court House to invade City Hall Park. Since the hearing last Friday before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment the men who have been taking the forefront in opposing the recommendation of the Court House Board say their hopes of keeping City Hall Park free have been strengthened. The delay allowed by Mayor Gaynor and his fellow-board members will enable the opposition to thoroughly formulate their alternative plans for presentation to the Court House Board.

There was a conference yesterday between Borough President McAneny, ex-Judge Morgan J. O'Brien, Chairman of the Court House Board, and Grosvenor Atterbury, Chairman of the Court House Site Committee of the American Institute of Architects. It was arranged at this conference that a special meeting of the Court House Board will be held Monday morning at 11 o'clock in the City Hall when the board will hear any suggestions that may be offered.

Judge O'Brien informed Mr. Atterbury that he and his fellow-members of the board were anxious to hear all the alternative plans explained as fully as possible, and that suggestions of any kind would be gladly received. It is generally believed among lawyers that Chairman O'Brien is one of the few members of the Court House Board who would like to see the new Court House built elsewhere than in City Hall Park and that his approval of the board's report for the City Hall Park site was only because no other feasible site seemed available.

Letters of Protest to Mayor.

Some of the other board members, however, are believed to be enthusiastically in favor of the City Hall Park site and no other.

Letters protesting against the proposed encroachment on City Hall Park continue to reach the Mayor's office daily. This one was received by Mayor Gaynor yesterday from Frederick Law Olmsted:

>
> Sir: In view of National influence of any conspicuous precedent established by New York I venture as a student of municipal policy in respect to parks to urge upon you the unwisdom of proposed diversion of City Hall Park to use as a building site for Court House.
>
> While annual expenditure for parks and other public purposes must be proportioned by each city administration according to its own best judgment of the city's current needs and resources, the capital which has been invested by former generations in park lands is in effect a trust fund, to be conserved for the purposes of its creation. To treat it as a contingent fund to be drawn upon whenever the city is embarrassed in meeting its current obligations, if not legally a breach of trust, is at least a business policy of the most dangerous kind.
>
> FREDERICK LAW OLMSTED.

One of the plans which will be suggested to the board on Monday next will be an elaboration of the one suggested to the Board of Estimate last Friday by Mr. Atterbury and calling for a general plan of development which would provide for a Court House in two buildings in the centre of the blocks bounded by Broadway, Chambers, Duane, and Centre Streets. This elaboration will suggest the wiping out of the present Post Office Building, the conversion of its site into park walks and flower beds, and the construction of another building somewhere north of Chambers Street for the Federal courts, which at present are quartered in the Post Office Building.

It is argued that the Federal Government does not own the ground on which the Post Office Building stands, and that forty years or so ago, when the building was constructed, it was agreed by the city that the Federal Government should only have a right to the land as long as it was occupied by the Post Office Building. The space occupied by the Post Office Building is 58,800 square feet and would add greatly to the size of City Hall Park if the Federal Building were removed.

Cheaper Than City Park Plan.

Figures to show that the plan outlined by the Court House Site Committee of the Institute of Architects would not be as expensive to the city as the City Hall Park plan will be submitted to the Court House Board on Monday. It is likely also that the committee of Presidents of various associations will be represented at the meeting. This committee, it was explained yesterday, will be known as the Citizens' Committee. Among the organizations whose Presidents are expected to become members of the committee are the Fine Arts Federation, which represents nearly all the aesthetic bodies in New York; the Municipal Art Society, American Institute of Architects, the National Academy of Design, the American Water Color Society, the Society of American Artists, Architectural League of New York, Society of Beaux Arts Architects, National Sculpture Society, National Society of Mural Painters, New York Water Color Club, Society of Illustrators, City Club, Bar Association, Merchants' Association, and the Chamber of Commerce. A large number of other associations are also to be represented on the committee.

Especial emphasis will be laid on the suggestion that the administration would not be obliged to incorporate in this year's budget any large sum should the plan advocated by the American Institute of Architects be approved by the board. The plan would be a gradual development of the property north of Chambers Street, and the only immediate outlay would be about $2,000,000.

One of those leading the fight for the architects said yesterday that two reasons should influence the Judges and lawyers against the City Hall site. The first would be the tearing down of the present Court House building, and, second, would be that the type of building which the Court House Board has recommended would take from six months to a year longer to build than a taller building such as that called for in the plans suggested by the American Institute of Architects' committee.

It is also pointed out that the type of building recommended by the Court House Board will cost about $1,000,000 more than the one recommended by the architects.

In addition to the general development plan it is alternately proposed to utilize the ground on Centre Street, just north of the Municipal Building and between Duane and Pearl Streets. Some of this property has already been acquired by the city for the subway loop between the bridges, and it is estimated that the additional land which would have to be acquired for a suitable Court House would cost only $1,267,500. This site would contain 64,000 feet, and it is argued that a nine-story building on the site would allow plenty of room for the courts and other offices necessary in a County Court House. Still another plan which may be suggested is that of Dr. Charles H. Jaeger for the utilization of the triangular site in old Greenwich Village, lying just south of Jefferson Market.

College Clubs to Sing for Charity.

The Columbia Glee and Mandolin Clubs have volunteered their services for a benefit concert and dance, the proceeds of which will go to the Free Industrial School and Country Home for Crippled Children. The affair will be given in the grand ballroom of the Plaza Hotel on Monday evening, April 14.

'AS YOU LIKE IT' SEEN AT ACADEMY

Sothern and Marlow Revive Shakespeare's Sunshiny Comedy.

AGREEABLE PERFORMANCE

Mr. Sothern's First Appearance as the Melancholy Jacques — Frederick Lewis an Excellent Orlando.

AS YOU LIKE IT, a comedy in four acts, by William Shakespeare. Academy of Music.

Duke	Eric Blind
Frederick	John Taylor
Amiens	Maurice Robinson
Jaques	E. H. Sothern
Le Beau	Frances Bendtsen
Charles	Eric Blind
Oliver	Sidney Mather
Jaques	John Maurice Sullivan
Orlando	Frederick Lewis
Adam	William Harris
Dennis	P. J. Kelly
Touchstone	Albert S. Howson
Sir Oliver Martext	Charles Howson
Corin	Malcolm Bradley
Silvius	Frederick Roland
William	Rowland Buckstone
Rosalind	Julia Marlowe
Celia	Norah Lamison
Phebe	Loretta Healy
Audrey	Elizabeth Valentine

With such an audience as saw "As You Like It" at the Academy of Music last night one begins to wonder if the question as to whether Shakespeare spells ruin may not be answered geographically. North of Twenty-third Street the poet certainly does not seem to flourish, though one always imagines that he might be made to do so under exactly the right conditions. Down in Fourteenth Street last night's audience testified both the poet's popularity and that of the two artists who were bringing his much-beloved comedy back upon the stage. And "As You Like It,' 'of all Shakespeare's plays the most sunshiny, deserves all the popularity that can accrue to it.

Miss Marlowe has often played Rosalind both here and elsewhere, and though it has been discarded by her for some seasons she is still young enough and has enough of the grace and charm of youth to make herself most attractive in the rôle. But all that she could do has not been done, unfortunately, and the sooner she realizes this the better. She has put on more flesh than lends itself best to the pictorial effect of hose and doublet, and there is likewise an occasional heaviness in her playing, which robs it of its best effect at times. Nevertheless she is an agreeable Rosalind, plays some of the scenes with much arch roguery and charm, and touches the sentiment prettily and sweetly. A Rosalind, in short, who, if she does not ever suggest the not infrequently fails to brings out the purest note of poetry, is yet very winning and in many different moods.

The rôle of Jacques, except for the character's occasional satirical and philosophic speeches, is not one that especially commends itself to the actor. And yet, actors have frequently made something of it through a willingness to read the longer speeches with oratorical or elocutionary effect. Thus given "the seven ages of man," the speech beginning "I met a fool in the forest," and several others, are always reasonably sure to win applause. Mr. Sothern, electing to play Jacques instead of Orlando, approaches the rôle with the apparent object of giving it more of natural value, less of the usual histrionic flavor. As a result, though he is a proper enough melancholy Jacques, he is one without much color—a rather tedious one, in fact, all on one level.

Frederick Lewis, on the other hand, has seldom done any Shakespearean rôle better than Orlando, bringing to it a lightness of touch which his acting has lacked at times, a considerable amount of variety and gentle passion, and a decided picturesqueness.

The next best performance is that of the banished Duke, very well read, indeed, by Eric Blind, while the Oliver of Sidney Mather, the Touchstone of Albert Howson, and the Cella of Norah Lamison are all competent and interesting.

The production, evidently not new, but perhaps for that reason mellowed in color and generally agreeable, provides a series of pleasing pictures, though for the full effect of the comedy some of the scenes should be better lighted. Above all things, one wants to get a sense of sunshine in "As You Like It." All in all, however, it is a rather pleasant and even performance, though one of no special distinction.

WEEK'S BILLS AT THE THEATRES.

At the West End Theatre the week's attraction is Maxine Elliott in "The Inferior Sex," coming directly from the run at Daly's Theatre.

"Ma Gosse" opened as the headliner at the Plaza Music Hall yesterday. "The Divine Myrma" was another feature act, and others who appeared were Searl Allen and company, Kathryn Miley, Paul Nicholson and Miss Norton, Fisher and Burkhart, the Royal Polo teams, Claude Golden, and Musical Thor.

At Keith & Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre Annette Kellermann began a week's engagement with her diving act. The other entertainers were Margaret Moffat and company, Wright and Dietrich, Tom Edwards, Bowers, Walters, and Crooker, Charlie Case, the Harvey-De Vora trio, and Lane and O'Donnell.

The bill at Hammerstein's Victoria Theatre was headed by Irene Franklin and Burt Green, and others who appeared were Pat Rooney and Marion Bent, Stepp, Mehlinger and King, the Great Lester, "Dinkelpsiel's Christmas" company, Sydney Dean and company, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Barry, Al Carlton, and Sam Kessler and James Dunn.

"After the Opera" began a second week's engagement at the American Music Hall, and Willa Holt Wakefield appeared in her specialty. Others on the programme were the Empire City Quartet, The Four Mortons, La Petite Adelaide, Rinaldo, the Brittons, Tom Maguire, and the Steffin brothers.

The bill at the Colonial Theatre was headed by Harry Bulger, with character songs and conversation. Other features of the programme were Jesse L. Lasky's "At the Country Club," Edwards Davis and company, the Millman trio, Flanagan and Edwards, the Three Keatons, Waterbury brothers and Tenny, Barry and Wolford, and Leo Carrillo.

Loie Fuller's "The Ballet of Light" was the principal attraction at the Alhambra Theatre. Among the others who appeared were Tom Nawn and company, Richard Jolly and Winifred Wild, the Exposition Four, McDonald, Crawford and Montrose, the Flying Martins, Fred Duprez, Kaugman brothers, Rosare and Deretta, and Douglas and Mosgrove.

Gertrude Hoffmann in her spectacular review was the chief feature at the Bronx Theatre. Claire Romaine in male impersonations was another important number, and the remainder of the bill included "The Opera Singer," Pringle and Whiting, Griff, John Birch, and Melrose and Kennedy.

"Molly May," a new musical comedy, in which Grace La Rue is the star, opened for a week's engagement at the Montauk Theatre, Brooklyn, last night. The piece is by Julian Edwards and Walter Browne, and the cast includes Sydney Grant, James Sullivan, Kate Rollar, and others.

Denman Thompson in "Joshua Whitcomb" was the headliner at the Brooklyn Orpheum Theatre, and the rest of the programme included "La Petite Revue," Charles Leonard Fletcher, Matthews and Ashley, the Three Leightons, and others.

"The Vanity Fair" company is at the Columbia Theatre this week, presenting two burlesques, "A Night at Rector's" and "Fun in a Music Hall." The special vaudeville bill includes Rossi's Elephants, Conchetti, a Hindoo Nautch dancer; Noble and Brooks, and Welch and Maitland.

Luncheon for Miss Helen Taft.

Abraham Lippman.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., March 21.—Abraham Lippman, known through the country for his philanthropic work among Jews, died of heart disease here at 4 o'clock this morning. Mr. Lippman was in his seventy-second year, and since his retirement from the dry goods business thirty years ago had given all his time to charitable work among members of his race in this section of the country. He was President of Rodeph Shalom Temple and of the United Hebrew Relief Society of this city for twenty-five years. On his seventieth birthday, Oct. 17, 1908, a celebration in honor of the event was held in Rodeph Shalom Temple, the entire community joining in honoring him. At that time he received letters from President Roosevelt, Gov. Stewart, and Mayor McGee, and from prominent people throughout the country. He was an officer of every Jewish philanthropic society in Pittsburg, and always took an active part in the work of each.

Mrs. Ellen A. Dykers de Navarro.

Mrs. Ellen A. Dykers de Navarro, widow of José de Navarro and mother-in-law of Mary Anderson, died yesterday at her home, 13 West Forty-sixth Street. Mr. de Navarro died in February of last year, and Mrs. de Navarro never recovered from the shock. She was the daughter of John Hudson Dykers, the first President of the Harlem River Railroad, and was married to Mr. de Navarro in 1857. Mrs. de Navarro was the mother of Antonio de Navarro, the husband of Mary Anderson, the actress, and of Alfonso de Navarro, Vice President of the Portland Cement Company.

Adolph Simeon Solomons.

Adolph Simeon Solomons, philanthropist, publicist, and merchant, who had lived for more than half a century in Washington, D. C., is dead of pneumonia at his home, 1,205 K Street Northwest, in his 84th year. He was a son of John Solomons of London, who came to New York in the nineteenth century, and was associated with John Watson Webb in the New York Courier and Enquirer. Mr. Solomons started the Free Night Lodging House for men, and was a member of the Board of Directors of Columbia Hospital and Providence Hospital, and represented the Red Cross Society at the International Conference at Geneva. He was a founder of the Mount Sinai Hospital and Montefiore Hospital in this city, and eighteen years ago was made general agent of the Baron Hirsch fund. During the days of the civil war he served as Public Printer and was a member of every inaugural committee since the days of Lincoln. He is survived by seven daughters.

METROPOLITAN DROPS RATES TO AGENTS

Increase in Cost of Opera Entails New Move to Save $70,000 a Year.

REGULAR PRICES NO HIGHER

Opera House Invites Co-operation of Public in War Which It Will Begin on Ticket Speculators.

The discount system which has existed between the management of the Metropolitan Opera Company and the various ticket agencies will come to an end after this season, it was announced last night. In the time of Abbey, Schoeffel & Grau it was arranged that Tyson's, Rullmann's, and other agencies could secure tickets at 20 per cent. discount, which they could sell later to subscribers at regular prices or more. The discount in Grau's time was decreased to 15 per cent., and it has remained at that figure until now.

"The point is simply this," said Treasurer John Brown, last night. "The cost of giving opera in New York has increased enormously, while the price of tickets has remained the same. For some time the Board of Directors has had under consideration the plan of raising the prices of opera tickets to $6. It finally however, was decided to do away with the discount which has been allowed the agencies, and this will save the Opera House much money in the future, it is hoped.

"It is not anticipated that any of the agencies will withdraw their usual order for seats, and those who wish can continue to buy their seats of the agencies. Seats will always be on sale at the box office, too, however."

For many years it has been the custom for many subscribers to get their seats through the agencies, which have been able to offer them at regular prices, thanks to the discount. There were special privileges connected with this system. One was that when the subscriber did not wish to use his seats he might return them to the agency for sale.

Under the new system subscribers may still buy their seats from the agents, but they will be compelled to pay a higher figure for them. The price of seats at the Metropolitan will not be raised, however, and to this extent the public will benefit.

It was the agents who assisted the Metropolitan to attain its present large subscription list. In the early days of the opera the yinvested large sums in tickets. It is said, however, that the discount which is allowed the agents at present amounts to $70,000 a year, which is considered too large a sum under present conditions.

The manager of Tyson's agency and Fred Rullmann of Rullmann's agency said last night that they had nothing to say. They referred a reporter of THE TIMES to Mr. Brown of the Metropolitan. Mr. Brown said that he had talked with these gentlemen, and they appeared to be satisfied with the new arrangement. Mr. Brown also announced last night that he planned a war to the death on the ticket speculator, whom he considers the greatest enemy of the opera-going public.

"I have a pigeonhole in my desk full of letters from these men," he said. "If I accepted their propositions I might be $20,000 a year richer. Two or three of them have even had the temerity to come and talk with me.

"We are at present using every means in our power to put a stop to the sidewalk man, and if the public would assist us his end would come soon. I have detectives in the box office corridor all the time to see that any one who has been asked to get tickets for speculators is never sold any."

Several other announcements were made concerning the next season at the Opera House. Saturday night performances—at least subscription performances—are to be abandoned in the future. The subscribers for Saturday night are asked to communicate with the box office in regard to changing their subscriptions for other evenings.

It is announced that the opera company will concentrate its efforts on New York next season with the exception of a limited number of performances in Philadelphia on Tuesday nights and a few performance in Brooklyn on Saturday and Tuesday nights. Several of the boxes on the grand tier floor are to be removed and seats put in their places. The price of these new "Grand Tier Stalls" will be $4.

The regular operatic season will commence Monday, Nov. 14, and will last for twenty-two weeks instead of twenty, as heretofore, during which will be given 110 regular subscription performances, 88 evenings and 22 matinées.

It is intended also to add a special series of Wednesday or Thursday matinées, details of which will be announced later. The subscription books are now open. Subscribers have the right up to and including May 10 to renew their subscriptions for the coming season. After May 12 seats will be allotted to new subscribers in the order in which applications have been received.

WOMAN GRAND OPERA MANAGER

Mrs. Snyder Has $18,000 Subscriptions for Metropolitan in St. Paul.

Mrs. Frederick H. Snyder of St. Paul, Minn., who is the sole manager of the Auditorium in that city, arrived here yesterday. Shortly after her arrival Mrs. Snyder was in conference with Andreas Dippel at the Hotel Knickerbocker, where she is staying, regarding the final arrangements for the Spring season at the Auditorium, in St. Paul, of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company in répertoire, beginning April 21.

St. Paul, it is said, would have been without its short season of grand opera if it had not been for Mrs. Snyder, who entered into arrangements five months ago with the Metropolitan prior to sailing for Florence, Italy, from which place she returned yesterday on the Cedric. Mrs. Snyder showed a telegram to Mr. Dippel, which stated that already $18,000 had been received by the subscription department of the Auditorium in St. Paul, although grand opera was a month ahead

Mrs. Snyder is about the only woman in this country who has anything to do with grand opera in an administrative capacity, and she asserted yesterday that when Mr. Dippel went to Chicago the season at St. Paul would be considerably lengthened. During the past five years she has been instrumental in bringing many musical affairs to the Auditorium. Her first effort was when she introduced Paderewski to the people of St. Paul.

"The appreciation of music, and especially grand opera," said Mrs. Snyder to a reporter, "is growing rapidly in the Northwest. The season of the Metropolitan in St. Paul promises to be very successful this year. For ten consecutive performances we shall hear the cream of the New York season, and already preparations are under way to run special trains into St. Paul from outlying points.

"Two years ago when the Metropolitan Opera Company appeared in St. Paul a special train was run down from Winnipeg, and folks came all the way from Seattle. Our receipts showed that more than $12,000 came from the country towns in Minnesota.

"By having a grand opera season now in St. Paul regularly every year we hope to do wonders. Scores of persons, who were in the habit of going to Chicago for their grand opera, can now enjoy it at home. This will mean something to our merchants, as the society women of St. Paul will stay at home and patronize home products instead of buying their finery when they visit Chicago.

During her sojourn in Italy Mrs. Snyder said that she frequently attended grand opera in Florence and Milan, but that it was on the whole disappointing. "All the grand opera stars are here in America," continued Mrs. Snyder, "and grand opera over there is now given with a one-star attraction. The managers told me with tears in their eyes that the best singers had all gone to New York, where they get the money, as the saying goes.

"The two best opera singers now in Southern Europe are Mignon Nevada, the daughter of Emma Nevada, and Miss Edith De Lys, an American girl. When they appear, however, they have no support such as would be given them in this country."

Besides looking after the managership of the Auditorium in St. Paul, Mrs. Snyder also operates the Frederick Hotel in that city.

"LAKME" AT MANHATTAN.

First and Only Production This Season of Delibes's Opera with Mme. Tetrazzini

Why Mr. Hammerstein went to the toil and trouble of preparing Delibes's "Lakmé" for a single performance in the last week of the season was not evident last evening when it was given. The object of the performance was evident in the fact that it provides an excellent part for Mme. Tetrazzini, being one of the very few modern operas adapted for the uses of the coloratura singer. For a similar reason it was produced at the Metropolitan three seasons ago, when Mme. Sembrich was a member of the company there.

But the history of "Lakmé" seems to show that this fact is not enough to float it in the modern operatic répertory. It was given only three times at its last revival here, and before that it had not been heard in New York since 1892. It persists in the répertory of the Opéra Comique in Paris, but in few other places. The opera has not much of the vivacity and piquancy of Delibes's music as it is known in other of his works. It contains the "Bell Song," known and cultivated by every coloratura soprano as a concert song; and there are a few other effective solo numbers. But the ones that give pleasure are separated by long tracts of dullness. Delibes's fount of fluent melody, of piquant rhythms and distinctive harmonies appears to have been more or less choked in "Lakmé" by the constant effort to lay on Oriental color and exotic effects. Now Oriental color in music is one of the things that soonest palls on the Occidental ear, and it palls in "Lakmé." Moreover the libretto, which borrows certain points from "L'Africaine" and certain others from "Aïda," is not one that deeply interests.

Nevertheless, the problem that confronts the coloratura soprano in the matter of repertory is such that "Lakmé" has much allurement for her and her manager. The performance last evening was excellent, and at several points gave unmistakable pleasure to the listeners. Mme. Tetrazzini was in excellent voice, and sang with much brilliancy, with purer tone, with more even quality, and sustained power than she sometimes has. Her efforts naturally culminated in the "Bell Song" in the second act, and though there were certain features of her singing of it that were not those of the highest artistic finish, her performance of it was an unusually fine one, and brought forth great applause.

The others of the cast were excellent. Mr. McCormack's singing had much beauty of tone; his acting was unskillful and unconvincing. Mr. Huberdean was a satisfactory Nilikantha, and Mme. Trentini as Ellen and Mr. Crabbé as Frederick were capital representatives of the parts. Mr. Nicosia conducted.

FROHMAN ANSWERS SHUBERT.

Meets Offer of Theatre by Offering Him Editorship on Collier's Weakly.

A representative of Charles Frohman gave out a statement last night in reply to the offer made by Lee Shubert to build a theatre on the east side if Mr. Frohman would guarantee to keep it full with high-grade attractions at low prices. In THE TIMES of last Saturday Mr. Frohman, by cable, proposed to the founders of The New Theatre that they erect a suitable theatre on the east side in New York, after the manner of The New Theatre, and he, in turn, would agree to pay a rental for the house and furnish free of charge his stars to keep it filled. Whatever profit resulted at the end of the season he offered to give to philanthropy. Mr. Shubert's offer, published Sunday, was made as an individual and not as an officer of The New Theatre.

The formal statement from Mr. Frohman's representative was as follows:

"Mr. Lee Shubert is such a wit and understands English so perfectly that we are authorized on behalf of Charles Frohman to meet his offer with another, which is this: that we offer him immediately the position of associate editor of Collier's Weakly, because he would always be good for a laugh."

Ben Greet Players in "Julius Caesar."

CRESTON CLARKE DEAD.

Actor of Tragic Roles and a Dramatist Was Nephew of Edwin Booth.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., March 21.—Creston Clarke, the actor, nephew of Edwin Booth and grandson of Junius Booth, died at the Winyah Sanitarium here this morning. His death was due to tubercular trouble. He was 44 years old. Clarke came to Asheville about ten days ago. The body was shipped this afternoon to New York for interment in the family vault at Kensico.

Creston Clarke was an actor and playwright, known better in the South and West than in New York City. He was the second son of John Sleener Clarke and Asia Booth Clarke, and a nephew of Edwin Booth. He was born in 1865, and received his education in London and Paris. His professional career began in England, at the Adelphi Theatre, where he played François to his uncle's Richelieu. He remained in England from 1882 to 1886, in support of his uncle and his father.

In 1886 he came to America and joined Lester Wallack's stock company, where he remained until it went out of existence. He was then a member of the Augustin Daly company until he organized a company of his own, appearing on tour as a star in Shakespearean plays. For ten years he toured at the head of his own company in a classical répertoire. In 1897 he produced his own romantic play, "The Last of His Race," in which he appeared for some time. In 1906 he made a starring tour in "Monsieur Beaucaire," and in 1907 and 1908 played in "The Power That Governs."

Obituary Notes.

NO NATION FAVORED AT METROPOLITAN

Opera Management Declares It Has No Prejudice Against Any School of Artists.

REPLY TO THE DISGRUNTLED

16 Americans, 21 Germans and Austrians, 18 Italians, and 14 French and Russians Engaged for Next Season.

"Certain statements emanating from artists whom it was not found expedient to re-engage for next season and from other disgruntled elements have lately found their way into the press. It would, of course, be incompatible with the dignity of the management of the Metropolitan Opera Company to enter into a newspaper controversy with such artists and others, though it would be easy to demonstrate the groundlessness and animus of their charges.

"The management adheres to the time-honored traditions of the Metropolitan Opera Company of internationalism in art, which is rightly insisted on by the public, and which has made the house what it is, the foremost operatic institution in existence. It has no prejudice in favor or against any school or any nationality of art or artists, except to the extent that it feels called upon to extend special consideration to American composers and American artists. Its freedom from National prejudice is clearly evinced by a reference to the nationalities of the artistic personnel thus far engaged for next season, viz.: Sixteen Americans, twenty-one Germans and Austrians, eighteen Italians, fourteen French and Russians, and two other nationalities.

"The management asks from the sense of fairness of the New York public to lend no credence to the malicious and baseless rumors to which some circulation has been given as to its intentions, its aspirations and plans, more especially in regard to any change in the standard and number of German performances. It asks to be judged by what it will actually do, and not by what certain persons, with whom the wish is the father to the thought, say it will do. It holds itself accountable only to the public, to the Board of Directors, and to its own artistic conscience. It will pay due heed to and receive with genuine respect the views of the able and experienced gentlemen to whose critical reviews its performances are properly subject, but it will not be swayed in its conduct in the slightest degree by the slanderous insinuations, irresponsible clamor, and venomous ill-will of those whose motive and purpose is neither the good of one of their city's great art institutions, nor of the public."

'The Vacuum' with 'The Turning Point.'

Preston Gibson will offer a one-act sketch, "The Vacuum," as a curtain raiser to "The Turning Point" at the Hackett Theatre Thursday night. The play was written several years ago and was produced at the Belasco Theatre, Washington, with Charlotte Walker in the title rôle. It is described as a tragedy of modern life, with the scene laid in the vicinity of New York. The three characters in the piece will be played by Franklin Richie, Chrystal Herne, and William Norton.

Marriage and death notices intended for insertion in The New York Times may be telephoned to 1000 Bryant.

BUGABOOS

They are usually detected after the ink on the contract is dry.

The ringleaders are called Extras.

These are the vehicles of profit which make some contractors rich and their clients poor.

A very low bid is a dangerous thing.

It is incontrovertible that some contractors consistently rely upon Extras to redeem losses involved in their original estimates and it is equally true that some contractors don't.

Cost Insurance means protection for the owner.

YOUNG GIANTS WIN; PARSONS HIT HARD

By FRED TENNEY,
First Baseman of the Giants.
Special to The New York Times.

MARLIN, Texas, March 21.—The Giant squad returned from Galveston and Houston last night. All the boys were much pleased over winning the games in those towns, particularly in Houston, where they ran up against some very poor umpiring. Manager McGraw did not return with the boys, but went on to San Antonio to visit Mr. Brush. He is expected back to-morrow evening.

To-day was warm, and the boys went to practice this morning with lots of ginger, as the warm weather caused all the muscles to loosen up very readily. All the time was devoted to batting and fielding.

This afternoon the Yannigans were pitted against the regulars for a short game. Weimer worked the first part of the game for the regulars, and Klawitter for the Yannigans. While they were on the rubber the game was very close. Then Parsons replaced Weimer and Scott supplanted Klawitter. Parsons was hit very hard, and the Yannigans scored seven runs off him, winning easily by a score of 11 to 4. Herzog made a home run. This is getting to be a regular thing with him. His hitting is much improved this year, and it looks as if some one must hustle to keep him off the regular team. His fielding has always been of a sensational character, and if he has overcome his weakness at the bat he will be a hard man to beat.

Merkle fell while in the big plunge this morning, hurting his left arm so badly that he did not play this afternoon. I am resuming my old position at first for the regulars. My legs are improving very rapidly, and I now can run nearly as well as ever. By the end of the week I hope to be able to work all the time. Murray furnished the spectacular fielding to-day, making two great one-hand catches of fly balls at the outskirts of his territory.

Paul Armstrong made his début as an umpire, and at the close of the game it was unanimously voted that he knew more about play writing than umpiring.

The Mayor of the town invited the newspaper men of the camp to go on a possum hunt to-night. The invitation was accepted with great pleasure, as the hunt will break the monotony of camp life, and then we would like to know what possum really tastes like.

COLLEGE PITCHERS EASY.

Yankees Pile Up Hits and Runs on University of Georgia Team.

Special to The New York Times.

ATHENS, Ga., March 21.—The Yankees this afternoon slaughtered the University of Georgia, the score being 10 to 0. There were spots here and there where the game looked good. These happened every time New York came to bat. Before the pitching of Jim Vaughan, Rus Ford, and Bill Upham the collegians never had a show. The three twirlers working for the Georgians were hit hard almost every minute. The regulars of the Yankees piled up such a big score in the first few innings that almost every substitute was used during the remainder of the game.

The fielding of the Yankees was perfect. In this department the youngsters more than upheld their end. Of the three double plays that were made by New York two were started by Otis Johnson and both were finely executed. Kleinow figured in the other. He caught a man trying to go all the way to second on a fielder's choice while the victim of his grounder was being run down. As Kleinow turned to make the throw to second after nailing the first runner he injured his leg. He will be out of commission for several days. The Gothamites clubbed their opposing pitchers until they got tired. Wolter was one of the stars of the afternoon. He hit a home run and a single in three times at bat. He stole second and third bases in succession and scored on a wild pitch on another occasion. His home run drove in two runners.

Southpaw Jim Vaughan was the biggest hit of the afternoon with the populace. He worked three innings and struck out six batsmen. He fanned one in the first, two in the second, and three in the third. Russell Ford allowed but two hits. One of these was a triple, which only fast work on the part of Wolter held it to that denomination.

Manning was the first victim of the season of the old hidden ball trick. It was Chase's fault in this case. He asked to be allowed to have Manning run for him in the fourth inning. Hal did not see the first baseman conceal the ball and when Manning stepped off the bag he was tagged out. The score:

Superbas to Play Memphis.

Special to The New York Times.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 21.—Manager Bill Dahlen brought his Brooklyn National League team here from Hot Springs to-night for a two-game series with Charley Babb's Memphis team at Red Elm Park. There are over thirty in the party, including Mrs. Al Burch and Mrs. Paul Santelle, and Paul Santelle, Jr. While Sentelle pere is swarthy, the scion of the third baseman is flaxen haired and fair, his mother being an American. Doc Scanlon induced Dahlen to leave him behind in Hot Springs with Bergen and Jordan, the medico-twirler complaining that his arm was not right. There is a suspicion that Scanlon has a romance on hand with a St. Louis belle. The baseball tourists arrived half an hour late, owing to delay en route. The weather is fine, and a good game is expected to-morrow.

Ball Player Storke's Funeral.

Special to The New York Times.

AUBURN, N. Y., March 21.—The funeral of "Al" Storke, who last year wore the uniform of the Pittsburg team as a utility infielder, was held this afternoon. The house was packed with mourners from all classes in society, and there were delegations from professional baseball, Amherst College, Harvard Law School, and other institutions. Floral tributes were received from the Cincinnati, Pittsburg, and St. Louis teams and from Wagner, Bresnahan, Garry Hermann, Dreyfuss, and others.

To Boycott Cleveland Club.

CHICAGO, March 21.—The Chicago Federation of Labor yesterday placed a boycott on the Cleveland American baseball team because the ball park at Cleveland was built by non-union labor. Secretary Edward N. Nockels was instructed to communicate with President Charles A. Comiskey of the Chicago American team to the effect that "organized labor in Chicago has the highest regard for Mr. Comiskey and the club, but on account of the 'unfair attitude' of the managers of the Cleveland team a boycott will be placed on the games when the Clevelands play in Chicago."

Fred Daly Quits Yale Nine.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 21.—Fred Daly, the Yale football captain, has stopped training for the baseball nine. He injured his shoulder sliding to bases last week, reopening an old football injury, and to-day decided not to play again. He was a leading candidate for the outfield.

Harvard Ball Player Breaks Leg.

Sullivan Improving Steadily.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 21.—Catcher "Billy" Sullivan of the Chicago Americans, who is suffering from blood poisoning as the result of having stepped on a rusty nail, is improving steadily, but will be confined to his room for another week.

Reds Down Boston Red Sox.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 21.—The Cincinnati Nationals defeated the Boston Americans to-day by a score of 9 to 3.

TEN MILES ADDED TO MOTOR PARKWAY

Road Surface to be Completed by September—Events for Season Planned.

The return of Spring witnesses renewed activity along the Long Island Motor Parkway. New construction from Bethpage Lodge to Lake Ronkonkoma has been going on during the entire Winter. Clearing, grading, and blasting have prepared the way for a road surface which will be thrown open for public use by Sept. 1.

The section completed during 1909, from Great Neck to the Meadow Brook Lodge, is being surfaced with an improved type of tarred or bituminous macadam. This type of road surface has found great favor with motorists and has been officially adopted by the State Highway Department as a standard after prolonged and exhaustive experiments. The engineers of the parkway have watched these experiments in various parts of the country and made tests which show that this method of road building is well suited to the peculiar conditions to be met under motor car traffic.

In constructing this section of about ten miles no less than ten highways were crossed, either above or below grade. Two branches of the Long Island Railroad were crossed by steel and concrete viaducts with spans of about seventy-five feet each. The trolley from Mineola to Hicksville was also crossed by a viaduct of the same type and general dimensions. Two toll lodges were constructed, one near Great Neck, the western terminus, and one north of Mineola on the Roslyn Road. These lodges followed the same general type of architectural design as previously adopted.

An entrance on the Jericho Turnpike, a short distance east of Krug's Hotel, in Mineola, will prove popular with the motorists who rendezvous at this inn. In Garden City, about half a mile east of the Garden City Hotel, there will be an entrance lodge, intended to accommodate the large motoring community—Garden City, Hempstead, Freeport, Rockville Centre, Long Beach, and other near-by towns.

At Ronkonkoma Lake there is to be erected during the present Summer an inn or club. This clubhouse will be erected on an eminence commanding a view of the lake, with many attractive features. The club will be open during the entire year, and will be the lode star for those who enjoy motoring, sailing, scootering, canoeing, fishing, tennis, and other outdoor sports during the various seasons.

Beginning with April 1, the Parkway will be open daily. Prior to that date the eastern and western terminal lodges at Bethpage and Meadow Brook will be open on Saturdays and Sundays.

A season of unusual activity is planned, including the Vanderbilt Cup, the Grand Prize Cup, the international aviation meet, a contest closed to members of the New York Stock Exchange, the challenge endurance contest between teams from the Long Island Automobile Club, and the Crescent Athletic Club, and a series of match races, each affording interest to lovers of speed contests.

From the work in hand and the activities planned, it will be seen that the original plans of W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and his associates, made in 1906, are being carried out in detail.

DOG ATTACKS WESTON.

Special to The New York Times.

TOPEKA, Kan., March 21.—Edward Payson Weston arrived here at 9:10 to-night, just 21 hours after he left Emporia this morning. He was met at the west side of the city by W. R. Eaton, Chief of Police, and eight policemen, who escorted him down Kansas Avenue to Fifth Street to the Commercial Hotel.

Thousands of the townspeople welcomed the veteran walker as he trudged down the avenue. His step was steady and quick as he walked toward the hotel. He made a short talk standing on the steps of the hotel to the large crowd that was following.

"When I go back East I am going to tell the young men who are afflicted with rheumatism that if they will come to Kansas and buy a farm and live on it they will be able to walk 3,000 miles when they are 72 years old," Mr. Weston said.

Weston walked sixty-three miles to-day, the distance from Emporia to Topeka, in eighteen and a half hours, an average of three and a half miles to the hour. He suffered numerous unfortunate mishaps for the first twenty-five miles, being attacked by a dog and falling a number of times, but he finished strong this evening.

The heat to-day affected Weston considerably, so he carried pieces of ice in his hand this afternoon, which he applied to the back of his head frequently. Instead of hot coffee and chocolate he had iced coffee and chocolate. His feet still continue to keep in perfect shape. This was the forty-eighth day he has been out of Los Angeles and the forty-first day of walking.

The walker has walked 1,860 miles. The distance from Los Angeles to Topeka is 1,740 miles, and the walker made a detour of 120 miles to the Grand Canyon in Colorado. His average is 45½ miles a day. To-night he is just ten days ahead of his original schedule.

Mr. Weston retired immediately on arriving here, and will get up at 3:30 A. M. to start toward Kansas City. He expects to walk forty-five miles to-morrow. He will probably spend the night at De Soto.

OXFORD CREW FAVORITES.

No Functions Will Follow Annual Race—Clergy Make Protest.

LONDON, March 21.—The Oxford and Cambridge eights, who will meet in the annual boat race on Wednesday, are putting in the finishing touches at Putney. Both crews were out to-day practicing short bursts against scratch eights. The Oxonians made the better showing, and they are now hot favorites in the contest. Most of the afternoon was occupied in practicing starts. In starting Oxford has had the advantage of the light blues all along.

There has been some protest by the riverside clergy against the date of the race, this having been fixed for Wednesday in Holy Week, but the Presidents of the Oxford and Cambridge boat clubs have declined to change the date, explaining that it was selected after very careful consideration with senior members of the universities and was the most suitable that could be chosen. It has been decided, however, not to hold the usual dinner after the race, or to accept any of the official invitations to places of entertainment, which have been customary.

FORDHAM NINE IN SOUTH.

Bronx Collegians to Play Three Games on Short Easter Trip.

Fordham's baseball team starts South to-day on its annual Easter trip. The first game will be played at Washington with Georgetown to-morrow. Then Capt. Mahoney will take his nine down to Manassas, Va., for a game with Eastern College on Thursday. On Saturday the Maroons will play the Baltimore Eastern League Club at Baltimore.

The team of 1910, though a green outfit, shows great possibilities in all but the pitching department. Here Fordham looks weaker than any Maroon nine of the past five seasons. With only one reliable twirler on the squad, Coach Coffey has a difficult task before him of making a creditable showing.

Capt. Mahoney is still in college, and on his shoulders will fall the balance of the boxwork. The leading candidates for pitcher are Quinn and Barry of the senior class, Kehoe, a sophomore, and Williams, a first-year man. Quinn and Barry have pitched some good games for the second 'Varsity, but lack control. Kehoe throws the speediest ball of the four, but he is erratic.

On the receiving end Fordham will have to rely on "Skip" McCarthy, last year's pony catcher, for the balance of the work. McCarthy, though light for a catcher, has an excellent whip, his throws to second being the feature of the practice games last week. Moreover, he has mastered the fade away slide used by the professionals, and Coach Coffey uses him as a model for the others to follow.

Adrian Schiess at first base is picking up the fast ones in better style than last year. J. McCarthy, the famous end, is fast developing into a clever second baseman. The big fellow is also hitting the ball hard, is an accurate thrower, and a fast man on the bases.

Three good men are in line for the short field position—White, 1910, McCaffrey, 1911, right end on last season's eleven, and Sharkey, 1913, formerly a star short stop and Captain of the Fordham prep. team. Luke Healy, a sophomore, was until placed on the hospital list, a strong candidate for the position.

Eddie Becket, 1912, is easily in the lead among the candidates for third base. Becket is a beautiful thrower. If Becket continues to improve in his stickwork Ernest Schiess's loss will not be so keenly felt.

Trouble is again looming up in the Columbia rowing camp, this time in the form of losing one and possibly two of the veteran oarsmen who were slated for 'Varsity seats again this year. P. Renshaw has had to resign from his position as President of the Rowing Club and also to withdraw from any further practice on the river, owing to certain objections made by Dean Goetze in regard to Renshaw's academic standing. Doubts have also been raised as to the eligibility of F. H. Saunders to take his old seat in the eight. With these two men out of the boat, Columbia's chances to capture a first place at Poughkeepsie this Spring would be seriously crippled.

"Larry" Clapp, at present stroking the 'Varsity eight, was made Acting President of the Rowing Club yesterday in Renshaw's place, and officiated at the informal presentation made by the alumni of the new coaching launch to the club. Mr. Boyeson made the presentation speech, saying that the launch was a decennial gift from the class of 1900, who could think of nothing else that would tend so strongly to foster the right kind of spirit at Columbia as a victory at Poughkeepsie. To accomplish this the class thought a launch was imperatively needed. He added that the gift would not be complete until the crew triumphed on the river. After the presentation the committee made a trip in the launch and expressed their satisfaction in the speed which it showed. The committee consisted of H. H. Boyeson, M. G. Bogue, E. S. Barlow, and R. Pitts. The formal presentation will take place commencement day, June 1, when Dean Van Amringe will make the speech of the day.

Licenses for Trainers and Jockeys.

The following named trainers were granted licenses: J. W. Graver, Anthony Allen, U. J. Hak, M. Philbin, Frank Lightfoot, J. Woods Garth, William Garth, Theodore F. Coles, Lewis Garth, Frank Allen, Thomas Rodrock, and J. M. Murphy.

Licenses were also issued to the following steeplechase jockeys: Edward Hayes, William Jackson, P. Kelleher, James Lynch, Roy Sobel, and E. G. Heider. The applications of James Hannigan and J. W. Dayton were tabled and that of R. P. Ryan was held up for further information.

Nash Turner's Pillard Wins.

ST. CLOUD, France, March 21.—Pillard, owned by Nash Turner, to-day won the Croix du Roi which was run at St. Cloud. In the Prix Patrician Frank Gould's Justinian III. and W. K. Vanderbilt's Prestissimo II. finished second and third respectively.

SPORTING NEWS IN BRIEF.

Tom O'Rourke has arranged another good boxing card for the show of the National Sporting Club to-night. Charley Griffin of Australia has been matched with Max Baker, New England's champion lightweight, for ten rounds. The other ten-rounder will be between Phil Cross and Terry Brooks.

Red McMahon of the Olympic Athletic Club in an endeavor to improve next Monday night's show, has substituted Montana Jack Sullivan for Andy Morris, who was to have boxed Sailor Burke in the main event. Burke has a harder contract on his hands than ever, as Sullivan is a good man, and recently gave Joe Thomas a stiff battle at Boston. The bout in the semi-windup between "Celery Cyclone" and Young Godfrey remains as heretofore announced.

The members of the Fairmont Athletic Club anticipate a repetition of the Hurley-Goodman bout this evening, when Dave Ryan of Brooklyn will oppose young Loughrey of Philadelphia for ten rounds. This fight is expected to be full of action from the tap of the first gong until the end of the bout. There are several other good bouts scheduled, making in all thirty-eight rounds of high-class boxing. Nathan Erlich is down for ten rounds with Jack Creely. Eddie Toy and Kid Gleason go eight rounds, and Charlie Lawrence and Bill Donovan are in the ten-round semi-final.

John J. Hayes, winner of the Olympic Marathon at London, returned to New York last night after a visit to the Pacific Coast. The little athlete says he developed wonderful speed and endurance in the West, and is now ready to run the race of his career. He returned home to get ready for the Marathon Derby to be run at the Polo Grounds April 2. "I expect to win the Derby," said Hayes, "but I want to meet Johanson or any of the other cracks. I will run Johanson over the Marathon route for $1,000 a side, and the Swede cannot accept the challenge too soon."

PAUL SORG'S COACH MAKES RECORD RUN

New Yorker and Party Reach Atlantic City in 14 Hours and 15 Minutes of Actual Driving.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 21.—Paul A. Sorg of New York made a record for road coaching between New York and Atlantic City yesterday and to-day by tooling his coach All Sport between the two cities in 14 hours and 15 minutes actual running time. Accompanied by a party of friends, who are here to attend the annual Atlantic City Horse Show, Mr. Sorg arrived at 2:54 P. M. to-day after making the 74-mile journey from Lakewood in six hours and 54 minutes. Crowds greeted the coach along its course of travel and fully 500 persons were on hand to see the party draw up in front of Young's Hotel, where they will be quartered until after the show.

Sixty-four horses, worked in relays, were used for the trip. Five minutes were allowed for each of the sixteen relay changes.

The party left New York yesterday morning and arrived at Lakewood late yesterday afternoon for the night's stop. The trip was resumed at 8 o'clock this morning, Mr. Sorg, Charles A. Baudouine, and William Grant, manager of the Sorg stables, taking turns in handling the fours.

The horses used on the trip were all purchased by Grant especially for the journey, and will be used later in the season, when Mr. Sorg will tool his coach from the Holland House, New York, to the Larchmont Yacht Club.

No mishaps occurred on the journey. Mr. R. W. Brixey, one of the members of the party, sent his automobile ahead with farriers, but the horses used in the relays, which stretched from six to eleven miles, came through in good shape and needed no attention.

Those who rode in the coach besides the drivers were Dr. J. P. McGowan, H. P. Martin, George L. McHose, R. W. Brixey, David H. Gaines, Edward Griffith, and Morton Smith. The coach and four of the horses used on the trip will be shown in the coming horse show along with the remainder of the Sorg string, which includes some of the finest harness and saddle animals in the country.

Michigan in "Big Eight" Again.

CHICAGO, March 21.—University of Michigan authorities will make application for permission to enter a team in the 1910 conference meet of the "Big Eight," according to statements made to-day at the University of Chicago. It was said that the conference committee would in all probability honor the request. Leaders among the Chicago alumni believe that the changes in Michigan's athletic department will result in a resumption of the school's participation in the conference meet, even though they do not re-enter the conference here. Director Bartelme is known to favor competition with "Big Eight" colleges more than Director Baird did.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 21.—Philip G. Bartelme, director of athletics at the University of Michigan, to-day disclaimed any knowledge of the reports from Chicago to the effect that University of Michigan authorities will make application to enter a team in the 1910 conference of the "Big Eight." Mr. Bartelme positively denied that Michigan is considering any change in its policy.

Athletes Out on South Field.

Pleasant weather has hastened Coach Bernie Wefer's intention to get his Columbia track team out on the cinder path, and yesterday about thirty runners were out on South Field. Some distance runs were tried, but the main attention was directed toward the broad jumping. Harry Babcock will be the strongest man in this event on the Morningside team. Wefers is also working him in at the quarter mile, and he and his brother, T. Babcock, will enter the pole vaulting events. It is hoped that Hans Berna will be eligible for the two mile, and it may be that he will be trained for the mile as well. With Berna will be S. Maurice, H. Anderson, E. F. Ver Planck, in the long distance runs. Counselman is the only man out for the middle distances. The quarter milers will be Babcock, Boorman, and Benson, with Benson and Bender for the sprints. Most of the throwing events will be left to W. F. Roos, a freshman, who has already broken the university records at hammer throwing and shot putting. He is also expected to enter the high jumping events, for which he is now training, together with the Babcocks.

REASONS!

Most American beers are brewed from domestic hops, costing about 15c. to 20c. per pound. In Bohemia they grow the finest hops in the world, called the Saazer Hops, costing to import about 75c. per pound.

IMPERIAL GOLD LABEL BEER is brewed from a blend of the finest Saazer and the best American hops—mostly Saazer. That's one reason why IMPERIAL is so much better than the ordinary domestic beers.

LOZIER

LICENSED UNDER THE SELDEN PATENT

THE LOZIER SELLS AT A HIGHER PRICE Than Any Other Motor Car Built

¶ The average price received for every LOZIER car sold during the past two years was $5,036—THE HIGHEST AVERAGE PRICE OBTAINED FOR ANY MAKE OF CAR BUILT. In other words, the product of the LOZIER factory has commanded a higher price per car than that of any other manufacturer.

¶ The first LOZIER model, built in 1904, sold at $5,000, and the best LOZIER car has since that time never been sold for less.

¶ The LOZIER Motor Car is surely worth the price obtained for it or it would not continue to command its price year after year. Other cars have been sold at LOZIER prices or higher, but only for a limited time—a fictitious list price must give way to the law that inevitably forces values to seek their proper level. In spite of the fact that the LOZIER car commands a higher average price than any other car built, the business of the LOZIER Motor Company, during the past two years, has increased 167%—a greater percentage of increase than shown by any of the seven leading manufacturers producing cars which sell at $3,500 and over.

¶ The value of the LOZIER car has been fixed, and has been proven by this splendid increase in business at these prices. Continuous advertising has not done it, for every one of the seven leading manufacturers referred to has spent vastly more money in advertising in the past two years than has been expended by The Lozier Motor Company. What is the conclusion?—that the LOZIER car continuing in demand at a higher average price than any other motor car must logically be the best car. We hesitate to use this much abused term, but we sincerely believe that the LOZIER is the one car with proofs to warrant the claim being made.

¶ In addition to the above, we propose, in a short series of advertisements, to appear in New York papers, to advance further reasons why the LOZIER, in demand at a higher figure than any other motor car built, is proven LEGITIMATELY HIGH PRICED.

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

Wheat Dull and Irregular—Corn and Oats Weaken—Live Hog Prospects Brighter—Cotton Sluggish.

Wheat was a little irregular, with only a small volume of business. Prices sold up early, influenced by the absence of rains in the Southwest and continuation of pessimistic reports as to the Kansas situation. The reports, however, showed practically nothing new and seemed to lose their influence. After midday about all the gain was lost, but the close was steady at a net advance for the day. The visible supply showed a moderate increase again, and the fact that stocks do not decrease as customarily at this time of year is a factor of a good deal of importance in the situation. As long as the condition in the Southwest continues as it is the market is likely to be very nervous and unsettled. The claim is made that the drought is getting to be of a serious character, and it is a fact that a good rain would undoubtedly make a marked difference in the crop developments. The movement of grain continues liberal and the demand for cash stuff is slow, while the recent developments have shown a weakening position in the cash markets and the May delivery. The visible supply showed an increase of 379,000 bushels. The world's exports up to Saturday night were 9,312,000 bushels, or about 2,000,000 bushels less than the previous week. Cash prices quoted: No. 2 red Winter, $1.25, to arrive, cost, insurance, and freight; No. 2 red spot, nominal, $1.28¼, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern, Duluth, opening, $1.26¼; No. 2 hard Winter, nominal; No. 1 Northern, Manitoba, $1.18¼.

Corn was weak and sold down to new low levels on continued liquidation in the future markets and distinct pressure on the cash. There was a further increase in the visible supply, the gain being 475,000 bushels. The cash position, however, continues the dominating feature, and the difficulty of merchandizing corn, which is reflected in the wide carrying charge from May to July, shows absence of interest in the cash and unwillingness to take grain on speculation, largely owing to apprehension as to the moisture question as warm weather approaches. Cash corn quoted: No. 2, nominal, elevator, export basis; No. 4, 62½c, and steamer, 64c, all elevator, export basis.

Oats were weaker and sold off with corn, declining to new low levels. There was further liquidation in futures, and there has been persistent selling of the future markets, partly in sympathy with corn, partly on the large stocks and lack of spot interest. Cash oats quoted: Natural white, 48½@50½c.; white clipped, 50@52½c.

Provision market was very quiet during the morning, with prices about steady, but with the developments of a little easier live hog market and somewhat larger receipts prices sold off.

COFFEE.

Coffee was very inactive throughout the greater part of the day, and the total volume of business amounted to only 7,250 bags. Prices were easier, closing unchanged to 10 points net lower under scattered liquidation and some European selling. Havre closed ¼ to ½ franc lower, while Hamburg closed unchanged to ½ pfennig decline. The Brazilian markets were unchanged, and receipts at Rio and Santos were 24,000 bags, compared with 12,000 last week and 9,000 last year. Stocks at Rio are 335,000 bags, against 209,000 last year, while Santos has 1,446,000, compared with 290,000 a year ago. The steamship Verdi cleared from Brazil with 18,000 bags, and the steamship Corrientes cleared with 5,000. The visible supply of Brazilian coffee in and afloat for the United States was 3,416,676 bags, against 4,081,691 last year and 2,872,477 two years ago. Warehouse deliveries last week were 117,196 bags, against 107,211 last week and 146,243 last year. Spot coffee dull but steady, 8⅝c for Rio No. 7.

COTTON.

Cotton was dull and heavy all the session, with very little trading developing. The feature of the day was the Census Bureau ginning report, which came out at the opening, and showed a total of 10,363,249 bales of cotton ginned, including linters, against 13,435,131 bales last year. The amount of linters was 315,394 bales, against 346,126 bales last year, making the second largest total on record. The effect of the report was comparatively unimportant. There seemed to be no disposition to sell the market off on the figures, and bulls did not give aggressive support. Part of the hesitation on the part of the traders was evidently due to the continued dry weather in Texas and fear that this would soon become serious enough to have a decided bearing on the entire situation.

The report on ginning made the weight per bale 9.3 pounds lighter than last year. The total expressed in bales of 500 pounds was 10,290,000 bales, against 13,587,000 bales last year. The total certificated stock was reduced to 98,000 bales, making a reduction of 47,000 bales since March 1. This is due to the effort of the bulls to ship cotton out. There was a report that 20,000 bales were coming back from Liverpool for delivery here, and a late private cable stated that 5,000 bales were now on shipboard at Liverpool and were loading for return to New York. Southern spot markets unchanged.

Spot cotton quiet, 10 points decline; middling uplands, 15.05; middling Gulf, 15.30.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, March 21.—Trading in the local market was light again to-day and outside of one or two issues there is no special feature worthy of mention. Hancock was about the only stock to show any particular activity. Early in the day a decline to 21⅞ was recorded, then the stock advanced to 25⅜ on Western buying. Amalgamated fluctuated between 77¾ and 79, and North Butte was in fair demand at around 41. The general market closed quiet but steady.

BUSINESS TROUBLES

DE WITT T. LYON.—De Witt T. Lyon of 39 Cortlandt Street has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $1,307 and no assets.

WILLIAM H. REITZNER.—William H. Reitzner of Mount Vernon, formerly a liquor dealer, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $2,077, and no assets.

EDMUND P. FELSBERG.—Edmund P. Felsberg, a salesman, of 546 West 124th Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $1,150 and no assets. He owes $110 to three doctors.

REIN & GREEN.—Schedules in the assignment of Rein & Green, manufacturers of umbrella handles and walking sticks at 416 West Broadway, show liabilities of $2,231, nominal assets of $2,171, and actual assets of $1,411.

UNION WATCH COMPANY.—The Union Watch Company, mail order business at 47 Maiden Lane, has made a settlement with its creditors at 20 cents on the dollar, cash, and yesterday Judge Hough confirmed the composition. The liabilities were $23,746.

E. ALTER & SON.—Judge Hough yesterday confirmed a composition of E. Alter & Son, pawnbrokers of 309 Third Avenue, with their creditors on application of Lasser Brothers, who said that it was at 25 cents on the dollar, half cash and half notes. The liabilities were $26,033.

LOUIS LEVINSOHN.—Louis Levinsohn, living at 214 East 123d Street, a clerk, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $6,734 and assets of $38, consisting of cash in bank, $28, and a lot at Riverhead, L. I., $10. The debts are to three creditors for deficiency judgment, bond and mortgage, and a note.

JAMES M. CARPLES.—James M. Carples of 971 Trinity Avenue, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $7,526, and no assets. Among the creditors are Henry Holland, $2,760; Joseph A. Bemisch, $1,700, and Henry Holland, $1,579, for loans. The debts were mostly contracted in 1897.

FRED G. COEN.—Fred G. Coen, a department manager at Tenth Street and Broadway, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $2,813, and nominal assets, consisting of twelve shares of common stock and fifteen shares of preferred stock of the A. A. Weeks-Hoskins Company, pledged. He has only two creditors, the Horrocks Desk Company of Herkimer, N. Y., $2,503, which has obtained judgment against him, and W. H. Hoskins Company, Philadelphia, $310.

A. H. JACOBY COMPANY.—Schedules in the assignment of the A. H. Jacoby Company, railroad contractor, 68 Broad Street and Grand Gorge, N. Y., show liabilities of $85,580 nominal assets of $95,556, and actual assets of $26,700. The actual assets are subject to a chattel mortgage of $9,000, a disputed lien of $9,000, and a contested levy of $7,887. The difference between the nominal and actual assets is due to uncollectible accounts of $43,433 and depreciation of value of plant and materials.

SAMUEL FRACKMAN.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Samuel Frackman, manufacturing jeweler and diamond dealer, 51 Maiden Lane, by Samuel Beumberg, attorney for these creditors: Nebenzahl & Monk, $4,756; Reuben Samuels, $1,655, and Henry B. Freeman, $986. It was alleged that he is insolvent, made preferential payments of $5,000, and transferred merchandise and accounts of $5,000. Harry Osterman, representing some of the creditors, said that the liabilities are $100,000 and the nominal assets about $50,000.

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF LIQUIDATION, CITY DEBT, Room 206 City Hall Annex.
New Orleans, March 11, 1910.

The Board of Liquidation, City Debt, acting under authority of Act No. 19 of the General Assembly of the State of Louisiana for the session of 1906 and Act No. 116 of said General Assembly for the session of 1908, both of which said acts have been ratified by Constitutional Amendments and have become part of the Constitution of the State of Louisiana, will receive sealed proposals at its office in the City of New Orleans, Louisiana, up to twelve o'clock noon on Tuesday, April 12th, 1910, for the purchase of seven million dollars in face value of the new public improvement bonds of the City of New Orleans, authorized by and to be issued under the provisions of the acts aforementioned and the Constitutional Amendments ratifying same.

Said bonds are of the denomination of one thousand dollars each, and bear interest at the rate of four per cent. (4%) per annum, evidenced by interest coupons attached, payable semi-annually on the first days of January and July of each year respectively. They are by law exempt from taxation, State, parish and municipal.

Said bonds are payable January 1st, 1943, and are subject to call at the option of the City of New Orleans after January 1st, 1928, and will be issued under and subject to the acts aforementioned, which are referred to and made part hereof for greater certainty and particularity. Said proposals shall be received under and subject to the following conditions, to wit:

1st. No sale shall be made of any of the said bonds unless the aggregate of the bid or bids shall be for the full amount of said bonds, to wit, $7,000,000 in face value.

2d. Said bonds will be adjudicated to the highest bidder or bidders, provided that said bonds or any part thereof, shall not be adjudicated for less than par and accrued interest, less a commission not to exceed six per centum on the principal thereof.

3d. All matured interest coupons on said bonds shall be cut from said bonds and cancelled, and the successful bidder or bidders shall pay the interest which may have accrued on said bonds up to the date of delivery.

4th. Said bonds shall be paid for by the successful bidder or bidders in cash as fast as they can be signed and delivered, said deliveries to be made on twenty-four hours' notice.

All bonds to be delivered within a period not to exceed ninety days from date of final acceptance of bid.

5th. No bid will be received or considered unless accompanied by a certified check on some chartered bank in the City of New Orleans for three per cent. of the amount of each bid, the check or checks of the successful bidder or bidders shall be cashed and the proceeds retained by the Board of Liquidation as a guarantee that the said bidder or bidders will comply with his or their bids, and said proceeds shall be applied to the payment of the bonds last delivered to said bidder or bidders respectively. In case of neglect or refusal to comply with any bid the proceeds of said bidder's check shall be forfeited to the Sewerage and Water Board.

6th. The Board of Liquidation, City Debt, reserves the right to reject any and all bids. Mark all bids "Proposals for purchase of new public improvement bonds."

Further particulars and information will be furnished upon application to T. Wolfe, Jr., Secretary Board of Liquidation, City Debt, Room 206 City Hall Annex, New Orleans, La.

MARKET MARKING TIME

City Bond Offering Uncertainties Pretext for Inactivity—Foreign Bidding May Affect Exchange Market.

Shortly after the opening of business yesterday morning the stock market came to the conclusion that it might be well for the time being to assume its favorite rôle of awaiting something. It therefore awaited a decision from the United States Supreme Court in the Tobacco case until announcement was made from Washington that the court had adjourned without handing down a decision. A little spurt of activity followed the publication of this news, but it soon occurred to some one that later in the day bids were to be opened for the city bond offering, and this proved altogether too favorable an opportunity for another waiting spell to be neglected. The bids were opened, but up to the end of business they were coming out over the news tickers piecemeal, affording no real opportunity for a decision as to the success of the offering, so the market closed still waiting. As a rule prices were strong, in spite of the narrowness of the trading and the complete lack of incentive for activity in the day's developments of financial character. Inasmuch as the Supreme Court does not come together again until April 4, Wall Street has two weeks within which to pay some attention to other matters than the anti-trust suit. One subject which it will doubtless consider seriously in the interval is the labor situation. In Philadelphia the strike seems to be wearing itself out, and encouraging news comes from the West where representatives of the soft coal companies and the miners appear to be rapidly approaching an agreement on the questions in dispute. With the railroads engaged in conferences with employes the questions at issue are still unsettled, and a somewhat threatening aspect is presented by the building trades troubles in this city. In the absence of a complete compilation of yesterday's bids on new city bonds at the close of business only inferences could be drawn, but it appeared fairly certain that the average price obtained was considerably under that which had been expected, although to offset this subscriptions were much heavier than had been looked for, and the foreign participation was much greater. Another item of interest in the day's news budget was the Census Bureau's report on cotton, which almost exactly equaled the Government's estimate made months ago. The crop is placed at 10,363,000 bales, and the loss of over 3,000,000 bales as compared with the outturn of the previous year has been severely felt in our foreign trade.

If the foreign participation in the bidding for city bonds is successful in any marked degree it has been so unexpectedly substantial that it must play a part in the foreign exchange situation. Demand sterling was somewhat higher yesterday, and in the money market rates were still quoted at last week's levels, fixed by bankers subsequent to the advance in the English Bank rate. The demand was a trifle lighter. The ease in call money continues, one of the factors being, of course, the perplexities of the moment regarding the outlook.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Monday.

It was a dead-locked market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange most of the day. Trading was professional, and tended to dullness. Covering of shorts imparted relative firmness to prices, compared with quotations on the New York Stock Exchange. Sales aggregated 69,930 shares, with the list for the day including forty-three different stocks.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

PRICE DROPS TO 101⅝

When Low Bidding Figures Are Made Public Traders Sell Over One Million and a Quarter Contracts.

The feature of the Curb market yesterday was the activity in "when issued" contracts for the city's 4¼ per cent. bonds when some of the figures at the opening of bids became public. Transactions of over $1,250,000 were reported at prices ranging between 101 3-16 and 101⅝, the close being at 101⅝. The mining list was also fairly active, with a burst of trading in some of the Cobalt issues, Kerr Lake reporting transactions of 3,000 and Nipissing of 1,000, the prices ranging only ¼ in each issue, and both closed even with opening levels. Among the coppers, Miami gained ½ on the day's trading, Nevada Consolidated and Ray Central each ⅛, and Ray Consolidated, on trading of 7,500 shares, dropped from 3 15-16 to 3¼.

The transactions reported yesterday in the outside market, with opening, high, low, and last prices, were as follows:

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—Local street railway stocks made a rather sharp recovery at the opening of the stock market to-day. The cost of the strike is something that will leave a bad taste in the mouths of the stockholders of the Rapid Transit Company for many a day. The balance of the local list was dull, but firm. There was investment buying of United Gas Improvement. Commission houses reported a scarcity of business.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Atchison Bond Issue, Maybe.

The Atchison, Topeka & Sante Fé was reported yesterday to have under consideration a further issue of convertible bonds to the extent of $25,000,000 or more. No immediate issue, it was learned yesterday, is proposed, but it was not denied that the company is looking to future requirements of the system. It was pointed out, however, that under the lately enacted Kansas law for the regulation of railroad security issues the Atchison would first have to obtain permission from the State Railroad Commission before any offer of bonds to its stockholders or any sale of bonds to bankers can be made.

Chesapeake Paid Well for Hocking.

In quarters in the financial district, where it was understood yesterday that the price at which Hocking Valley stock was sold to the Chesapeake & Ohio was 120, some surprise was caused by the further advance in Hocking Valley to a price much above that figure. It closed yesterday at 133, an advance of 3 points for the day. The explanation of this seeming discrepancy lies probably in the fact that the Eastern lines which sold their Hocking Valley holdings to the Chesapeake & Ohio agreed to take cost and interest. To the price of 120, therefore, would have to be added the cost to the other roads of having carried the stock since 1903, when control of the Hocking Valley was purchased by five other lines. During the last seven years Hocking Valley has paid an average dividend on its par value of a little over 3 per cent., but this, of course, must have been considerably less than the cost of carrying the stock.

Chesapeake & Ohio Rights.

The proposed new convertible bond issue of the Chesapeake & Ohio, which the stockholders will have the right to subscribe to at 93½ to the extent of 50 per cent. of their stock holdings, sold on the Curb yesterday "when issued" at from 95 to 96⅝, with the last sale at 96¼. At these figures there was shown a considerable profit in subscribing to the new bonds, and the right to subscribe to the issue sold at from ⅝ to 1½. The success of the issue has been assured by the underwriting of the bonds by J. P. Morgan & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and the National City Bank.

Market Waited for Tobacco Decision.

While the market dawdled along during the early hours, traders talked of the prospects of getting to-day the long-awaited decision in the American Tobacco case. At about the time when word came from Washington that the court had adjourned without rendering the decision, there was nothing but the briefest spurt of activity to show what relief may have been felt over the delay of possible action until the next session on April 4.

⁂

Consolidated Mining Leaving Curb.

The Standard Consolidated Mining Company has made application for transfer from the unlisted department to the regular list. It has been seldom heard from on the floor in recent years, and for all the business it represents would hardly be missed from the Exchange. It is one of the old guard among the few Stock Exchange mining stocks, dating from the late seventies. The unlisted department is now practically depleted of all the issues which are expected to go over to the Exchange, although American Linseed and several of those which have made application have not yet been admitted to the regular department.

Tree Cutting More Exciting than Ticker.

Perhaps it was the alchemy of Spring yesterday, but more likely the sizable crowd, which idled through the lunch hour yesterday watching the tree-surgeons nimbly at work in the tall sycamore in Trinity Church Yard. The manner of the noonday streams between desks and lunch rooms is usually a fair barometer not only of the weather outside, but of the pressure in the business atmosphere. It was a sluggish day in the brokers' offices, as the tape showed, and for two hours around noon Broadway at Pine Street showed a dissolving crowd of upturned faces that would have done credit to a small fire. The tree surgeons have been performing off and on all Winter, but yesterday's sycamore was the most delicate job they have tackled. None of the topmost branches were strong enough to safely carry even the slender young men who are using saws and pruning hooks on sickly limbs, and the work highest up was done with the aid of life-lines and a rig of judiciously adjusted stays, which gave the onlookers successive thrills.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Frederick Gerhard, with William P. Bonbright & Co., has been appointed assistant secretary of the Guanajuato Power and Electric Company.

The Directors of the corporation of United Cigar Stores at a meeting held yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share regular and 50 cents extra, payable April 15 next. The books close April 1.

The Directors of the Rio Plata Mining Company have declared a 2 per cent. quarterly dividend as against 1½ per cent. on Dec. 14, 1909. It is announced that the balance of the indebtedness on the property, amounting to $100,013.07, has been paid off out of earnings.

Moffat & White offer New York City new 4¼ per cent. bonds, due 1960, redeemable on or after March 1, 1930. The bankers also offer the first mortgage gold 4 per cent. bonds of the Jamestown, Franklin & Clearfield Railroad Company, due 1959, guaranteed by the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway Company, tax exempt in Pennsylvania.

Application has been made to the New York Stock Exchange to list $18,500,000 first mortgage 4 per cent. bonds, due 1959, of the Chicago Great Western; $25,000,000 first and general mortgage 4½ per cent. bonds, due 1939, of the New York Telephone Company; $2,000,000 capital stock of the Standard Consolidated Mining Company, and $1,850,000 additional capital stock of the Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting and Power Company.

METAL MARKET REPORTS.

On the Metal Exchange yesterday a slightly easier tendency was shown in all commodities. Copper was a shade off in both the bid and asked prices. Tin declined ¼. Spelter was down 10 points, and lead 5 points.

On the Metal Exchange in London yesterday, copper, for both spot and future deliveries, at the close showed a recession of 2s 6d from the initial prices of the day, but remained unchanged from the final figures of Friday for both. The market finished easy, closing prices ruling at: Spot, £58 17s 6d; futures, £60. Pig tin ended weak, with spot deliveries down 12s 6d, to £144 15s, and future deliveries off 10s, to £147. Spelter was steady and unchanged, at £23. Spanish pig lead was steady at a gain of 1s 3d, to £13 1s 3d. Cleveland warrants were quoted at 51s 10½d.

The closing bid and asked prices for copper and other metals for spot delivery on the New York Metal Exchange yesterday compare as follows with those of Friday:

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 21.—The plant of the National Steel Foundry Company was sold by the receivers to the Safety Insulator Wire and Cable Company of New York this afternoon for $65,000. The wire company was one of the largest creditors.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Approach of Easter Holidays Checks Business in London.

LONDON, March 21.—There was a good demand for money to-day, but the supply was restricted. Discount rates were firmer on prospects of dearer money. The Bank of England secured the bulk of the $2,500,000 South African gold available.

On the Stock Exchange dearer money and the approach of the Easter holidays checked business, while profit taking caused declines in various directions. Rubber shares were firm and active, and consols were steady on the good response to the Exchequer bond issue. The coal trade trouble affected home rails.

American securities opened a fraction higher, but political reports and the poor New York bank statement caused realizing, under which the market sagged. New York, however, sent good support in the afternoon, and prices improved, with Norfolk & Western shares the feature. The market closed steady.

Money, 2½@3 per cent. Rate of discount in the open market, for short bills, 3⅝ per cent.; for three months' bills, 3⅝ per cent.

The Western Maryland Railway Company.

Baltimore, Md., March 18, 1910.

To the Stockholders of
The Western Maryland Railway Company:

The Company has entered into an agreement with The Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad Company for the purpose of establishing close traffic relations between the two Companies, and, in order that the agreement may become effective, it is necessary that The Western Maryland Railway Company cause a line of railroad to be constructed and completed from a junction with its existing line at or near Cumberland, Maryland, to a point of connection with the line of The Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad Company at Connellsville, Pennsylvania, a distance of about eighty-five miles. It is believed by the management that the traffic alliance resulting from the construction of this line of railroad will be of great benefit to the Company, and that the added revenues derived therefrom will fully warrant its construction.

An Act of the Legislature of Maryland, recently passed, authorizes the Company to provide for extensions of its railroad connections and facilities in the State of Maryland and in adjoining States, by aiding the construction of connecting or continuous lines of railroad. Under the terms of this Act the Company is authorized to issue and sell from time to time, for the above-mentioned purposes, any part of its authorized and unissued capital stock at its fair market value as determined by its Board of Directors, and the Act provides that any stock so sold shall for all purposes of law be deemed full-paid and non-assessable. The Act requires that the issue and sale of said stock shall be approved by affirmative vote of the holders of a majority in amount of the stock of the Company, outstanding and entitled to vote, and that a primary pro rata right to subscribe for and purchase said stock, at the price determined by the Board of Directors, shall be given to all of the Stockholders of the Company.

There now remains unissued common capital stock of the Company to an amount exceeding $25,469,670, and estimates and reports, prepared for the Company, indicate that it will be necessary to raise about $12,700,000 to provide for the extension of the Company's railroad connections and facilities herein mentioned or referred to.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Company held on March 18, 1910, the following action was authorized, subject to the approval of the Stockholders of the Company:

1. The aid by this Company of the construction of connecting and continuous lines of railroad extending from a point about two miles west of Cumberland, Maryland, to a point of connection with The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad at Connellsville, Pennsylvania, such aid to be furnished by the subscription to or purchase of all of the stock or bonds, or both, of Companies authorized to construct said lines of railroad.

2. The issue and sale of $25,469,670, par value, of the authorized and unissued common capital stock of the Company at the price of $50 per share, which was determined to be the fair market value of said stock.

3. The offer to all Stockholders of the Company (preferred and common) of the primary pro rata right of subscription and purchase in respect to said $25,469,670, par value, of common capital stock at the price of $50 per share, upon the terms set forth in the accompanying notice of meeting.

4. The execution by this Company of an underwriting agreement for the underwriting by a syndicate to be formed by Blair & Co. of said $25,469,670 of common capital stock, and the purchase by said syndicate of so much thereof as shall not be subscribed for and purchased by the stockholders of the Company, and the guaranty of agreed compensation to said syndicate and to the Managers thereof.

5. The use of the moneys realized from the sale of said $25,469,670 of common capital stock for the primary purpose of aiding the construction of the connecting and continuous lines of railroad above mentioned, and the use of any balance found to remain for the construction of other connecting and continuous lines of railroad as determined and approved by the Board of Directors of the Company.

A special meeting of the Stockholders of the Company has been called to be held at the office of the Company at Baltimore, Maryland, on March 31, 1910, at 10 o'clock A. M., and formal notice of such meeting accompanies this circular.

Subject to the approval by vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding stock of the Company at said meeting, every holder of stock, whether common or preferred, of record at the closing of the transfer books at the close of business on March 30, 1910, is hereby offered the privilege to subscribe for and purchase, at the price of Fifty Dollars ($50) per share, an amount of the authorized and heretofore unissued common capital stock of the Company equivalent to seventy-five per cent., (75%) of the amount of stock, either common or preferred, standing of record in his name as aforesaid.

All subscriptions must be made upon or in the terms of forms of subscription agreements prescribed by the Company. Forms of subscription agreements and of assignment of subscription rights will shortly be mailed to stockholders of the Company, and additional copies thereof may be obtained at the office of the Secretary of the Company, No. 120 Broadway, New York City, and at the office of Blair & Co., No. 24 Broad Street, New York City.

Subscriptions must be made by the execution of the subscription agreement and the surrender thereof at the office of Blair & Co., before 5 o'clock P. M., April 5, 1910 (at which time the right to subscribe will terminate), and the first instalment of the subscription price must be paid at the time of making the subscription.

Upon payment of the first instalment of the subscription price, a subscription receipt will be issued on behalf of the Company by Blair & Co., which receipt must be presented at the time of paying subsequent instalments of the subscription price, for the purpose of having such payments noted thereon.

The subscription price for each share of common stock (of the par value of $100) is Fifty Dollars ($50), and is payable in five equal instalments, as follows:

Twenty per cent., or Ten Dollars ($10) per share, on or before April 5, 1910;
Twenty per cent., or Ten Dollars ($10) per share, with interest at the rate of three per cent. (3%) per annum from April 5, 1910, on or before October 1, 1910;
Twenty per cent., or Ten Dollars ($10) per share, with interest at the rate of three per cent. (3%) per annum from April 5, 1910, on or before April 1, 1911;
Twenty per cent., or Ten Dollars ($10) per share, with interest at the rate of three per cent. (3%) per annum from April 5, 1910, on or before October 1, 1911;
Twenty per cent., or Ten Dollars ($10) per share, with interest at the rate of three per cent. (3%) per annum from April 5, 1910, on or before April 1, 1912.

All payments must be made in cash or New York funds at the office of Blair & Co., No. 24 Broad Street, New York City.

The holders of subscription receipts have the right to anticipate any and all deferred instalments or payments, and will receive credit for their proportion of all dividends which shall have been declared and be payable upon the common stock of the Company.

Certificates representing all stock subscribed for and purchased, upon payment of the first instalment of the purchase price, will be issued to The Equitable Trust Company of New York, as Trustee, its nominee or successor, to be held pending payment or default in payment therefor. As long as a subscriber shall not be in default under his subscription agreement, he will, at proper times, be entitled to receive proxies to vote the stock purchased by him. In case of such default, such stock may be sold for his account, with or without notice, at public or private sale.

No certificates for fractional shares of stock will be issued in exchange for subscription receipts, but separate receipts will be issued for fractional shares, and full-paid receipts representing fractional shares in amounts of one hundred dollars ($100), or multiples thereof may be exchanged for stock certificates representing full shares of stock. Arrangements have also been made with Blair & Co. to purchase subscription receipts representing fractional shares at any time prior to July 1, 1910, paying therefor in cash the amount paid thereon by the Subscriber as evidenced thereby.

By order of the Board of Directors.

BENJAMIN F. BUSH, President.

Northern Indiana Railway Company.

The undersigned individual Trustee mentioned in the indenture made by the Northern Indiana Railway Company to the United States Mortgage & Trust Company and George M. Cumming, as Trustees, dated January 1, 1906, pursuant to the provisions of said indenture, does hereby give notice of his resignation from the trusts created by said indenture.

GEORGE M. CUMMING.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Twenty-first Street Parcel Bought by Henry Corn—Sold Three Times Since Jan. 1—Business Invasion on 57th Street—Bronx and Suburban Sales.

That the loft building boom is still at its height with no signs of waning, and that desirable parcels are in great demand even at advanced figures, was shown conclusively yesterday in the sale of a plot of three lots in East Twenty-first Street. This property has changed owners three times since the first of the year, each successive owner taking a handsome profit.

The parcel, which is located at 48, 50, and 52 East Twenty-first Street and 49 East Twentieth Street, being 75 by 92 on Twenty-first Street with an outlet 25 by 92 on Twentieth Street, was sold by I. Randolph Jacobs to the Roscorn Realty Company, of which Henry Corn is President. This plot was recently purchased by the sellers from the Countess Zborowski and the Huntington estates.

Mr. Corn will improve the plot with a twelve-story and loft building similar to the structure which has recently been completed on West Twenty-first Street and has since sold to the American Real Estate Company. The new building will be one of the few in the Fourth Avenue loft section adaptable for manufacturing purposes. Heil & Stern negotiated the last two sales of the property. The operation involves about $750,000.

Valuable 92d Street Plot Resold.

The resale of a valuable plot in the upper Broadway apartment house section, where large parcels are at a premium, was announced yesterday by the Tomahawk Realty Company, of which Robert M. Silverman is President. The property, which is vacant, has a frontage of 57.8 by 108 by irregular on the south side of Ninety-second Street, 125 feet east of Broadway. It adjoins the St. James Court apartments.

Abraham Weinstein, the buyer, intends to break ground immediately for the erection of an eight-story elevator apartment. The block to the north, bounded by Broadway and Amsterdam Avenue, Ninety-second and Ninety-third Streets, is owned by the Astors. N. Wilson negotiated the sale.

Business Invasion on 57th Street.

Alvan W. Perry has purchased for a client 19 East Fifty-seventh Street, a four-story dwelling on lot 23 by 100.5, between Fifth and Madison Avenues. The house will be extensively altered, and a ground store installed. The upper floors will be laid out in apartments, suitable for physicians.

Mr. Perry has made similar alterations to other houses in East Fifty-seventh Street, and recently remodelled 167 West Seventy-second Street along the same lines.

Buys Tenth Av. Corner for Factory.

Horace S. Ely & Co. have sold for Charles De Rham 239 to 243 Tenth Avenue, northwest corner of Twenty-fourth Street, a five-story factory building, on plot 78.11 by 70, to George Fink Spencer, doing business under the firm name of J. P. Fink, manufacturing reflectors for gaslight fixtures. Mr. Spencer will remodel the building, and intends to occupy the corner for showrooms.

The Phillips estate has sold 267 Seventh Avenue, a four-story tenement, on lot 19 by 75. The buyer is understood to be Lina Ettlinger, who owns the adjoining northeast corner of Twenty-fifth Street.

Market for Harlem Tenements.

Mooyer & Marston have sold for the estate of Louis Wilkins to a client 78 East 115th Street, a five-story double tenement, on lot 25 by 100.10.

Edward N. Crosby & Co. have sold for James Dailey 72 East 119th Street, a five-story apartment house, size 25 by 100. The seller recently bought the same through the above brokers.

Ennis & Sinnott have resold to a client of the Henry M. Weill Company, 204 St. Nicholas Avenue, a five-story flat, on lot 29.4 by 103.7 by irregular, between 120th and 121st Streets. The sellers recently bought the house from Julia Wray.

May Sell Holyrood Church.

Negotiations are pending for the sale of Holyrood Church and its immediate property at the southwest corner of Broadway and 181st Street. The plot has a frontage on Broadway of 133.3 feet and 243.6 feet on 181st Street. The church has long been famous as one of the most attractive Episcopal houses of worship in the city. Alfred L. Kehoe, one of the Trustees, admitted that several offers from prospective builders had been made for the property, but nothing definite has yet been done. A year ago the church bought a plot of seven lots from the Fort Washington syndicate at the corner of Fort Washington Avenue and 179th Street, and if the present property is sold a new church will probably be erected on that spot.

Bronx Sales.

Andrew Hally has sold for Martin Lippe the two-family house on plot 30 by 260 on the north side of Westchester Avenue, east of Pugley Avenue, Unionport.

Clement H. Smith has sold for John W. Van Dermark the three-story dwelling erected on lot 25 by 100, situated on the south side of Tremont Avenue, 64 feet east of Arthur Avenue, for $15,000.

The Perry Avenue Construction Company has sold to a Mr. Baetz another one of the five two-family brick houses, just completed on Perry Avenue, near Woodlawn Road.

M. May has bought the five-story new law house 884 Southern Boulevard, on plot 34 by 100.

A. Friedberg has sold for a client the dwelling 1,685 Weeks Avenue, corner of 173d Street, on plot 30 by 95.

John Winton has sold for Matthew Marshall the lot, 25 by 126, on the west side of Hall Place, 100 feet south of 167th Street. He has also sold for a client the lot, 25 by 86, on the east side of Washington Avenue, 50 feet north of 165th Street.

Sales in Brooklyn.

David Porter has sold in Brooklyn the following houses: 136 Henry Street, near Pierrepont Street, a three-story brick and stone dwelling, on a plot 22 by 92.6; a two-and-one-half-story frame house and lot on Seventy-fourth Street, 100 feet west of Tenth Avenue, 120 by 100; 324 Twenty-first Street, a four-story single brick flat, 25 by 100, and 16 Luqer Street, a two-story frame dwelling.

Suburban Sales.

L. N. Nicholson & Co. have sold for Mr. Thomas Kavanaugh 451 Stuyvesant Avenue, Rutherford, N. J., a large ten-room house, on plot 100 by 300, for $6,500, to Frederick Henry Gorham; also for John H. Burke to Charles Guttenkunst, a six-room house, on plot 45 by 100, for $3,400, to Michael Terry a six-room house, on plot 45 by 100, for $3,400, and for the same party, sold to Charles Milot, plot 25 by 150, for $500.

Mrs. Abby L. Meeker has bought from Wainwright Brothers one and one-half acres at Rye, on Highland Road, adjoining the Apawamis Golf Club links. She is having plans prepared for a handsome residence on the property.

In addition to his large purchases in Westchester and Putnam Counties, reported last week, Daniel B. Freedman has also acquired two other tracts of 190 and 120 acres, respectively, in North Salem township.

A plot of eight acres at Bridgehampton, L. I., has been purchased by D. F. Osborne of Southampton to add to the twenty acres that he is developing for choice cottage sites. The entire tract is to be highly improved and divided into forty building plots. Cottages costing about $2,000 each will be erected. Two houses have already been placed in the new section, and other building will proceed as soon as the grounds have been improved.

Recent Buyers.

Barbee & Fielding are the buyers of the interior lot at Riverside Drive and 169th Street, 125 by 108. The property was purchased for investment and will not be improved. Daniel H. Renton & Son were the brokers.

Remodel 50th Street Dwelling.

Plans have been filed for remodeling the four-story dwelling at 30 West Fiftieth Street and enlarging it with a two-story extension, the improvements being made for Charles H. Peck, owner, from drawings by Charles A. Luckhurst, architect.

City Officials to Address Taxpayers.

A mass meeting of the Greater New York Taxpayers' Association will be held at the Stuyvesant Casino, 142 Second Avenue, to-morrow night. Among the guests of the association and who have been invited to speak on various municipal topics will be Tenement House Commissioner John J. Murphy, Deputy Tenement House Commissioner William H. Abbott, Jr., Commissioner of Water Supply Henry S. Thompson, Corporation Counsel Archibald R. Watson, Water Register Clair Foster, and Justices Leon Sanders, Leonard A. Snitkin, Benjamin Hoffman, John Hoyer, and Wauhope Lynn.

Receivers of Rents Appointed.

Justice Newburger of the Supreme Court has appointed Jacob Katz receiver of the rents of 59 East 132d Street, a tenement, pending a suit brought by Adelaide Collins against Jacob Siegel and others to foreclose a mortgage of $6,000.

Peter J. Everett has been appointed receiver of the rents of 74 Greenwich Street, a five-story mercantile and loft building, pending a suit brought by Josephine MacMillen against Thomas Rahaim and others to foreclose a mortgage of $8,000.

John V. Coggey has been appointed receiver of the rents of 214 to 220 East 107th Street pending proceedings to foreclose a second mortgage of $14,000.

Commissioner Bassett to Address Brooklynites.

Public Service Commissioner Edward M. Bassett will address the members of the Brooklyn Heights Association this afternoon in Historical Hall, Pierrepont and Clinton Streets. He will speak chiefly upon the plans to improve the appearance of the Brooklyn Bridge approach at the Brooklyn end. Questions of improved transit facilities and the extension of the Subway from Borough Hall through Fulton and Pineapple Streets to the East River will also be discussed. The Executive Committee of the association will present its report on the result of the conferences which have been held with the Public Service Commissioners on the subway project.

Thompson-Starrett Co. Elect President.

At its regular meeting held yesterday the Board of Directors of the Thompson-Starrett Company, after declaring a semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent. on the preferred stock and ratifying the execution of several new building contracts in different parts of the country, elected Louis J. Horowitz, formerly Vice President and General Manager, to succeed Albert B. Boardman, who resigns the Presidency to become Chairman of the Board of Directors. During the past two years the Thompson-Starrett Company has secured more than $35,000,000 worth of contracts, and is at present engaged on fifty building operations in more than twenty cities. In acknowledgment of Mr. Boardman's services to the company his fellow-Directors made yesterday's meeting the occasion for presenting him with a loving cup.

Notes.

Robert E. Dowling, President of the City Investing Company, will address the real estate class of the West Side Young Men's Christian Association, 318 West Fifty-seventh Street, this evening. His subject will be "Real Estate Corporations."

The Harlem Property Owners' Association will hold a meeting Thursday evening at its rooms in the Twelfth Ward Bank Building, 147 East 125th Street. Members of the Law and Legislative Committee will report on the bills pending at present in the Legislature, and the bill introduced in the Legislature abolishing personal taxes will come up for discussion.

Oscar Stiner has leased to Hanan & Sons the ground floor and basement of the Stiner Building, Broadway, corner of Thirty-first Street, for twenty-one years at an aggregate rental of about a million and a half dollars. Clark T. Chambers was the broker.

Experience Counts.

OUR years of successful experience in selling face brick of quality has developed our business so that we distribute more face brick than any other dealer in the world.

Quality, durability, richness in coloring, mean much to the success of building. Exteriors attract or detract as much as interiors.

When your architect specifies our brick, you can depend upon it that he has your interest in mind. Also Bath Portland Cement. No delays in deliveries.

Spring for This

SPRING is in the air, and the best spring air is in ROSLYN ESTATES.

It wafts through the grand old trees, now waking up in this high, rolling parkland in the heart of the loftiest hills of Long Island, making the grassland green and starting with its breath of the nearby sea the wealth of bloom that makes ROSLYN ESTATES as near to Paradise as it is to New York, and that's very close.

Get living in ROSLYN ESTATES and see Mother Earth come to life. It's delightful there the year round, but it's Arcadia in the Spring.

There is a home there that will fascinate you. It is house of gables, wide porches, big chimneys, on a knoll with superb views, shaded yet open to every breeze—part of a lovely picture, and just as comfortable within as it is attractive without. It is moderate in size and price, big in opportunity if you take it now.

KELLY, WILLIAM H.—The people of the State of New York, by the grace of God free and independent, to Christopher A. Buckley, Sr., Charles F. Murphy, Frank Kelly, Joseph P. Kelly, Michael Kelly, Annie K. Nolan, Mary Kelly, Frank Kelly, Thomas Kelly, Rose Kelly Burke, Mary Kelly, Margaret Kelly, Elizabeth Kelly, Jennie Kelly, Frank Kelly, Daniel Gaffney, Lawrence Gaffney, Mary J. Gaffney, Terence Gannon, and to the heirs and next of kin of WILLIAM H. KELLY, whose names and places of residence are unknown and cannot with diligent inquiry be ascertained and if any of them have died since the testator, to their heirs and next of kin, executors, administrators, husbands, wives, devisees, legatees, assigns and legal representatives whose names and places of residence are also unknown and cannot with diligent inquiry be ascertained, the heirs and next of kin of William H. Kelly, deceased, send greeting:

Whereas, John G. O'Keefe and John G. H. Meyers, of the City of New York, have lately applied to the Surrogate's Court of our County of New York, to have a certain instrument in writing relating to both real and personal property, duly proved as the last Will and Testament of William H. Kelly, late of the County of New York, deceased, therefore, you and each of you are cited to appear before the Surrogate of our County of New York, at his office in the County of New York, on the Sixth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and ten, at half past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to attend the probate of the said last Will and Testament.

And such of you as are hereby cited, as are under the age of twenty-one years, are required to appear by your guardian, if you have one, or if you have none, to appear and apply for one to be appointed, or in the event of your neglect or failure to do so, a guardian will be appointed by the Surrogate to represent and act for you in the proceeding.

In testimony whereof, we have caused the Seal of the Surrogate's Court of the [L. S.] said County of New York to be hereunto affixed. Witness Hon. Abner C. Thomas, a Surrogate of our said County of New York, at said County, the 17th day of March in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and ten.

DANIEL J. DOWDNEY,
Clerk of the Surrogate's Court.

REFEREES' NOTICES.

NEW YORK SUPREME COURT, NEW YORK County.—JULIEN T. DAVIES, Plaintiff, against WILLIAM G. DAVIES and JULIEN T. DAVIES, as surviving trustees under the last will and testament of Henry E. Davies, deceased, and others, defendants.

In pursuance of an interlocutory judgment for the partition of real property by the sale thereof, made in the above-entitled action, bearing date the 11th day of March, 1910, and duly entered and filed in the office of the Clerk of the County of New York on the 11th day of March, 1910, I, the undersigned referee, duly named and appointed by said judgment to sell said real property, do hereby give notice that I will sell the real property designated in said judgment at public auction at the Real Estate Exchange Salesrooms, Nos. 14-16 Vesey Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 5th day of April, 1910, at 12 o'clock noon, by Joseph P. Day, auctioneer. The said parcels of real property in said judgment directed to be sold are therein described as follows:

FIRST PARCEL.

ALL that certain lot, piece or parcel of land with the buildings and improvements thereon erected, situate, lying, and being in the City, County, and State of New York, and now in the Borough of Manhattan, in said city, being bounded and described as follows: BEGINNING at the corner formed by the intersection of the southerly side of 48th Street with the westerly side of Broadway as it now runs, and running thence westerly along the southerly side of 48th Street one hundred and twenty-eight (128) feet four (4) inches; thence southerly at right angles with 48th Street forty-seven (47) feet eleven (11) inches and one-quarter (¼) of an inch; running thence easterly parallel with 48th Street one hundred and forty (140) feet five (5) inches to the westerly side of Broadway as it now runs, and thence northerly along said westerly side of Broadway fifty-one (51) feet one (1) inch to the point or place of beginning.

Said premises will be offered as one plot and sold subject to the following liens and encumbrances:

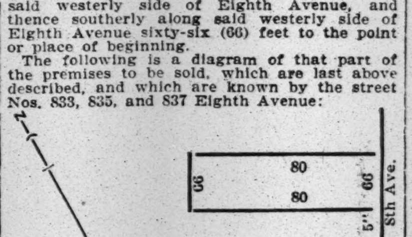
A lease expiring on the 1st day of May, 1911.

SECOND PARCEL.

ALL that certain lot, piece or parcel of land with the buildings and improvements thereon erected, situate, lying, and being in the City, County, and State of New York, and now in the Borough of Manhattan, in said city, bounded and described as follows: BEGINNING at a point on the westerly side of Eighth Avenue, distant twenty-three (23) feet five (5) inches northerly from the corner formed by the intersection of the said westerly side of Eighth Avenue with the northerly side of 50th Street, and running westerly on a line parallel with 50th Street eighty (80) feet; running thence northerly on a line parallel with Eighth Avenue sixty-six (66) feet; running thence easterly on a line parallel with 50th Street eighty (80) feet to the said westerly side of Eighth Avenue, and thence southerly along said westerly side of Eighth Avenue sixty-six (66) feet to the point or place of beginning.

The following is a diagram of that part of the premises to be sold, which are last above described, and which are known by the street Nos. 833, 835, and 837 Eighth Avenue:



Said premises will be offered as one plot and sold subject to the following liens and encumbrances:

A past due mortgage upon which there is unpaid the principal sum of $14,000;

Premises No. 833 Eighth Avenue is subject to a lease of the store and first living apartment expiring on the 1st day of May, 1911, and to rights of monthly tenants in possession.

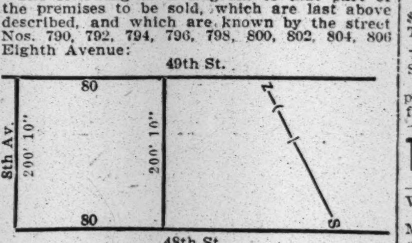
Premises No. 835 Eighth Avenue is subject to a lease of the store and first living apartment expiring on the 1st day of May, 1911, and also subject to the rights of monthly tenants in possession.

Premises No. 837 Eighth Avenue is subject to a lease of the store and basement expiring on the 1st day of May, 1911, and rights of monthly tenants in possession.

THIRD PARCEL.

ALL those certain lots, pieces or parcels of land with the buildings and improvements thereon erected, situate, lying, and being in the City, County, and State of New York, and now in the Borough of Manhattan, in said city, which, being taken together, are bounded and described as follows: BEGINNING at the corner formed by the intersection of the southerly side of 49th Street with the easterly side of Eighth Avenue, and running thence southerly along the easterly side of Eighth Avenue two hundred (200) feet ten (10) inches to the northerly side of 48th Street; running thence easterly along the northerly side of 48th Street eighty (80) feet; running thence northerly and parallel with Eighth Avenue two hundred (200) feet ten (10) inches to the said southerly side of 49th Street, and running thence westerly along said southerly side of 49th Street eighty (80) feet to the corner first above mentioned at the point or place of beginning.

The following is a diagram of that part of the premises to be sold, which are last above described, and which are known by the street Nos. 790, 792, 794, 796, 798, 800, 802, 804, 806 Eighth Avenue:



Said premises will be offered in two plots and sold subject to the following liens and encumbrances:

Premises No. 790 Eighth Avenue is subject to a lease expiring on the 1st day of May, 1913, with a provision for the cancellation thereof on ninety days' notice at any time subsequent to February 1st, 1911;

Premises No. 792 Eighth Avenue is subject to a past due mortgage upon which there is unpaid the principal sum of $9,000, and is also subject to a lease of the basement store and first living apartment expiring May 1st, 1911, and to the rights of monthly tenants in possession.

Premises No. 794 Eighth Avenue is subject to a past due mortgage upon which there is unpaid the principal sum of $9,000, and is also subject to a lease of the store, basement, and first living apartment expiring May 1st, 1911, and the rights of monthly tenants in possession.

Premises No. 796 Eighth Avenue is subject to a lease of the store and basement expiring May 1st, 1911, and also to the rights of monthly tenants in possession.

Premises No. 798 Eighth Avenue is subject to a lease of the store, basement, and first living apartment expiring May 1st, 1911, and to the rights of monthly tenants in possession.

Premises No. 802 Eighth Avenue is sold subject to a lease of the store and basement expiring May 1st, 1910, and the rights of monthly tenants in possession.

Premises No. 804 Eighth Avenue is sold subject to a lease of the store and basement and first living apartment expiring May 1st, 1911, and to the rights of monthly tenants in possession.

Premises No. 806 Eighth Avenue is sold subject to a past due mortgage upon which there is unpaid the principal sum of $7,000, and is also subject to a mortgage due on or about the 30th day of April, 1911.

Piano Sale
Extraordinary Ten Brand-New Pianos in Mahogany Cases—Choice $148
Terms $10 Down
$1 a Week

The reason for this: About a year ago an uptown storage concern loaned a well-known piano manufacturer a certain sum of money, taking as security a number of pianos of his manufacture. THE PIANOS at factory cost represented almost twice as much as the money loaned. During the year the manufacturer failed and was unable to pay the money borrowed from the storage company, which consequently took over the pianos.

Last week we bought the pianos for the amount of the loan, which enables us to make the above unprecedented offer. Each is in tiptop condition, thoroughly seasoned and exceptionally sweet toned.

Choice at $148

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—General rains continued in the Pacific States and widely scattered showers have fallen within the last twenty-four hours on the Middle Atlantic Coast and in the Southeast. Elsewhere over the country the weather was fair during the last twenty-four hours.

A change to somewhat cooler weather has taken place in the Middle Atlantic States and New England and a marked rise in temperature is reported from the Ohio and Upper Mississippi Valleys and the lake region. Temperatures much above the normal continue from the Mississippi Valley into the Rocky Mountain region.

Generally fair weather will continue Tuesday and Wednesday in the Mississippi Valley and the districts east thereof. The temperature will rise Tuesday in the Middle Atlantic States and New England, the lake region, and the Upper Ohio Valley, while temperatures above the normal will continue during the next several days over the greater portion of the country.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate to brisk southwest; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate south and southwest; South Atlantic Coast, light variable.

Steamships departing Tuesday for Europe will have moderate to brisk southwest and west winds and generally fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Eastern New York, New England, and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair and warmer Tuesday. Wednesday, partly cloudy; moderate to brisk south winds.

New Jersey—Fair and warmer Tuesday. Wednesday, partly cloudy; moderate south and southwest winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

3 A. M.	34	43	4 P. M.	44	51
6 A. M.	29	42	6 P. M.	45	46
9 A. M.	30	44	9 P. M.	38	42
12 M.	38	44	12 P. M.	34	41

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 43; at 8 P. M. it was 43. Maximum temperature, 52 degrees at 3:30 P. M.; minimum, 41 degrees at 5:15 A. M. Humidity, 55 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 55 per cent. at 8 P. M.

Want Philosophy.

Is it worth while to bother your friends looking for a position when for a trifle over two cents a word—15 cents a line, seven words to a line—you can make application to hundreds of people, any one of whom may wish to employ you, regardless of friendship?

It's all right to have friends, and to ask occasional favors of them, if necessary, but the man who gets along without asking favors is better off in the end.

Besides, you may get a better position by placing your advertisement in a good, clean newspaper.

* * *

The place that you get without favors is the place you are most likely to hold through merit, and the place held through merit is the place that is most likely to result in the best opportunities for advancement.

* * *

The New York Times is read by employers who want high-grade help, and if you are high grade you can get your best introduction by using the Want columns of this newspaper. The average employer knows that The Times is careful in the kind of advertising accepted, and that's one reason why the Situations Wanted is a column that brings good results.

* * *

Department stores use The Times when they require high-class help, and that is one indication of the quality of a medium. Managers of department stores make a study of such matters, and they know how to reach people.

* * *

The Times will write your advertisement for you, if you don't know how to write a good, effective advertisement yourself. Call or 'phone 1000 Bryant.

HOLD MRS. WOOLMAN FOR SMUGGLING

THIS CAUSED HER ARREST

Tried to Communicate with Senator Carter After She Was Held for Trial —Woman Won't Destroy Labels.

Some worthless foreign labels, kept for personal satisfaction, the customs officials say, led yesterday to the arrest as a smuggler of Mrs. Cornelia M. Woolman, a wealthy woman of Helena, Mon., widow of former United States Marshal J. P. Woolman, a passenger in from Bremen on the North German Lloyd liner George Washington. Following her arrest on the pier Mrs. Woolman was brought before United States Commissioner Russ in Hoboken and held for examination. Last night it was said that Mrs. Woolman was trying to get word of her predicament to Senator Carter of Montana.

The arrival of Mrs. Woolman did not attract much attention until the customs Inspector began an examination of the three trunks she brought from abroad. Mrs. Woolman made a simple declaration, saying that her foreign purchases did not amount to more than $100, the amount a traveler is allowed to bring in duty free. In looking through the trunks the Inspector noticed a number of gowns which looked new and seemed of foreign make, and he called Appraiser Bonk to take stock.

Mrs. Woolman, the officials say, insisted that the gowns were old ones which she had worn in America, and she was indignant that her word should be questioned. The Appraiser, however, was not satisfied, and he went carefully over each, in search of a foreign label. He could find none, though convinced from the advance style of the dresses that they had been purchased on the other side. Mrs. Woolman was asked again whether she had not made a mistake in her declaration. She had not. The two officials called Deputy Surveyor Isaac Harris's attention to the case, and in turn Deputy Surveyor Raczkiewicz, in charge of baggage examination, was sent for.

When he arrived he found the other offficials rather embarrassed, and Mrs. Woolman kept insisting that an outrage was being perpetrated. This was her first voyage across the Atlantic, she said, and she thought her treatment on this side was most discourteous.

Raczkiewicz went over the goods with her. He told her that she had a chance then to amend her declaration and rectify any mistake. She again refused.

She was asked whether she had anything dutiable on her person, and she reluctantly produced three strings of coral from inside her coat. This settled the affair, so far as the customs men were concerned, and Mrs. Woolman was ordered back on board the George Washington. There she was searched by a matron. The result of that search, according to the customs records, was a coral bracelet, a pearl and diamond brooch, and several valuable rings. The jewelry, with two of Mrs. Woolman's trunks, was sent to the Public Stores. The question of ownership of the rings is still a matter of dispute. The passenger declared that they had been in her possession for years.

It was because of an unexpected find made when the woman was being searched that the woman's arrest was determined upon. In her possession were found a half dozen labels of French dressmakers, which the customs officers believed had been taken from the gowns in the trunks.

In not destroying the labels which might cause her trouble Mrs. Woolman did as other women before have done, the customs officials say. Women keep the labels so that after getting home they may sew them in the gowns again, proving to admiring friends that they are of fashionable foreign make, and as evidence that the great dressmakers of the Old World have been patronized.

MINING COMPANY FAILS.

Petition Filed Against Costa Rican Corporation and Receiver Is Appointed

A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Montezuma Mines of Costa Rica, a Maine corporation, with corporate office at Portland, business office at 45 Broadway, and mines at Montezuma, Costa Rica, by the following creditors: James W. Johnson, $74,000, money loaned; W. H. Ritter, $700, assigned claim for legal services; William E. Sperling, $51, stationery, all of New Brunswick, N. J., and the Goulds Manufacturing Company, Utica, N. Y., $25, valve parts.

It was alleged that on March 3 the company admitted in writing its inability to pay its debts and its willingness to be adjudged bankrupt by a meeting of the Directors held at New Brunswick, Oliver Smith, Secretary. Judge Hough appointed Lindsay Russell receiver, with a bond of $5,000, with authority to continue business, to maintain and repair the mining and mill properties, to make additions to its mill as may be necessary to bring the daily capacity up to 100 tons, to make replacements or repairs to the timbering of the mine workings, and to do whatever may be necessary to keep open and protect the mine workings.

The liabilities are $74,952, to seven creditors, and nominal assets are $3,008,098, consisting of mines, plant, equipment, mill, water rights, leases, &c., at a cost to the company of $3,000,000; cash on hand and in bank, $798; office furniture, $300, and bullion concentrates, supposed to be in transit from Costa Rica to New York, $7,000.

BOND HOUSE CREDITORS MEET

A meeting of creditors of Fisk & Robinson, bankers and brokers, of 35 Cedar Street, was held yesterday before Stanley W. Dexter, referee in bankruptcy, at 71 Broadway. Stanley Brown was elected trustee with a bond of $50,000. Both partners in the failed firm were briefly examined. They said they had turned over all their property to the receiver. When the referee inquired if there was to be an offer of a composition the attorneys informed him that there were too many intricate reclamation proceedings pending to offer any composition at present.

A balance sheet of Feb. 1, the day the bankruptcy petition was filed, was submitted, which gives liabilities of $6,968,500 and assets of $6,700,784, deficiency $267,716. Of the liabilities $5,313,976 are secured by loans payable, consisting of time loans, $2,828,392; demand, $2,331,000; firm's proportion of syndicate loans, $154,584; interest accrued, $17,641, with bank balances applied on loans of $13,094 to be deducted.

Among the secured creditors were the Bank of Montreal, $100,000; Bankers Trust Company, $200,000; Chase National Bank, $100,000; Commercial National Bank, Chicago, $200,000; Corn Exchange National Bank, Chicago, $164,750; Francis Brothers & Co., St. Louis, $161,872; Harvey Fisk & Sons, $325,000; Great Southern Lumber Company, Buffalo, $406,104; Hanover National Bank, $100,000; Hibernian Banking Association, Chicago, $100,000; Irving National Exchange Bank, $375,000; Knickerbocker Trust Company, $100,000; Merchants' Loan and Trust Company, Chicago, $189,500; Merchants' National Bank, Boston, $105,000; Metropolitan Trust Company, $372,200; Muller, Schall & Co., $253,104; National Copper Bank, $150,000; Provident Loan and Trust Company, Philadelphia, $200,000; Trust Company of America, $90,000; Union Trust Company, $100,000, and J. N. Vance, Wheeling, West Va., $138,050.

Among the unsecured cerditors are the American National Bank, Richmond, Va., $101,700; C. F. Childs, Chicago, $102,024; J. T. Jones, Gulfport, Miss., $151,807; Kansas City Western Railway Company, $40,275; Keystone Telephone Company, Philadelphia, $282,306; St. Louis, Rocky Mountain & Pacific Company, Rator, New Mexico, $54,076, and W. H. Tracy, Nashua, N. H., $50,508.

OPERATION PERFORMED AT SEA

Patient on Cedric Had to be Strapped to Operating Table.

A difficult operation was successfully performed on a cabin passenger on the White Star liner Cedric while that vessel was in midocean, coming here from the Mediterranean. The vessel reached this port yesterday, and the patient was so far advanced in health that after a few more days in the ship's hospital he will be able to land.

On March 12 Raffaelo Gentile was taken ill, and Dr. S. M. Prior found he was suffering with a strangulated hernia. After a consultation with Dr. Giuseppe Mola, a passenger, Gentile was told that an immediate operation was necessary. The vessel was running through rough seas, and Capt. Bartlett suggested that the operation be postponed, but the physicians declared this could not be done.

The vessel was slowed down and the man strapped to the operating table, but to use the knife was difficult, for the vessel rolled and pitched, and neither surgeon could use more than one hand, for with the other he had to cling to the table or wall for support. Despite these adverse conditions the surgeons successfully accomplished their task.

When the Cedric reached port Gentile was able to be on deck in a steamer chair. The doctors said that the case was a remarkable one when the condition of the man and the difficulties under which the operation was performed were considered.

Money Left by Late Peter Wyckoff for Reformed Church.

Under the will of the late Peter Wyckoff, millionaire farmer and real estate operator in Brooklyn, which was offered for probate yesterday, most of his fortune is left to his family, but a codicil provides that $50,000 be invested for the General Synod of the Reformed Church in America, the income to be used to aid poor theological students at the Theological Seminary of that Church at New Brunswick, N. J.

Another codicil, dated Aug. 18, 1906, leaves to the heirs of Mrs. Anna R. Van Nostrand, a deceased daughter, her share of his property. Mrs. Sarah Maria Streeter, another daughter, receives the residue of the estate in Kings and Queens Counties, and Charles Wyckoff, the only son, the income of $50,000. No estimate of the value of the estate is given in the will. Milford B. Streeter, the testator's son-in-law, and Samuel N. Meeker, a friend, are appointed executors.

CRISS CREDITORS CONFER.

Propose to Unite in Agreement Before Bringing Suit Against Keene.

Creditors of the firm of Roberts, Hall & Criss met yesterday afternoon at the Lawyer's Club. Last week the committee issued a report, in which it said that the position of Mr. Criss and his firm was not due to any wrongdoing on his part, but to the manipulations of James R. Keene individually and as manager of the two pools in Hocking stock, and that Mr. Keene and the members of these pools should be compelled to meet the losses which the creditors suffered, rather than Mr. Criss.

Yesterday's meeting was attended by some of the large brokerage firms of the street. It was agreed that John A. Garver of the law firm of Sherman & Sterling should be employed as counsel for the creditors, and a committee, consisting of Messrs. John G. Saxe, Charles Lee Anderson, and James H. Wainwright, was appointed to present to the creditors a written agreement regarding action to be taken, the same to be binding on all if signed by creditors representing 50 per cent. of the amount due.

TAKING MORE KANAWHA STOCK

Lake Shore and the Chesapeake Willing to Buy Minority Holdings Also.

The holders of the minority stock of the Kanawha & Michigan have received an offer from the Lake Shore and the Chesapeake & Ohio at the same figure as that paid by the two roads for the majority, providing at least two-thirds of the 44,000 shares of minority stock are put in. It is understood that the minority stockholders' committee, headed by George D. Mackay, has already received the consent of the holders of more than 50 per cent. of the amount of stock needed to make the offer effective.

The minority stockholders have for four years been striving for a dividend, but so far without success. The surplus earnings of the property have been put back into improvements, and meanwhile the stockholders have had to wait. The majority stock of the road is held by the Hocking Valley and is part of the deal for the sale of the Hocking Valley to the Chesapeake & Ohio.

HARVARD BEATS PRINCETON.

Wins Debate in Opposing Government Income Tax.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 21.—Harvard won one leg of the triangular debate to-night with Princeton and Yale by defeating the Princeton team, which met the Crimson here. In both subject, matter, and delivery, according to the unanimous decision of the Judges, Harvard was superior.

The Harvard team was made up of H. Potter, '10, Gainesville, Texas; Homer Breland, '11, Meridian, Miss., and J. D. Ellis, '11, Newport, Ky.

The Princeton team, which defended the affirmative of the question, "Resolved that the Federal Government should have the power to impose an income tax, not apportioned among the States according to population," was made up of C. Belknap, '12; S. A. Hunter, '10, and P. S. Walters, '10.

The Home of Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes

Mainly About Ourselves.

NOT CONTENT with selling the best clothes made in America—those of Hart, Schaffner & Marx—our constant endeavor has been to make our service to our customers the best in the world.

That we have succeeded in no small measure is proved by the steadily increasing number of our friends.

May we not number you among them?

Let us show you the style, the quality, the value of our Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes—To-day.

Our Spring Stocks have recently arrived, and now you will see just what the greatest tailors in the world have made for this Spring.

Among their many excellent qualities the chiefest is—STYLE—

Style is a hard term to define properly; but come in, try on a suit, see how its lines improve your figure, how well you look in it; then you will realize why we say that Hart, Schaffner & Marx Style cannot be equalled at any price.

That style will LAST—for every fibre in the material of every Hart, Schaffner & Marx garment is ALL WOOL. That fact is guaranteed you by Hart, Schaffner & Marx and by us.

Spring Suits, $18 to $50.
Spring Overcoats, $15 to $40.
